CITY WILL BEGIN SWEEPING INQUIRY INTO CONTRACTS

Mayor Orders Corporation Counsel to Take Charge and "Dig Deep."

$62,000,000 IS INVOLVED

'SURFACE ONLY SCRATCHED'

Lockwood Committee Handicapped by the Department of Justice's Inanition, Says Counsel.

Decision by the Board of Estimate to have a sweeping investigation of city contracts independent of the Lockwood Committee. This will affect $62,000,000 in contracts entered into by the city in the last eighteen months.

Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien ordered by Mayor Hylan to conduct the city's independent investigation of contracts and directed to dig deep into the Court House contracts and order from all department heads, "the Controller too," all the information he required.

Acceptance by the city of the suggestion of Samuel Untermyer, counsel to the Lockwood Committee, of a plan whereby work on city contracts may continue without endangering the livelihood of the workingmen or the contractors.

Rejection by Mr. Untermyer of the attempt of the Board of Estimate to have the Lockwood Committee investigate all city contracts.

Declaration by Mr. Untermyer that the Lockwood Committee has merely scratched the surface of a few small monopolistic combinations in the building situation and his promise that the greater combinations would be attacked if the co-operation of the Federal authorities was obtained. He charged that thus far the Federal authorities have merely co-operated "in words, but not in deeds," asserting that the committee's "greatest handicap" was the Department of Justice, "through its inanition." He further declared that the Department of Justice suggested that the committee exchange evidence with the department and that when this was done the department got the committee's valuable evidence and the committee got "a gold brick."

Mr. Untermyer's Plan.

Mr. Untermyer's plan was as follows:

First, where contracts are let to single contractors, the contractor is to turn over to the city the names of his subcontractors so that it may be learned whether the contractor has been victimized by a ring acting collusively.

Second, that the city retain 25 per cent. of the amount of the contract as a fund to reimburse the city if it should be found that the city has been victimized.

Third, every contractor should be required to agree that future payments made on account of contracts are made entirely without prejudice to the city, being able to recover if collusion is shown.

Edmund L. Mooney, counsel for George S. Backer, wealthy builder, indicted for perjury, asked Judge Joseph F. Mulqueen in General Sessions yesterday to dismiss the indictment on the ground that the Lockwood Committee was not appointed by an act of the Legislature, but by a concurrent resolution of both houses. He maintained that the life of the committee, because it had come into being without action of any sort by the Governor, ended when the Legislature adjourned sine die, and that after the Legislature adjourned the committee had no right to administer an oath and to compel the attendance of witnesses.

Mr. Untermyer, opposing the motion, argued that to grant such a motion would set aside the precedent of seventy-five years. He referred to the Lexow, Mazet and Thompson committees having operated virtually under the same authority, and said that the commission in the canal investigation had operated without the participation of the Governor in the action. He asserted that Mooney's argument was not serious, and Judge Mulqueen said he thought it was "a very serious question." He took the matter under advisement and promised an early decision.

There were several lively tilts between Mr. Untermyer and members of the Board of Estimate yesterday morning during the two hours' joint session of the board and the Lockwood Committee. The board met before the joint meeting and adopted a resolution offering to have all city contracts turned over to the Lockwood Committee.

Inquiry to Be Open to Public.

After the joint meeting the board met again and adopted the resolution to investigate the city contracts. The investigation may possibly begin on Monday and the sessions will be open to the public. What form the investigation will take or who the investigating officers will be has not yet been settled.

The committee probably will begin with the contracts for school equipment which Mr. Untermyer said showed collusion in about 75 per cent. of the contracts. He believed that many school

Indians Seek Citizenship Without Reservations

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 15.—Enactment of Federal legislation to grant "citizenship without reservations" to members of their race will be urged by the Society of American Indians, according to delegates to the ninth annual conference opening here tomorrow.

Every tribe in the United States is represented in the society, it was asserted, and delegates from virtually all are expected to attend the all-week conference.

Scope of the proposed action will be decided at the conference, delegates explained. Two of the principal measures which the society probably will advocate will insist that full citizenship be granted all Indians born in the United States, and that the conferring of citizenship shall entail no surrender of the tribal rights, delegates asserted.

At present, delegates said, approximately 300,000 Indians, representing about two-thirds of the population of the race in this country, are not citizens.

ASK HOOVER TO AID IN NEW LABOR CRISIS

N. Y. CENTRAL LAYS OFF 500

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—While it is announced that Herbert Hoover will confer with the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor tomorrow, reports that he might be chosen as a general mediator to seek peaceful settlement of disputes between capital and labor were denied by officials of the federation. The conference, it was explained today, will concern the "stabilization of production."

It is known that the council has been very much disturbed because many industrial plants are shutting down and throwing workmen out of employment. Mr. Hoover's advices on the relations between labor and industry will be sought and a program formulated.

Labor, so it is said here, is determined to make a fight against reduction of wages, but finds itself checkmated because it cannot interfere with manufacturers closing down their plants. This is the great problem with the labor leaders at the present time, it is asserted.

The Executive Council of the federation continued its discussion today of methods by which differences between labor and capital might be adjusted peacefully. There was no indication of what progress was being made, however, except that it was stated officially the meeting would probably continue several days. All sessions are executive and no statement of the matters under consideration has been given out.

Suggestions that the federation planned to select some widely known man to act as its intermediary with capital in future labor controversies were characterized by officials as "absurd." Those who would discuss the suggestions which named Herbert Hoover as the man likely to be selected declared the report baseless.

"Neither Mr. Hoover, nor any other man outside of the President of the United States," was in a position to render beneficial services in such capacity, one official of the federation asserted.

There were reports at federation headquarters tonight that the Executive Council had under consideration legislation affecting the adjustment of disputes which it would urge labor's friends in Congress to push. Members of the council refused comment, however, and there was no surface indication that any definite steps had been taken in that direction.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15.—One thousand or more employes of the Philadelphia Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, between Overbrook and Harrisburg, will be laid off during the present week.

The reduction will be general throughout all departments and will include trainmen, shopmen, clerks and freight agents.

In accordance with the policy of the Pennsylvania to reduce running expenses to as near a pre-war basis as possible, there will be a reduction in the ranks of the employes of the Philadelphia terminal division in this city in the near future.

Many Firms Reduce Staffs.

ALBANY, Nov. 15.—Four hundred shopmen employed by the New York Central Railroad Company at the West Albany repair shops and 100 other workers were to be laid off tonight, officials of the company announced today.

The Boston & Albany Railroad posted a notice that 10 per cent. of its working force of 750 here would be made idle next Wednesday. A slump in business is responsible for the reductions, company officials say.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 15.—The Norton Company, manufacturers of abrasives, today started a forty-hour week for its employes because of a reduction of business.

The Graton & Knight Manufacturing Company, belt and leather makers, is put on a five-day week: the Bradley Car Works has cut its force from 1,000 to 800 men, and the Whittall Carpet Mills are closed entirely for a week at least.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 15.—The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company today put into effect a cut from 54 to 48 hours a week in its working schedule, affecting 1,800 employes. At the same time the Moore Drop Forge Company abolished its eight-hour night shift, laying off between 700 and 750 men. The Westinghouse Company, according to Works Manager A. B. Reynders, expects to avoid reduction in the number employed.

CALLS VESSELS DANGEROUS

REINSTATED, OUSTED AGAIN

Thomas A. Purtell, a former hull inspector for the United States Shipping Board, yesterday told the Congressional Select Committee on Shipping Board Operations that he found the work on some vessels so defective he could "push the rivets from their plates with his fingers." He reported to his superiors. Nothing was done. Then he sent a box of defective rivets to President Wilson with a complaint as to the quality of work being done for the United States Government. He received, he said, a reply from Joseph P. Tumulty saying the matter would be called to the President's attention. Following this he was dismissed from the service.

"They gave me only just about enough time to get my clothes and get out of the yard," he testified.

Purtell at this time was assigned to the plant of the Submarine Boat Corporation at Port Newark. He had been "a riveter of the old school"; but the work he had inspected on Hulls 13 and 14 was "the fiercest" he had ever seen in the thirty-five years of his experience as a shipfitter. Men of two months' experience were actively engaged in a trade it had taken him five yars to learn.

"Kept Afloat by Good Luck."

The vessels they turned out, said Purtell, were so unsafe that he could have been induced to sleep aboard one only if it were tied alongside a pier, and even then he'd "sleep with one eye open.

"If they kept afloat it was more good luck than anything else," he asserted.

The witness submitted to the committee a large sheet of paper on which he had made rough drawings, with pencil, illustrative of the different types of defective rivets he had found in the hulls to which he was assigned as an inspector. He said most of this defective work was passed by inexperienced inspectors.

"But they couldn't fool me," he declared, "because I once did all those tricks myself."

This reference was to methods employed by riveters to conceal defective work by the use of red lead and other devices to make the rivets seem tight when they were otherwise.

Purtell lives at 24 Eighth Avenue. He testified that following his discharge from the Submarine Boat Corporation's plant he wrote a second letter to the President. Mr. Tumulty again replied, assuring him, the witness said, that he would be reinstated. Shortly after this he received orders to report to the Shooter's Island plant of the Standard Shipbuilding Corporation as an inspector.

"How do you explain your reinstatement?" asked Representative Patrick H. Kelly of Michigan, who attended the hearing for the first time.

"I can't say any more than that I received a letter from Joseph P. Tumulty, assuring me I'd be reinstated," said the witness. "Later I received a letter from the Shipping Board office at Philadelphia, requesting me to call there, and I was reinstated and finally got my back pay."

"You don't know what influence, other than Tumulty's letter, was used to bring about your reinstatement?" Representative Kelly asked.

His Reputation Precedes Him.

Questioned further, the witness said he did not know whether the matter ever was brought to President Wilson's attention, but he assumed that he was discharged because of his letter to the President.

At Shooter's Island, following his reinstatement, he said it was "evident that my reputation had preceded me for I found I was out of favor."

Many cases of defective riveting were reported to his superiors there, he said, and when they failed to act, he threatened to take his complaints directly to

British-Soviet Trade Treaty Expected Within Two Weeks

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, Nov. 16.—The Daily Chronicle's political correspondent says it is understood that a draft agreement with the Moscow Government for opening commercial relations with Russia will come before the British Cabinet this week. It has already been considered by the Italian Cabinet.

The correspondent adds there is confident expectation in Ministerial quarters that an agreement will be completed and in operation within the next fortnight.

HARDING ESCAPES TO BROWNSVILLE

PLAYS FOURSOME AT GOLF

Special to The New York Times.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Nov. 15.—President-elect Harding, despite clearing skies and a brilliant sun, promising relief from the Texas "norther" that has kept him shivering for the past four days, left Point Isabel this afternoon and reached Brownsville at 3 o'clock. Mr. Harding decided that the narrow-gauge Rio Grande Valley Railroad and its "locomotive" had its share of the honors, and as the Brownsville road had dried somewhat the flight to the comforts of Brownsville was made by automobile. With the exception of a five-mile detour, Mr. and Mrs. Harding with a number of their friends reached here without trouble. The remainder of the party traveled by the narrow-gauge road, this time without incident.

After a foursome at the Brownsville Country Club with Senator Hale and Senator Frelinghuysen and William R. West, a Brownsville lawyer, the President-elect went to the home of R. B. Creager, where he and Mrs. Harding will stay until their departure Wednesday morning for New Orleans and Panama.

Senator Harding has put up, smilingly, with what must have been trying conditions. Virtually marooned by a stinging "norther" in a little fishing village, more Mexican than American, he was kept from the diversions to which he looked forward eagerly the last few weeks of the campaign. Hospitable Texans, owners of ranches of tens of thousands of acres, were anxious to do anything possible to relieve the monotony. They were ready to place at the disposal of the President-elect and his friends their saddle horses, hunting dogs and guns in a territory that is a hunters' paradise, and the fact that the President-elect could not visit the lower Rio Grande Valley and was unable to familiarize himself with the problems of ranch life along the Mexican border has been an acute disappointment to thousands of the valley inhabitants.

Senator Fall of New Mexico, Chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Mexican Affairs, arrived here late this afternoon and dined with Senator and Mrs. Harding at the Creager home. Mr. Fall expected to have a half hour conference with the President-elect before returning to New Mexico, but declined to discuss its nature. On the train from San Antonio Senator Fall met Alias L. Torres, First Secretary of the Washington Mission of the Mexican Provisional Government, who came here with pictures of Francisco Villa engaged in the peaceful pursuits of ranch life.

"From what I know of Villa he will not follow that occupation long," Senator Fall remarked.

Villa, he insists, will no longer be a trouble maker.

It is understood that Torres wishes an audience with Senator Harding, but in view of the President-elect's consistent attitude in refusing to make any appointments with representatives of any faction in Mexico, such a conference is not regarded as probable. Senator Harding has scheduled one conference for tomorrow, however. That will be with Governor Hobby of Texas, who will arrive here tomorrow noon from Houston.

Several members of Senator Harding's party went across the Rio Grande to Matamoros in Mexico for dinner this evening, but neither Senator nor Mrs. Harding accompanied them. The party included Senator and Mrs. Frelinghuysen, Senator Hale, Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Sawyer, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Scobey, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Jennings and Jess W. Smith. They dined at a French restaurant popular with Americans.

Jewelry Valued at Thousands Left in Taxicab By Sister-in-Law of Justice Franklin C. Hoyt

Mrs. Ella A. Moffit, wife of Dr. Albert R. Moffit of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and a sister-in-law of Justice Franklin C. Hoyt of the Children's Court, reported to the police of the East Eighty-eighth Street Station shortly after her arrival in the city last night to attend the Horse Show, that she had left in a taxicab a green traveling bag in which were thousands of dollars' worth of jewelry.

Mrs. Moffit said she entered the taxicab outside of the Grand Central Terminal and got out at Justice Hoyt's home, 64 East Eighty-sixth Street.

She said the traveling bag contained a necklace of pearls, a diamond clasp with initials "E. A. B.," a lady's ring set with two diamonds, a pair of gold clover-leaf earrings containing diamonds, a gold ring containing a large ruby and some diamonds, three pearl shirt studs, a scarf-pin with six sapphires, two gold brooches, a bowknot pin containing diamonds, a gold wrist watch, $30 in cash, a bunch of keys and toilet articles.

Detectives Harry Sommer of the East Eighty-eighth Street Station questioned taxicab drivers at the Grand Central Terminal, but up to 1 o'clock this morning the traveling bag had not been recovered.

Dr. Albert R. Moffit told THE NEW YORK TIMES over the telephone from his home in South Road, Poughkeepsie, early this morning that he had not heard of his wife's loss of her jewels nor did he know that she had them with her at all. He said he did not know the value of the gems.

CONSTANTINE PARTY WINS IN GREECE OVER VENIZELOS

FORMER KING MAY RETURN

CABINET ANNOUNCES PLANS

If Final Returns Are Against It, Government Will Be Turned Over at Once to Opposition.

ATHENS, Nov. 15 (Associated Press).—The Government in an official announcement this afternoon virtually admits the defeat of the Venizelists in the general elections throughout Greece yesterday.

"It is evident that the Government was mistaken in its expectations regarding the elections, although definite results are not yet known. It will await these results so as to turn over the power to the party designated by the popular suffrage, in conformity with the Constitution, without awaiting the convocation of the Chamber."

The definite result of the elections is not yet known, but, according to returns from Attica and Boeotia, the Government list has been beaten. The struggle continues in the provinces.

The result of the army vote has not yet been received, but it is expected to favor the Government.

The Venizelists are alarmed, but consider that nothing is certain as yet, because the results of only 400 out of 3,000 districts are known.

If Premier Venizelos was unsuccessful in obtaining a majority of twenty-five votes in the Chamber of Deputies, it is considered here he will be unable to solve the dynastic problem. Early indications were that he could not definitely, according to the returns, find 250 Venizelist Deputies.

Incomplete returns of the voting in Athens indicate a slight majority in this city for the opposition to the Venizelist Party, while scattering returns from the provinces show opposition gains.

There have been a number of serious election fights in Athens. Troops were fired on at Saloniki and elsewhere. Soldiers were stationed at the homes of the Opposition leaders all night in order to protect them. Many persons fear that there will be further trouble.

The announcement by the Cabinet that it will resign if it is beaten in the elections is considered here as a significant indicaton of the results of the balloting. The Venizelist organs are gloomy, their editors tacitly admitting that the Premier will not have a majority, even if he is not defeated.

The Opposition claims the election of 200 Deputies, with a majority in Old Greece.

It is rumored that if Venizelos goes down to defeat the British will prevent the landing of ex-King Constantine, declaring tha his return to power is impossible.

The Opposition's surprising vote is attributed in some quarters to over-confidence on the part of the Venizelists, the Premier's absence from Greece during part of the campaign and his interest in foreign affairs, as well as to the silent organization of the Gounarists. It was only today that many of the Opposition Deputies made their appearance, wearing the olive branch, the emblem of their party.

Opposition journals printed a dispatch which they alleged had been sent by King George of England to Queen Sophia, wife of former King Constantine. This purported telegram raid:

"Dearest Cousin: I am glad you will soon return to Greece."

They also printed assertions that public opinion in the United States favored the return of Constantine to the throne. Newspapers loyal to Premier Venizelos countered with an interview with Edward Capps, American Minister here, denying these statements. He was quoted as saying that the Americans, as well as the Allies, did not favor Constantine.

Not a Pro-German Victory.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—In official Greek circles here it is said the defeat of Premier Venizelos in Greece would in no sense be considered a victory for the Germanophile party. Greek officials assert that defeat would come not in the Government's foreign policy, but on purely home political issues, the revolution and the necessarily strong wartime Government methods, which adversely affected the interests of many persons who were now expressing their dissatisfaction at the polls.

Greeks here asserted that, while it was impossible before the full returns of the election were analyzed to forecast the course of events, it would appear probable that if Venizelos was defeated there would be a business Cabinet formed, without political color, to carry on current affairs until the Chamber of Deputies could decide on the Government's policy.

It was pointed out that the Opposition, unlike the Government, was not a solid party, but was split into five or six groups, of which the Germanophiles were but one, and that it would be a difficult task to form from the Opposition a majority party. It was added that there was a possibility that if none of these groups could obtain a certain

LEAGUE ASSEMBLY OPENS, HAILS WILSON; MOTTA APPEALS TO AMERICA TO COME IN; BAR REMOVED ON AUSTRIA'S APPLICATION

America Wholly Aloof from the League Meeting; Will Not Send Even an Unofficial Observer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The American Government will take no part whatever in the first meeting of the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva.

No person, either officially or unofficially, will attend the sessions on behalf of the United States, it was learned authoritatively today. There will not even be an observer present, and the American Minister to Switzerland, whose residence is at Berne, has received no instructions to go to Geneva.

The State Department is taking this course undoubtedly with President Wilson's approval. The League now has been functioning in various ways for six months. The statement was authorized at the State Department today that the United States Government had not been represented throughout that period, even unofficially, in the work of the League.

President Wilson is understood to be just as strongly in favor of the League now as he ever was and still hopeful that the United States will some day be a member of it, but the action of the Senate, followed by the election of a Republican President, has created a situation to which it is difficult for the present Administration to make any kind of effective move with respect to the League.

SOVIET TROOPS IN SEBASTOPOL

AMERICANS AID REFUGEES

Our Warships Help Save Them from Bolsheviki and Red Cross Tends Them.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 15 (Associated Press)—Sebastopol fell to the Russian Soviet forces at 5 o'clock Sunday evening, after the evacuation plans had been fully carried out, according to word received here today.

General Wrangel, it is stated, was the last to leave, going aboard the cruiser Korniloff, cheered by his troops.

Baroness Wrangel and the various missions in Sebastopol were taken aboard the French warship Waldeck-Rousseau.

The five red armies concentrating against him, General Wrangel informed the newspaper correspondents at Sebastopol, numbered more than 100,000, as proved by captured papers. Twenty thousand of these were cavalry, divided into three groups. The cavalry under General Budenny, who left the anti-Bolshevist forces and joined the Bolsheviki, suffered heavily, according to General Wrangel, particularly in officers.

General Wrangel concluded:

"During the five months' struggle in the northern Tauride the five Red armies were occupied with our troops, so that we played our part in the Polish victory. The western world, which is menaced no less than we are by the Bolsheviki, ought to take into consideration the rôle our army played in the Bolshevist defeat before Warsaw."

Fire Destroys Red Cross Stores.

A fire which originated through an accident destroyed the highly valuable stores of the American Red Cross at Sebastopol. A portion of the goods of the American Foreign Trade Corporation and other foreign firms was saved.

The American Red Cross at Constantinople is aiding the refugees, caring for the sick and wounded and furnishing clothing and other supplies.

Allied officers arriving here from Sebastopol assert the belief that it will be possible to hold back the flood of Red forces from the hills of Theodosia until the non-combatants have been evacuated. Ten thousand of Wrangel's troops are said to have been taken off the peninsula.

Rear Admiral McCully has sailed for Yalta on board the American torpedo boat destroyer Overton. The destroyers Whipple, John Edwards and Humphreys, after bringing wounded non-combatants here, have started back to Yalta and Theodosia to continue the evacuation. The destroyer Fox arrived here yesterday with a party of fifty American Red Cross workers who have been engaged behind General Wrangel's lines.

Thirteen thousand other refugees arrived from Sebastopol yesterday, but because of the lack of accommodations in the city they are still aboard ships moored in the Bosphorus. Several thousand more are due and it is understood 30,000 have been permitted to take passage from the Crimean city. It was found impossible to provide ships for the entire population. Two thousand wounded men have been distributed between the French and Russian hospitals.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 15.—Sebastopol was evacuated last night in good order.

General Wrangel left aboard a Russian cruiser filled with soldiers. Three transports packed with General Wrangel's troops, estimated at 20,000, and another filled with wounded accompanied the cruiser, whose destination is not known here.

About 10,000 of Wrangel's troops are reported to be evacuating Theodosia.

ARMENIAN CAPITAL IS NOW EVACUATED

PEOPLE FLEE FROM TURKS

Armenian Forces Retreat Into Georgia, Which Is Mobilizing for War.

Erivan, capital of the Armenian Republic, has been evacuated, communications between the great railway junction of Alexandropol and Tiflis, capital of Georgia, have been indefinitely cut, completely isolating Armenia from the outside world, and the road from Ardahan to Ardanautch is jammed with Armenian women and children fleeing down the valley of the Tchorok River toward Batum, according to cable dispatches received by the headquarters of the Near East Relief here yesterday.

At the same time reports were received confirming that Mustapha Kemal Pasha, in person at the head of the Turkish Nationalist forces operating against Armenia, has ordered the Georgian Government to evacuate Batum, on the Black Sea, and that the Georgian Army has been mobilized to defend that port.

The first message reached the Near East Relief through Edouard Neville, President, and Auguste de Morsier, Secretary, of the International Phil-Armenian Conference, now in session at Geneva, in conjunction with the assembly of the League of Nations. It reads:

"Latest news reports Ardahan-Ardanautch road jammed with Armenian women and children from Kars and Alexandropol fleeing before the army of Mustapha Kemal toward Batum.

"Armenian Army has been forced to evacuate Erivan, its ammunition being exhausted.

"Georgia is mobilizing.

"Unfed and shoeless refugees are crowding into Tiflis for possible safety.

"The Phil-Armenian League appeals to the International Red Cross, the Near East Relief and the Lord Mayor's Committee to rush food, medicines and clothing to Batum."

The second message came from Mrs. Veronica Harris of Santa Cruz, Cal., acting as temporary head of the Near East relief work at Tiflis. Captain Ernest Yarrow, Director General of Near East relief in Transcaucasia, is with the remaining American relief workers who refused to quit Alexandropol when the Turkish advance reached that city. Mrs. Harris's cable reads:

"Following official communication received from the commandant of the forces of the Armenian Republic Nov. 8:

"'The military command of the Armenian Republic was obliged to send part of our troops operating against the Turks in the region of Alexandropol against the Tartar rebels who were acting in our rear near Mount Ag-Baba. These circumstances made necessary negotiations, the result of which was a temporary armistice (with the Turks) from Nov. 7.'

"The French mission in Tiflis reports Alexandropol taken. Have no news from Alexandropol or Kars, but all Americans believed to be safe. Communications between Alexandropol and Tiflis cut indefinitely."

Cable dispatches reaching the Near East Relief headquarters Friday from Captain Serge Bekzetian, American diplomatic representative in Tiflis, stated that the remnant of the Armenian army retreating from Alexandropol had withdrawn directly northward along the Arpa-Chai (Barley River) into the Georgian Province of Akhalkalaki. One hundred thousand refugees were said to have fled before the Turks across the frontiers of Armenia into Georgia, as well as into the interior of Armenia. The cablegram said these refugees were without food, clothing or shelter, and that the country into which they had fled was barren of supplies.

Bolivia, Peru and Chile Will Try to Settle Boundary Question.

GENEVA, Nov. 15 (By telephone to Paris).—For the first time in the history of mankind forty-one nations of the world sat together in common council, when the initial sessions of the League of Nations Assembly opened here today. White, black and brown men sat beneath the same roof and under the same presiding officer.

In serious purpose they came. It was impossible, gazing on the impressive scene, where were represented a majority of the people of the earth, to believe that "the League is dead." All important countries of the world were represented in that Hall of Nations, except unhappy Russia, unrepentant Germany, uncertain America and unasked Mexico.

It is, indeed, a huge task that America will undertake if she asks these forty-one nations to cast aside the work begun today and start anew on another association of nations. At this meeting one drifts to the opinion that such an undertaking is impossible. And yet, not for a moment today did the shadow fall to fall across the Assembly. America's absence has left an aching void, and that all nations hope it will be filled was shown by the burst of applause which greeted M. Motta, President of the Swiss delegation, when, as host, he asked the permission of the Assembly that a message of greeting should be sent to President Wilson.

Motta Appeals to America.

"I would add to this message of thanks," he said, "the hope, or rather the keenly felt desire, that the United States of North America should before long take her rightful place in the League. A country which is a world in itself, which is blessed with all the riches of the earth, a democracy which absorbs all the races of the world and has given them a common language and a common Government, a people which is affected always by the highest ideals cannot abstain from concurrence in the great ideal and work which we are met here to forward.

"America, which at the critical moment of the war hurled her weight, ideas, resources and armies into the scale and thus decided the fate of continents, and Europe in particular; the native land of George Washington, the father of liberty, and Abraham Lincoln, champion and martyr of the cause of brotherhood—this country cannot and surely does not intend to turn its face against the appeal made by the nations who, while retaining their independence and sovereign rights, intend to co-operate in the furtherance of the peace and prosperity of humanity."

Hymans Rejects Superstate View.

President Motta paid an eloquent tribute to Belgium and that country was acclaimed again when Paul Hymans, the head of its delegation, was elected permanent President of the Assembly. He had acted as Chairman at the opening. In reply to President Motta's speech he praised the Swiss republic as a fitting home for the League.

"We are far from believing," he said, "that the institution set up by the covenant of Versailles is perfect and that time and experience cannot lead to a betterment of its working and efficiency. We are far from believing that we are going to change the world with a wave of a wand, for the world changes slowly, and most slowly men change.

"Above all it is well to affirm once more than the League of Nations is not and will never be a superstate which will absorb sovereignties or seek to reduce them into tutelage. Our aim is to establish between independent States frequent and friendly contact and meetings from which affinities and sympathies will follow."

At the beginning of the afternoon session there was another reference to President Wilson when G. N. Barnes, the British labor leader, rose, and, recalling how Mr. Wilson had expressed in a fitting way in the whole of the Peace Conference negotiations the League of Nations idea, asked that a telegram be sent to him expressing hope for the recovery of his health and that he might again be able to take a place in helping the fulfillment of the work undertaken. President Hymans at once approved this.

"We all join," he said, "in good wishes to President Wilson, who was the spiritual father of the League, and the duty is very dear to us to pay him this tribute."

Mr. Barnes's proposal was adopted.

Fail to Discredit Lord Robert Cecil.

It was 11:50 o'clock when M. Hymans rang his bell and called the meeting to order. The big Reformation Hall was filled with delegations and everywhere one could see men of contemporary fame. Lord Robert Cecil sat in a front seat beside Mr. Barnes. A. J. Balfour had not yet arrived. MM. Bourgeois, Viviani and Hanotaux were together. Sprinkled about in seats were noticable, Wellington Koo of China, Señor Quinones de Leon, the Spanish Ambassador in Paris; Count Ishii, representing Japan, Senhor Pacunha from Brazil, Signor Tittoni from Italy, Nansen from Norway and Branting from Sweden. Paderewski was warmly greeted by many friends.

Immediately after the speeches of Motta and Hymans it became apparent that the Assembly was not to be a cut and dried affairs but that there was going to be some vigor in its proceedings. A sheet of paper was handed around containing a number of questions to which the delegates were asked to agree. One of them aroused Signor Tittoni, who arose and declared that a State had the right to send to the Assembly whomever it liked. From all over the hall representatives of small nations gave their aproval with cries of "Very good."

After a whispered conversation with Sir Eric Drummond, the permanent Secretary, M. Hymans, then announced that the question would be dispensed with; its object had evidently been to discredit Lord Robert Cecil, who is here as a representative of South Africa, after his appointment as British delegate had been vetoed by Lloyd George. He and Signor Tittoni were in close conference both before and after the incident. The decision which Tittoni secured takes from the Secretariat any power of veto of Lord Robert's right to act as a representative of South Africa.

The next business was the election of a President. There was at first a move to elect M. Hymans by acclamation, but M. Branting, the former Swedish Premier, appealing to the text of the covenant, moved for a vote by ballot. M. Hymans agreed that as the point had been raised cards would be distributed and M. Bourgeois, sticking to the rules, then insisted that if cards were issued they must have envelopes so that secrecy should be kept.

The result of the voting was: Hymans 35, Motta 4, Bourgeois and Ador 1 each. M. Hymans had a great ovation as he took the chair permanently and the meeting then adjourned until the afternoon.

Way Open for Austria and Germany.

The afternoon session began at 3:30 o'clock and at once started the work of arranging rules of proceedure. It was decided to appoint six committees, each of which is to consider a well-defined range of subjects and report later to the Assembly.

There were many technical points to be discussed and the machinery did not work very smoothly. The interpreters were not very good at their task and French, though the language of diplomacy, was not known to many.

When the formal business had been disposed of there was a heated fight in which Signor Tittoni and Lord Robert Cecil were the leaders over the question of the admission of new States. Austria, Bulgaria and Albania had appealed for admission to the League after Oct. 14, the date set by the Council and the Secretariat as the last day on which applications should be sent in. This being so, M. Hymans announced that unless special action was taken the application of these States could not be considered.

Lord Robert Cecil took the floor and declared that they could not shut out those seeking admission because of a technicality.

Both Bourgeois and Viviani sprang to their feet. Bourgeois had understood that Lord Robert was saying that these States ought to be admitted. The shorthand notes had to be referred to, and Lord Robert's statement was re-read.

Signor Tittoni then rose and made a vigorous speech. The League, he declared, was founded only on public opinion and public opinion would not stand for the exclusion of any States because of a technicality. By all means, he said, these applications should be considered.

The spirit of the Assembly having shown itself to be favorable, consideration of their admission by a committee was then agreed to.

The importance of this action is evident. According to the rule that no application subsequent to Oct. 14 could be considered, Germany's chance of admission at this session would have been automatically ended. But under the ruling today not only can Germany's application be still received, but any one can still propose her. The feeling of the Assembly was that arbitrary rulings by the Secretariat should not hold and that any new business could be brought up.

Postpones South American Dispute.

Among other questions which were to be given to the committees was the dispute between Bolivia and Peru with Chile over the frontier. Many of the delegates regretted that this question had been so early proposed because of its bearing on the Monroe Doctrine. It was, therefore, a relief when the delegates of these three South American republics announced that they wished the matter postponed and that they would arrange it among themselves.

In one other matter the question of the power of the Council to review the status of delegates, the bigger question of sovereignty came up, and at the instance of Signor Tittoni, supported by M. Bourgeois, the rule was declared inoperative. It was held to tend in the direction of super-sovereignty, and that was something which all the delegates wished to avoid.

There will be another full meeting of the Assembly tomorrow, but for the ensuing week real work will be done in the committees, and it will not be until they have reported that any big decisions will be made.

Opened Amid Ringing of Bells.

GENEVA, Nov. 15 (Associated Press).—The first session of the League Assembly was greeted with the ringing of all the bells in Geneva after several minutes' silence on the part of all the people of the canton.

Just before that time a procession made up of Swiss officials, marched from the City Hall to the Hall of the Reformation, where the delegates were assembling. The paraders marched through streets bedecked with the flags of virtually all the nations of the world with the exception of Germany, Austria and Turkey. Never before in the history of the world, it is believed, had the flags of so many nations been flown together.

Only a few American flags were noted among the colors displayed. The Swiss national and cantonal ensigns predominated.

The debates today clearly indicated that Lord Robert Cecil, Leon Bourgeois, Rene Viviania and Signor Tittoni are likely to become leading figures on the floor and that the small States are showing a spirit of independence and will not accept prearranged programs without having their say.

Differences of View Arise.

Determination to meet intricate problems in world affairs and to lay firmly the foundation stones of the league was evident in the demeanor of the delegates. Although differences of opinion have already arisen relative to the Danzig question, the makeup of the Commission on Mandates, the protection of racial and religious minorities in the Balkan States and the admission to the League of Germany and some of her former allies, there was an evident disposition on the part of all the delegates to meet every situation with fairness and open mind and to endeavor to reach decisions which would be acceptable.

A definite system of disarmament and a plan for using the economic blockade against nations which transgress the orders of the League will be among the principal subjects discussed. In addition, the plan for an international court which was framed at Brussels last Summer will receive attention.

Japan is not expected to bring proposals on racial equality before the meeting, but she is expected to take a prominent part in the deliberations.

The result of the Presidential election in the United States has been a topic of conversation among delegates here, but there has been no indication that any effort has been made to get in touch with either Washington or with President-elect Harding. The Russian situation may be one of the topics brought before the meeting, the defeat of General Wrangel's forces in South Russia having brought about a new phase in the affairs of Russia, and it seems that recognition of the Soviet Government will be, at least informally, discussed before the Assembly adjourns.

Subjects to come before the Assembly at the instance of individual member nations are several proposed amendments to the covenant, some of which aim at improving the position of the smaller nations within the League. One submitted by Holland deals with the covenant provision for suppression of the opium traffic in the Far East.

PREDICT AMERICA WILL JOIN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—America's absence from the first session of the Assembly of the League of Nations, which opened today in Geneva, is the subject of comment in this morning's papers. The Daily Telegraph calls it an irrational situation, in which the Assembly is summoned by the President of a State which is not a member of the League, and says it is certain that no steps can be taken this year to repair it, but adds:

"There can be no reasonable doubt that, given a genuine and practical intention on both sides, the League will be able to devise with the United States a plan of accommodation which will remedy one of the worst causes of weakness in its position by bringing into membership the greatest of the world's republics, together with two or three minor transatlantic States which have copied its attitude."

Both The Daily Telegraph and The Times are of the opinion that the time is not yet ripe for Germany's admission to the League and that she must be excluded until she has given proof that she has undergone a change of heart. The Times says:

"The absence of the United States and the condition of Russia, of parts of Eastern Europe and of vast regions in Asia render the moment at which the Assembly holds its first session very critical. At such a moment the utmost prudence and reserve are particularly incumbent upon it, and especially upon the representatives in it of the principal allied powers. This country does not forget the sentimental follies which led to the signature of the Declaration of London. It shudders as it looks back upon the ruinous concessions of its diplomatists and experts, which the then Government and House of Commons sanctioned and from which itw as saved only by the sagacity of the House of Lords. It knows, as France knows, that most of the decisions adopted at Geneva cannot be regarded as more than provisional until the attitude of America has been determined toward the League or some other association with like objects."

The Daily News, which favors Germany's inclusion, says:

"The gaps in the League must be filled if it is to become a reality. The voluntary adherence of America we believe to be only a question of time. Russia will remain aloof until we have allowed her the elementary right of economic intercourse. But it is a vital thing that the late enemy States, and particularly Germany, should be accepted as members, with good-will and without delay. Clemenceau's sarcasms are out of date. Germany must receive definite assurance that her candidature will be approved if the true spirit of the League is to prevail."

Lovat Fraser, writing in The Daily Mail, points out what he considers some of the difficulties in the way of making the League a reality.

"The League may be imperfectly recognized at the outset," he says, "but its authority will grow, nor need we think that the League is doomed because some nations have not yet formally adhered to it. Too much has been said about the present aloofness of the United States. Not one word should be uttered in criticism of the American attitude. It is for Americans to choose, and they approach the question from an angle of their own. They will make their final decision, one way or the other, when they think best. But meanwhile the League is not a failure because it does not include all nations. The marvel is that so many have sought admission."

Fraser also writes:

"The broken recluse of the White House was a thousand times right when he insisted that the covenant should be put into the Peace Treaty. His work is done. He may have made grievous mistakes, but let it never be forgotten that, amid the subtle intrigues of Versailles, he clung fast to his conception of the League. History may conclude that the League mattered most and President Wilson may be remembered when other statesmen at Versailles are forgotten, because he saw one thing clearly."

Sir Percival Phillips, The Daily Express's special correspondent at Geneva, writes:

"A renewed effort to draw America into the League is expected to be inaugurated by a speech by the Argentine Foreign Minister emphasizing the view of the South American States that the League will fall unless America joins it. Japan is said to have prepared proposals for racial equality, bearing on her relations with America, which will likely involve an interesting discussion. America's great interest in the League is shown by the influx of American correspondents, who have been instructed to cover proceedings voluminously."

URGES EARLY DECISION HERE.

Poincare for League Modifications to Bring in America.

PARIS, Nov. 15 (French Government Wireless).—On the occasion of the meeting of the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva, ex-President Raymond Poincaré writes in the Matin:

"We may rest assured that though M. Harding's ideas are on many points quite the reverse of those of his predecessor's he will, remain the loyal and determined interpreter of the United States' love for France. When the agitation of the electoral campaign is over, it will surely become possible to find a satisfactory solution for the questions that have so long been pending between the two countries as to the League of Nations.

"So great was the opposition displayed by the Republican Senate to this League as the Versailles Treaty made it that it has become impossible for the United States to adhere to the covenant as it is, but it is of great moment to France that an agreement should be quickly reached about the modifications which Mr. Harding will demand. It is over Mr. Wilson's League only that Mr. Harding sang a 'De Profundis,' and all the Republicans who discussed the covenant in the course of the electoral campaign, and Mr. Butler quite lately have, like the future President, had no difficulty in recognizing the utility of an international league provided that its organization and the duties assigned to it be modified.

"Article X. is the one to which Mr. Wilson's adversaries have made most objection. This article is the one by which the League guarantees the territorial integrity and actual political independence of the States that form it. The United States feared that this text would make them forever involved in European affairs. In the interesting lectures which he gave this year on the League of Nations, M. Lamande, the eminent dean of the Paris Law School, has demonstrated that such fears were chimerical or at least exaggerated. The text will have to be drafted so as to make it possible for the United States to occupy again their place in the League of Nations. It is to our interest to maintain the League of Nations in a more or less renewed form and to have America join it, but it is of equal moment to us that Germany be not allowed to join the League of Nations too soon, before she shows herself partly determined to fulfill her engagements."

REGRET AMERICA'S ABSENCE

But Buenos Aires Papers Believe We Will Join the League.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 15.—All the newspapers of Buenos Aires, commenting on the opening at Geneva of the Assembly of the League of Nations, express regret at the absence of the United States from participation. Nevertheless, they all express the belief that the Washington Government eventually will join the League.

La Prensa expresses the opinion that the absence of the United States is due more to reasons of internal policy than to motives of an international character.

"President-elect Harding," says La Prensa, "has not repudiated the principle of a society of nations, so that there always exists a possibility that in the end the United States will adhere to the League, but only when it has been modified with reservations which would create for the United States a special situation in the great international entity."

La Razon says that if the absence of the United States should be definite, and not merely temporary, the growing international entity would suffer a serious breakdown. Referring to the future of the Monroe Doctrine in this connection, La Razon says that if the United States fails to join the League the Monroe Doctrine "would continue to be an expression only of one part of the new world." The newspaper adds that it is impossible to say at present whether there is to be concord or a clash between the policy of the League and the Monroe Doctrine. La Razon also discusses the Tacna-Arica question, saying:

"There does not remain the least doubt that the old problem of Tacna-Arica will be one of the principal matters taken up at Geneva. If the League of Nations secures the elimination of this cloud, which from time to time darkens the South American skies, it will have removed the only grave trouble to our international relations."

NEW TYPE IN THE ASSEMBLY.

By G. H. PERRIS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Nov. 15.—The sun was shining upon gaily beflagged streets here today and business houses and schools were closed to mark the great occasion of the meeting of the League Assembly.

There were large crowds to watch the arrival of delegations at the Salle de la Reformation this morning. It is a vast, barnlike hall appropriately Puritanical in its coloring of brown wood and terra cotta walls. It has a roomy platform and eleven rows of delegates' desks fill the floor, while two galleries for the press and the privileged public. A few scarlet and yellow cloaks of Swiss Guards held the eye, as did the figures of two or three women experts among the black-coated gentry on the floor.

For the first time, as the delegates crowded in and exchanged greetings, one realized the comprehensive breadth of the experiment that is brought into full action today. There are many yellow and brown faces and every variety of the Aryan races except the Teutonic, the American of the United States and the Russian.

The diplomatic type, which virtually monopolized bodies like The Hague Conferences, is now in a small minority, and men like Tittoni and Hanotaux appear like spectres from a dead political order.

The characteristic figures of today are more individual and unconventional, like Branting, radiant with nothern vigor; scholar-statesmen, like Herbert Fisher and Dr. Nansen, and parliamentarians, Like Lord Robert Cecil and Vivani.

PROPOSE TO DISPLACE TOWER.

Norwegian May Control Danzig—Cuban Wants Us in League.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Information reached Paris today that the Council of the League of Nations is considering replacing Sir Reginald Tower as High Commissioner of the free city of Danzig and that a decision on the subject will be reached at some future meeting. The choice would go to a neutral power, the advisers said, probably to Norway.

Co-operation by the United States in the work of the League is vital to the success of that organization, declared Aristides Aguero, head of the Cuban delegation to the meeting of the Assembly, to the editor of the Eclair yesterday.

"I think," he continued, "that all that can be done at Geneva will be of a more or less provisional character. I am a partisan of a court of international justice, but all nations, great as well as small, must be represented in it. Think how precarious is the League's situation, owing to the fact that it does not count the United States among its members. Can anything definite whatever be done without the co-operation of the Northern Republic?

"The disarmament problem, for instance, can it seriously be broached at Geneva? How is it possible to arrive at the least decision, and how can the Assembly discuss the question of a naval balance without consulting the United States?"

GERMANY WARNS ALLIES.

Simon Tells Conditions on Which She Will Discuss Reparations.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Dr. Simons, the German Foreign Minister, who with Chancellor Fehrenbach is visiting the Rhine provinces, has outlined in a public speech at Düsseldorf the conditions under which Germany would be willing to enter the reparations conferences at Brussels and Geneva, says a dispatch to The London Times from Düsseldorf. The conditions summarized are as follows:

First, the economic body of Germany not to be further weakened, especially by the taking away of Upper Silesia; second, Germany to be no longer hindered in her economic activities in the world; third, the colossal cost of the occupation to be decreased.

Dr. Simons expressed the hope that Brussels would bring about these conditions, on which alone a result could be obtained at Geneva.

Herr Fehrenbach said that Germany's enemies were continually threatening to march into the Ruhr, and moved the gathering to prolonged cheers by declaring: "Our former enemies must not deceive themselves; they would not so easily be able to transform the danger into the reality."

Seconding this sentiment, Dr. Simons said that the German Government had a right to regard further occupation of German territory as a violent attack on the sovereignty of the State and consequently as a hostile action.

PREMIER SAYS BRITAIN MUST RAISE HER FOOD

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—A speech by Premier Lloyd George on the need for more food production in this country was a feature of the resumed debate in the Commons tonight on the Agriculture bill which would give the Board of Agriculture power to enforce proper cultivation in cases where the board considered production of food could be increased.

The Premier in defending this proposal spoke in serious tones of the decline in England's agricultural prosperity. He said the demand of increased production arose out of a very grave and urgent national need.

"Those who were responsible for directing affairs during the war," he said, "became very painfully conscious before it had proceeded very far that owing to neglect by all parties in the State this country had been reduced to conditions where starvation of its population was a temptation to a foreign power to assail it. We only produced enough wheat in this country for something like a quarter of the population in a year when harvests were good, and much less when harvests were bad.

"That was a temptation to foreign enemies to attack us by adopting methods which would lead to starvation as a means of conquering this country. We depended upon what food we could bring across the sea. We were attacked by a hidden foe, and at one moment the Government was full of anxiety. The policy of increased food production began then. Last year we imported into this country for consumption £500,000,000 worth of food which this soil and this climate were capable of producing—this at a time when foreign exchanges were against us and when the sovereign was greatly depreciated. If we want the sovereign to look the dollar straight eye to eye, we shall have to increase production.

"It is a national weakness, it is a national folly, it is a national scandal that £500,000,000 of food was imported into this country when the soil here is capable of producing much more."

There were now, he added, 3,000,000 fewer workers on and around land than was the case fifty years ago.

NEW SOVIET DRIVE AT POLAND EXPECTED

OUR POLICY UNCHANGED

All Available American Vessels in Near East to Aid in Rescue of Refugees.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The extinction of the army of General Peter Wrangel, the anti-Bolshevist leader in South Russia, will not alter the policy of the United States Government with respect to Soviet Russia. That policy was not predicated on the mere failure or success of any different anti-Bolshevist military movements that have cropped up in various parts of Russia during the last three years in opposition to the régime of the Red Terror. It was based on more solid foundations and looked to the future rather than to events of the immediate present.

While the importance of the defeat of General Wrangel's forces cannot be overlooked as an element in the whole Russian, and therefore world, situation, especially as it has put the Bolshevist movement into closer geographical touch with the Turk Nationalists and various forms of Near Eastern communism along the Black Sea littoral, and may also have a serious reaction upon Poland, it is not the conviction of officials here that events in the Crimea alone are going to determine the ultimate fate of Russia.

Nor is it the best judgment of American officials that what is happening around Sebastopol and events flowing out of the collapse of Wrangel should impel the United States Government to relent in its attitude of opposition to the Soviet régime or depart from the consistent refusal of the American Government to yield to the appeals and propaganda for the recognition of the Soviet Government.

Policy of Non-Interference.

It has long been the view of the State Department that foreign interference in Russia would prolong rather than hasten the Bolshevist tenure of power and that its liquidation would come only from internal processes, and not from external compulsion. This Government favors non-interference with Russia and non-partitioning of Russian territory until there shall be formed a representative Government in Russia, and holds that the violation of Russia's sovereignty during her period of national prostration will impede the internal movement looking to regeneration and stabilization.

What has taken place in the Crimea came as no great surprise to the well-informed official and diplomatic world in Washington. It was the almost certain natural corollary of the signing at Riga of the armistice between Poland and Soviet Russia. That armistice gained time for the rulers at Moscow and enabled them to shift a large number of officers and men from the Polish to the South Russian front, including some of the best troops serving under the Red flag.

The wiping out of the army of General Wrangel, the only remaining organized anti-Bolshevist military force in Russia, will enable the Bolsheviki to shift their reinforcements back to the Polish front, where it would not be surprising to witness a resumption of hostilities between the Reds and the Poles.

The signing of the armistice at Riga did not bring complete peace between Poland and the Soviet Government. It merely halted hostilities between the Poles and the Russian Reds on terms that were more favorable to the Poles than to the Soviet, and which contemplated the promised surrender to Poland of about half of the Curzon and 1772 lines—territory which belonged to the former Russian territory and against the surrender of which there has been a strong national opposition in Russia.

The terms which the Reds yielded to the Poles at Riga were more generous to Poland than they would otherwise have been for the very simple reason that the Soviet Government was willing to make an armistice agreement, on almost any terms, in order to be able to free forces from the Polish front with which it wanted to deal a death blow to General Wrangel.

It would not suprise Washington if the Soviet Government after cleaning up the Crimea should concentrate its forces along the Polish front for another drive against Warsaw, in an attempt to dispose of the Poles, and establish a corridor across Poland so as to link up Soviet Russia with Germany. In fact it is the belief of officials here that Soviet Russia when Moscow sees fit will not hesitate to make the Riga compact a "scrap of paper."

What to Do With Army a Problem.

Outside of Siberia, there is believed now to be no force that can withstand the pressure the Bolshevist military establishment is capable of bringing against it, but in the opinion of closer observers here, the problems of peace are more serious for the Soviet leaders than those of war. There is only speculation as to what the Moscow Government will do with its great military organization. To maintain it without adequate employment would be dangerous to the ascendancy of Lenin and his lieutenant theorists who have claimed that, owing to foreign interference Russia has not had a fair opportunity of trying out in practice the principles of Bolshevism. It is believed the soldiers themselves, however, would resist disbandment and assignment to enforced labor.

It is not believed that Moscow will dispatch armies to Japan, where they might come into collision with Japan, which is interested in preventing the spread of Bolshevism to Eastern Asia, but other possible directions in which the military might be used are west and south, a renewal of the war against Poland, or a formidable invasion of the Caucasus, although it is thought no military operations are desired by the Bolsheviki in either region and might only come about either by foreign machinations or by political exigencies within Russia.

The immediate concern of the American Government is the humanitarian aspect of the situation in the Crimea and the rescue of refugees. The State Department today made public a statement concerning the action which the Government of the United States is taking to assist in the evacuation of Russian refugees from the Crimea. The statement follows:

"Upon receipt of telegraphic information from the department's representative at Sepastopol, Rear Admiral Newton A. McCully, that the evacuation of the Crimea appeared inevitable and recommending that the Government of the United States assist in the evacuation of civilian refugees, arrangements were made by which Admiral Bristol, the American High Commissioner at Constantinople might employ vessels to assist in the evacuation of refuges from the Crimea.

"Instructing Admiral Bristol to use the vessels, instructions were also sent directing him to co-ordinate and co-operate with the representatives of Great Britain and France in Constantinople who, it is understood are directing the efforts of their Governments in this matter.

"The department has not been informed to what point or points these refuges will be evacuated and is relying on the co-operation of Admiral Bristol with the French and British and Russian authorities to work out the details of the evacuation.

"In making public this announcement the department specifically denies any participation in Russian internal strife, its action being based wholly on humanitarian grounds, with a view to assisting in their hour of need large numbers of Russians, whose fate, it believes, would be uncertain and hazardous under such conditions."

American Vessels Available.

The American naval vessels operating under orders of Admiral Bristol in Near Eastern waters are:

The cruiser St. Louis, which was last reported to be at Constantinople, but which is understood to have left for Sebastopol; the destroyers John D. Edwards, at Sebastopol; the Gilmer, at Constantinople; the Fox, at Smyrna; the Humphreys, en route from Sebastopol to Samsun; the Long, at Constantinople; the Smith Thompson, at Constantinople; the Overton, at Sebastopol; the Tracy, at Samsun; the fuel ship Ramapo, at Constantinople, and the yacht Corpion, which for some years has been the station ship at Constantinople.

In case of need, Admiral Bristol can call on Admiral Philip Andrews for use of some of the American warships in the Adriatic. These include the cruiser Olympia, at Spalate; the destroyers Alden, at Spalate; the Broome, at Spalate; the Chandler, at Venice, and the Hovey, at Venice, as well as the Wipple, at Varna; the Barrie, at Port Said, and the Southard, at Venice. The fuel ship Jason is at Spalate, and there are two submarine chasers at Constantinople. The Chattanooga, which was at Spalate, left six days ago for Cherbourg.

Admiral McCully has been authorized to engage Shipping Board vessels to assist in the evacuation, but will not employ foreign ships, as this would involve an expenditure of money. Admiral McCully has suggested that if physicians so advise the refugees may be taken to some of the Greek islands instead of to Constantinople.

PEACE PARLEY PROGRESSES.

RIGA, Nov. 15.—The conference between Adolph Joffe, President of the Russian Soviet Government peace delegation, and M. Dombski, head of the Polish peace contingent, continued Sunday behind closed doors. It resulted in an agreement, which was signed by both sides, undertaking:

First—That the Polish troops shall start their withdrawal to the stated frontier not later than midnight, Nov. 19.

Second—Poland will continue to cover the current expenses of the sugar plants ceded to the Ukraine, the Ukraine undertaking to return to Poland as compensation 70 per cent. of the sugar product.

Third—A joint commission is to be appointed by the respective Governments to work out the details of the agreement.

Fourth—In the event of the destruction of the sugar plants the Ukraine is to be freed of its obligation to return the product.

The first general meeting of the peace delegations will be held next Wednesday.

"COUNCIL OF ACTION" TO ACT.

Laborites Plan Pressure on British Cabinet to Trade with Reds.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The "Council of Action" of the Laborites has decided to reopen its fight against the Government to bring about peace and a return of trade with Russia, according to The Daily Herald, a labor organ.

The newspaper today prints the text of a manifesto of the "Council of Action" which is addressed to the local Courts of Action and the trades union organizations. The manifesto reiterates the former plans of the "Council of Action" and contends that peace with Russia is of vital importance in relation to the unemployment problem in Great Britain.

"Break down the barriers which now obstruct the free exchange of commodities between Russia and Great Britain and an immediate demand for British manufactured goods would be created, with the inflow of the necessary raw materials in exchange," says the manifesto. "Peace with Russia would increase employment and bring down prices.

"We cannot allow political imperialism or the interests of international financiers to stand in our way. Workers should not starve to promote inflated prices or perpetuate artificial bank rates."

The manifesto concludes by urging the local councils to set to work and organize meetings and distribute leaflets calling for action.

M. Tchitcherin, the Bolshevist Foreign Minister, in his latest note complaining of the delay of the British Government in concluding the trade negotiations adds:

"The Soviet Government expects the trade agreement will immediately be followed or accompanied by negotiations for peace and a restoration of normal relations."

40,000 Taken From Sebastopol.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Reuter's Constantinople correspondent says that about 40,000 persons have been evacuated from Sebastopol and that it is reported General Wrangel has appealed to American warships, which have proceeded to the Crimea, to save the wounded from being killed.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—The Bolsheviki are reported in unofficial advices to the Foreign Office to be masters of the whole Crimean peninsula.

The Waldeck-Rousseau and the other French and the American and British ships at Sebastopol did not leave that port until the Bolsheviki were within the walls of the city. These ships, according to the Foreign Office advices, were loaded to capacity with refugees and the remnants of General Wrangel's troops. Many refugees, however, were left behind, and these, it was said, probably numbered 100,000.

The fate of these refugees is causing great anxiety, as the American relief organization has also left the Crimea. The majority of the refugees have been dependent upon the American relief workers for their sustenance, and the hope was expressed that means might be devised by which that organization would continue its work.

French officials were loath to concede that General Wrangel would cease to be a factor in the Russian situation, and they voiced the hope that he might reorganize the remnants of his army in Constantinople. They did not appear at all optimistic, however, over the outlook, and it seemed to be their real belief that General Wrangel had suffered the same fate as did Generals Denikin, Yudenitch and Admiral Kolchak. Because of the Crimean developments and the junction effected recently by the Turkish Nationalists and Bolsheviki, and the occupation of Batum, the position of the Soviet régime in the Black Sea territory was pointed to as stronger than it ever had been.

The reports indicated that only a few members of General Wrangel's staff had managed to make their escape. The staff as a whole, it was said, had been virtually wiped out, its members either being killed or taken prisoner.

BRITISH CAPTIVES SUFFER.

Tell of Ill-Treatment in Baku by Russian Captors and Prisoners.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Particulars of terrible treatment meted out to British prisoners in Baku are given by The Evening News tonight. H. Charles Woods, cabling from Constantinople yesterday, says forty-eight British, most of whom had been confined in a black hole, had arrived there. He continues:

"They were in prison for six and a half months, the first three and a half months being spent in prison cells. The only exercise ground was a yard thirty-five feet square used by hundreds of Russian prisoners. The wife of a British soldier was separately imprisoned and her husband could only see her through a distant window.

"The food supply was one pound of black bread daily. The British were always fed last and often went short. The sanitary arrangements were intolerable, only one wash tap being available for the whole prison.

"The men were ill-treated by the Russian guards, who stole their money and possessions, and by Russian prisoners, who threw vermin through the British windows and tried to prevent food purchased by prisoners reaching them. There was no medical treatment except from a Polish doctor prisoner.

"One man was confined in a dungeon waist deep in water for twenty-four hours as result of attempting to escape. One man was confined nine days with eighty-four Russians in a room so small it was impossible to sit down.

WRANGEL FINANCED BY BIG CORPORATION

CZARISTS HIS UNDOING

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—The causes of Wrangel's disaster are the same as in the case of Denikin, Kolchak and Yudenich—graft, incompetence, jealousy and reaction. The Baltic General, for all his own capacity, has been ruined by success. His occupation of Taurida Province brought down upon the Crimea a horde of adventurers, merchants and supporters of the old régime. Even the dispatches of friendly French correspondents revealed the wretched truth.

Soldiers at the front were barefoot and coatless in the freezing Autumn winds, while civilians in Sebastopol wore greatcoats sent from France for the army. Munitions failed to reach the front, and peasants, before friendly, were alienated by reports that the land given them would be taken back. The widespread rumor that Grand Duke Michael would be chosen Czar struck the knell of doom six weeks ago—the arch effort of the reactionarics was the precursor of defeat.

Now that Wrangel's effort has failed, it will do no harm to tell the real genesis of the Crimean movement. Wrangel was not a supporter of the old régime nor, at the outset any way, did he intend unlimited action against the Bolsheviki. He was associated with a powerful business organization with headquarters in Paris, in palatial offices in the Avenue Marceau.

This company, called the Russo-French Society of Exploitation of South Russia and Crimea, was formed at the beginning of the year with a capital of 12,000,000 francs by a group of Franco-Russian financiers and industrials, of whom M. Kamenk of the Banque du Nord was the most prominent. They included the principal shareholders of the iron mines of Krivoirog, southwest of Ekaterinoslav, and of Russia's most valuable collieries in the Donetz Basin, southeast of Kharkov.

The company bought in France very large stocks of clothing and supplies for Wrangel's army, intending to finance their operations by the sale of grain and other produce from the Crimea. Later, they hoped to continue business with exportation of iron and coal. They actually succeeded in bringing some shiploads to Marseilles, which were sold at a good price.

Paying the piper they called the tune and insisted that a liberal form of government be established in the area occupied by Wrangel. In accordance with their policy, his offensive was directed toward Ekaterinoslav and further north in the direction of the Donetz Basin. Unfortunately they were powerless to control the reactionaries from Constantinople attracted by their General's successes.

Once more the incompetence and blindness of the Russians themselves were to ruin their cause.

DEFEAT UKRAINIANS AND WHITE RUSSIANS

Bolsheviki Report Successes Against the Forces of Petlura and Balakovitch.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The capture of the village and station of Kalenkovitche 130 miles northwest of Kiev, from the troops of General Bulak Balakovitch is claimed in the Soviet official statement of Sunday, received here today by wireless. Victories over the forces of General Petlura, the Ukranian leader, also are claimed in the statement, which says:

LAWRENCE E. SEXTON HAD $351,560 ESTATE

Lawrence E. Sexton, who was a contemporary of Colonel Roosevelt in Western ranch life and as an amateur hunter of big game, left a gross estate of $351,560, according to the appraisal filed yesterday by the Deputy State Controller. The net amount of the estate is $324,663, in which more than fifty beneficiaries will share, including Harvard University, Phillips Exeter Academy, the Harvard Club, Cornell University and the Bar Association of New York City.

Mr. Sexton, who died on Aug. 30, 1919, was a member of the law firm of Sexton, Jeffrey & Kimball, 34 Pine Street. For many years his chief outdoor recreation was found in hunting in the reaches of the upper St. Mary's Lake, in the Blackfoot Indian Reservation, in the vicinity of what is now known as the Glacier National Park. His activities there were so well known before the survey for the present park was made that the Government named it "Sexton Glacier."

In his will Mr. Sexton leaves art objects, including the mounted head of a Rocky Mountain goat which he shot at Sexton Glacier, to his cousin, Cleveland C. Hale, of 4,307 Euclid Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.

Descendant of the Pilgrims.

Mr. Sexton, who was a descendant of Plymouth Pilgrims, had large farm holdings in Illinois. The assets of his New York estate are: Real estate, $3,500, which is the value of the stone dwelling and land in South Lansing, near Ithaca; cash, $14,314; personal, $34,551; stocks and bonds, $287,709, the larger holdings being Liberty bonds to the value of $25,500; 250 shares of Eastchester Syndicate Company, $10,000, and interest in his law firm, $11,465.

Many of the beneficiaries were business associates or friends to whom he left jewelry or objects of art and small bequests. They include R. Emmet Doherty of Brooklyn, Robert D. Eggleston, Oscar W. Jeffrey and Harry G. Kimball of 34 Pine Street; John J. McElhinney of 124 West 130th Street; Lawrence O. Murray of Elkland, Pa., Harry Praeger of the Bronx; E. V. Hale of Cleveland, and Willis Worthington Hale of Cleveland.

The principal beneficiaries are Phillips Academy, Exeter, $8,463; Harvard College, $100,000; Graduate Trustee of A. D. Club of Cambridge, of which Mr. Sexton was a member while in Harvard, Harvard Club, New York City, and Bar Association, $5,000 each; Cornell University, the stone house and land at South Lansing in memory of his brother, Allan Hale Sexton, an alumnus of Cornell, and the Golden Branch of the Debating Society of Phillips Academy, Exeter, $500. Walter C. Baylies, James J. Storrow and Robert F. Herrick of Boston are appointed trustees of $1,000 to provide a cup to be competed for by the crews of Harvard, Yale and Cornell.

Divided Among Cousins.

To his cousins, Willis B. Hale, who died Feb. 14, 1920, $49,277 and one-sixth of the residue; Ellen Bolton of 158 Loring Avenue, Pelham, N. Y., $23,879 and one-sixth of the residue; Florence Hale Russell of 7,003 Euclid Avenue, Cleveland, $23,379 and one-sixth of the residue; Alice Hale Cowles of 129 West Fiftyseventh Street, $22,639 and one-sixth of the residue; Cleveland C. Hale of 4,307 Euclid Avenue, Cleveland, $22,629 and one-sixth of the residue; Edwin V. Hale of 1,952 East Seventy-fifth Street, Cleveland, $25,081 and one-sixth of the residue.

The extensive farm holdings in Philo, Ill., were granted by the Government many years ago to Mr. Sexton's maternal grandfather, Philo Hale, who went to the West from Glastonbury, Conn., and for whom the town was named. Mr. Sexton said in his will that he left this property to cousins who were descendants in the male line from Philo Hale, and he urged them to continue this property in the male line, "so long as the laws of Illinois and justice to others will permit," adding:

"The perpetuation of worthy family names, associations, &c., with particular localities, under the existing conditions of society, is desirable and laudable where it can be accomplished without injustice or injury. I hope my cousins and their descendants will, so far as possible, retain these lands in the family name."

To each tenant of these farms of ten years' standing, father and son, one-half of the current year's rent is given.

TELLS OF CRUELTIES AT REFORMATORY

WARDEN DENIES BRUTALITY

Witness Testifies Inmates Were Beaten and Forced to Stand on Their Feet All Day.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAMPTON, N. Y., Nov. 15.—A tale of how prisoners in the New York City Reformatory here were kept in solitary confinement for more than twenty days at a stretch, with a solid meal only once in six days, wearing no clothing but underwear, and compelled to stand on their feet all day long, was told to investigators of the State Prison Commission here today by John Ryan, former disciplinarian officer.

Investigation of the conditions in the reformatory was begun after charges had been made that some of the prisoners were being ill-treated and that some of them had been injured by beatings. The commission will call several keepers and prison employes in the investigation.

Much of the testimony given by Ryan, who was demoted from his post, was corroborated by Major Sidney W. Brewster, Warden of the reformatory, who declared that rigorous methods of enforcing discipline were necessary, "because a lot of our prisoners are vicious New York gunmen." Major Brewster denied that prisoners had been beaten or that there was brutality in the treatment of inmates, and pointed out that many of the rules governing solitary confinement had been changed on Nov. 1.

Ryan asserted that one man died from the results of his confinement in the solitary cell, and declared that the state of this man's health was so precarious that he should never have been put into the dark cell. He said that he had called in the prison physician at the end of five days and again at the end of ten days and finally on the fifteenth day took the man from the cell. According to his testimony, the man collapsed as he left the cell and died later. He gave the name of this man as George Platt.

Ryan declared that he was reprimanded for releasing Pratt from the solitary cell on his own initiative and said that a short time later he was demoted from his post of disciplinarian officer. Before he released Pratt, he said, he made a report to the prison management upon the physical condition of the prisoner but no notice was taken of it.

Warden Brewster said that one of the regulations governing punishment of prisoners in solitary confinement had been relaxed by order of William Dalton, Deputy Commissioner of Correction of New York. Under the old rule, prisoners in solitary confinement had been forbidden to lie down on their cots during the day, or at any time except during the prison period set aside for the rest of the inmates. Commissioner Dalton ruled that a man in solitary confinement should be allowed to lie down upon his cot during the day.

Ryan testified that men in solitary confinement got only one substantial meal every six days. The remainder of the time they got bread and water. Some of them were stripped to their underwear when they were sent into the cold, dark cell. They were not taken out for exercise.

Questioned on this phase of Ryan's testimony, Warden Brewster said that the solitary confinement system in use in the prison was adopted from the navy's penal institutions and that its rules had been amended on Nov. 1 so that the punishment was much less drastic now.

"Don't you think this form of punishment horrible, keeping a man in solitary confinement for twenty-three days, with no exercise and little food?" asked Robert Beyer, Deputy Attorney General.

Major Brewster pointed out that some method of punishment was necessary in the reformatory.

"How, by process of starvation?" asked Mr. Bayer.

"No, I wouldn't put it that way," said the Warden. "You must have some punishment. A lot of our prisoners are vicious New York gunmen. I have given strict orders that there shall be no brutality."

Ryan said that he knew the names of six prisoners who had been taken from their cells at night and beaten by guards. He said he had seen the blood in their cells, where it had dripped from wounds, and had seen marks and bruises on the prisoners' bodies. Some men had been beaten in the yard in daylight, he said. He gave the names of the six prisoners as Collete, Cilleo, Latura, Matora, Meduso and Cirelle. According to Ryan, one keeper was dismissed for his attacks on prisoners.

Leon C. Weinstock of the commission asked for the punishment record of the institution, but learned that it was temporarily in the office of an official of the Department of Correction in New York. The hearings will be continued tomorrow.

CONSTANTINE PARTY WINS IN GREECE

Chief Issue the Return of Constantine.

Demetrios Gounaris has been both the political as well as the personal opponent of Venizelos throughout his career. A Deputy from the district of Patras, he regarded Venizelos, the Cretan, as a foreigner; he opposed his policy in the two Balkan wars of 1912-13, and adhered to the policy of King Constantine from February, 1915, until the expulsion of the King in June, 1917, and since then he has obstructed his great opponent's policy, as far as censorship and other post-bellum war measures would allow, both in and out of Parliament.

Finally, in the present general elections he accepted the challenge of the Liberal Prime Minister and declared that the voting would prove, as by referendum, that the policy of expelling the King, the hero of the Balkan wars, and the policy Venizelos had maintained at the Peace Conference, which more than doubled both the territory and the population of Greece, would be repudiated by the people if an unrestricted vote were allowed.

When the allied fleet attacked the Dardanelles in February, 1915, Venizelos, then Premier, attempted to hold the King to his promise that such an attack should bring Greece into the war on the side of the Entente. The King repudiated his promise, and Venizelos resigned. He was succeeded by the Deputy from Patras. The King then proceeded to dissolve Parliament and order a new election.

So Constantine contrived to keep Greece neutral, with German sympathies, until Venizelos, in September, 1916, fled to Crete, established a provisional government there and began to enroll volunteers to reinforce the Allies on the Saloniki front. He continued this work until the Entente brought about the expulsion of the King, when Venizelos dissolved the Parliament elected under Scouloudis as illegal and had King Alexander resummon that of May, 1917, which Chamber has been legislating until the present time.

FOR TRADE WITH REDS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, one of the leading "irreconcilables" in the Senate in the matter of the ratification of the Treaty of Versailles and the covenant of the League of Nations, declared in an interview today his opinion that the allied blockade and the refusal of other nations to open trade relations with Russia had been used by the Bolsheviki to their advantage and produced a condition of economic sabotage throughout Europe.

"If we are correct in our diagnosis of Bolshevism then the sooner Europe is restored to normal conditions and trade relations are opened, the sooner Bolshevism will depart, for it is supposed to thrive on economic chaos and to derive its greatest support from hunger and want," the Senator said.

"On the other hand, if we are not correct in our diagnosis and Bolshevism is the creed to which the Russian people propose to adhere, it is the sheerest folly to undertake to eradicate a theory of government which does not suit us by starving helpless men and women and by putting a whole continent under the ban of commercial sabotage."

Charles Hoffman Was the Creditor.

In the list of "Satisfied Judgments" published in THE TIMES on Nov. 13 it was erroneously stated that a judgment for $1,080.20 had been obtained on Oct. 28 by the Spengold Woolen Company against Charles Hoffman, whereas Mr. Hoffman was the creditor and the Spengold Woolen Company the debtor.

of the Near East Relief, said yesterday that part at least of the needs of the situation in the Caucasus had already been anticipated by the Near East Relief and that cargoes were now on the seas bound for Batum consisting of 5,813,000 cases and bales of old clothing and shoes, 5,220 bags of rice, 1,680 bags of sugar and 260 tons of soap and other supplies.

Mr. Vickery also stated that beans, flour and other food staples would be shipped to Batum at once from Constantinople if transport could be obtained. The steamer Gul-Djemal, leaving New York Nov. 20, will carry 1,000 tons of wheat flour, 400 tons of rice and 100 tons of sugar for relief purposes in the stricken district.

TURKS, NOT REDS, BLOCKADED.

Britain's Reasons for Patrolling Black Sea with Fleet.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, Nov. 16.—The Daily Chronicle's diplomatic correspondent writes:

"With Bolshevist troops overrunning the Crimea the attitude of the Entente powers is naturally become one of great importance. French warships are known to be lying off the town, but the precise nature of the action they have taken or will take is uncertain.

"The position is a somewhat delicate one. The British attitude, however, is clear beyond any possibility of doubt. The strictest neutrality will be observed as between the Red and White armies. At the same time five or six British warships which for some time have been patrolling the Black Sea with Constantinople as a base are being concentrated with a two-fold object:

"1. To assist British subjects who may be in peril on the mainland.

"2. To prevent arms and war material being sent from the Red armies to Mustapha Kemal, commanding the Turkish rebel forces in Armenia.

"Between these forces, the avowed object of which is to prevent the peace treaty with the Turkish Government being carried out, and another Bolshevist army lies Aremnia only. This newly set up State already has been beaten to her knees by Kemal's bandits and been forced to seek an armistice. It is possible, and even likely, that the Turkish rebel leader will insist as a further condition of an armistice that facilities be granted by the Armenians for the junction of the Bolsheviki and the Turkish insurgents.

"At the moment, however, 200 miles of mountainous country separate the two armies. With the victorious Red Army in the Crimea it is obviously far easier for arms and other communication to be carried by sea, and it is to prevent this that orders have been sent to the British Black Sea fleet.

"It should be noted that this act is aimed not against the Bolshevist Government, but against Mustapha Kemal, who is an open enemy of the Entente Powers."

ARMENIA BLAMES POWERS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The State Department today received information, substantiating press reports, that the substance of the terms of the armistice between the Turkish nationalist forces and the Armenian Government is as follows:

1. Armenian troops are to withdraw from the west bank of the Arpa River, which they now occupy.

2. The Turkish forces during the peace negotiations will occupy Alexandropol and a territory within a radius of ten kilometers round about the city.

3. The Turkish forces are to give a guarantee to maintain order and preserve the individual safety of all persons in Alexandropol.

The new Republic of Georgia, which Armenian leaders expected to assist Armenia against the Turks, was placated by Bolshevist agents who gave assurances of non-Soviet interference in the Caucasus, although influencing Georgia not to go to the aid of Armenia. As a result of the present situation it is feared in allied quarters that the entire Caucasus may be Bolshevised and that the Soviet system may penetrate Persia, with a consequent danger to Afghanistan and India.

British interests in the Caucasus have already suffered by reason of the Turkish aggression against Armenia and the incapacity of Armenia to resist the Turkish demands. The projected railway line from Batum, which the British planned to construct, is threatened with failure owing to the Turkish successes over Armenia.

President Wilson, it was learned authoritatively today, has received from the State Department the memoranda prepared by the research workers of the department to assist him in the determination of the Armenian boundaries, a task he is undertaking at the request of the powers. It is problematical, in the event that Armenia fixes her own boundaries in direct negotiations with the Turks, whether the Wilson lines will be accepted, or, if rejected by Armenia, whether they can be enforced by the League of Nations or the signatories to the Sèvres Treaty.

President Wilson, it is understood, will not be deterred by any such considerations, however, but will fix Armenia's boundaries and leave to the powers the application of them.

CITY WILL BEGIN CONTRACTS INQUIRY

contracts were "350 per cent. too high."

The first argument to mar the proceedings of the joint meeting occurred when the Mayor denied the assertion of Controller Charles L. Craig that there had been criticism of the Lockwood Committee by the Board of Estimate.

"You restrain yourself," snapped the Controller to Mayor Hylan. "The facts will come out.'

"The facts won't escape me," retorted the Mayor angrily.

Mr. Untermyer suggested that somebody be appointed "to preserve order."

"I will preserve order," exclaimed the Mayor. "Don't be concerned about that. The Mayor is going to be heard—"

"Yes, but not every two minutes," interjected Mr. Untermyer.

"He isn't going to have anything put over on him," declared the Mayor flushing.

The Mayor and Mr. Untermyer had another argument when the Mayor said he suggested to F. H. LaGuardia, President of the Board of Aldermen, that the committee's powers of investigation did not apply to the Mayor.

Examination Just "Suspended."

"On the contrary," said Mr. Untermyer. "I think we have been very tender with the Mayor. We did not finish our examination, by the way, Mr. Mayor. We suspended it."

The Mayor's face reddened and he fired back, "The Mayor is ready to go on any day you are ready."

"Mr. Mayor, you had no right to interject that remark," Mr. Untermyer exclaimed angrily.

During Mr. Untermyer's explanation of his suggestions the Mayor frequently conferred with Augustus Kelly, his executive secretary. This annoyed Mr. Untermyer and he said: "That's the sixth time you have interrupted me. You have invited me here and I want your attention."

Mayor Hylan looked at Mr. Untermyer in surprise and said he had been paying attention.

There were no further interruptions along that line, but President LaGuardia exacted a reprisal on Mr. Untermyer in the Mayor's behalf when he caught the counsel whispering with Chairman C. C. Lockwood. He demanded to have Chairman Lockwood's undivided attention. Mr. Untermyer remarked that he might require the Chairman's attention more than Mr. LaGuardia.

At one point Mr. Craig suggested procedure along certain lines with respect to the city's investigation. Mr. Untermyer suggested that it was a "magnificent opportunity for the irrepressible industry of the Commissioner of Accounts." David Hirshfield, the Commissioner of Accounts, joined in the general laugh.

The meeting of the Board of Estimate opened with the submission of the resolution calling on the heads of city departments to submit suspicious contracts to the Lockwood Committee.

Controller Craig attacked the resolution as "belated and dilatory," and charged it with being an attempt to embarrass the Lockwood Committee "by going through the appearance of rendering that aid." He voted against it. The Mayor then offered the resolution calling for a sweeping investigation of contracts by the city and suggested that it be held in abeyance until the joint meeting ended.

Mayor Denies Responsibility.

The joint meeting opened and the Mayor read a four-page statement in which he declared that there had been "a desperate effort" to place on him all the responsibility for the letting of contracts for public improvements, when the fact was that he "had nothing to do with the letting of contracts except the Court House contracts."

In reading of the manner in which city contracts are let, the Mayor ended a sentence with "and so forth." Controller Craig asked him what he meant by "and so forth." The Mayor stammered and said, "Well, other details that the Controller is so familiar with."

The Mayor's statement that the Controller was a committee of one on the Court House contract was denied by Mr. Craig. Henry H. Curran, Manhattan Borough President, disclaimed membership on the committee.

The Mayor, explaining the purpose of the meeting, said the city desired to know whether the Lockwood Committee wanted all the city's contracts cancelled indiscriminately.

Mr. Untermyer said the committee had neither the power nor the wish to undertake the duties involving upon city officials. He said he had listened "with minuteness and considerable annoyance" to the proceeding and criticized the "sparring for position by the passage of resolutions that necessarily are ineffective or by verbal statements intended not so much for enlightenment as "apparently for some other purpose."

He outlined the purposes of the committee, saying that when it started it found many abuses "eating at the very vitals of all enterprise in the way of construction in New York City" and probably in other cities of the State.

Found "Pirates and Buccaneers."

"It found that pirates and buccaneers, masquerading in the garb of labor, having secured a stranglehold upon honest labor in the city, were practicing blackmail and extortion on people engaged in the building business, and the committee came to the conclusion that until that stranglehold was exposed and released and the bald, reckless perpetrators of it punished, there would be no likelihood of anybody who had capital embarking in building enterprises," he added.

He then said the investigation was hardly begun; that the committee was not even "on the threshold" of its inquiry, because the things that have been unfolded would be as "moonlight unto sunlight, as water unto wine," compared to what would be unearthed. He continued:

"We found the whole community, not only the building trades, but the whole community, in the grip of monopolistic combinations from the lowest to the highest, and we have only endeavored so far and have only been able, in the short time we have been in session, to unfold a few of the smaller of those combinations. The greater ones we shall have to attack as we reach them in due time, provided we get from the Federal authorities the co-operation that has been thus far given us in words but not in deeds. At the moment our greatest handicap is the Department of Justice, through its inanition.

"Now, quite incidental to our inquiry, and not intended as the main subject of the inquiry, we found the city, in common with others, in the throes of these combinations, these pirates of labor and pirates of industry, and it was our duty, when we came across that, to bare it to the public light. Out of perhaps forty trades connected with the building industry, we have only scratched the surface so far of three or four. And as to those we find that the schools were involved in them.

"We found the Court House was involved in them, but we do not know enough to separate the wolves from the sheep as yet in all lines of business, but what we know we want to place at the disposal of the city administration and we want to help them in every way in our power without too far deflecting from the purposes of this committee, which are to investigate these housing problems.

"Now, your resolution asks the impossible. I have come here not to indulge in merely words or gallery play or talk, but to see if it is not possible to present a concrete business proposition that will be workable and that will safeguard the city and at the same time prevent the paralysis of all your public work; that will prevent the stoppage of work on public buildings and throw thousands of men out of employment, that will prevent the ruin of contractors who may be perfectly honest and not connected with any of these rings."

The difficulty in giving the city advice, Mr. Untermyer said, was that in the case of the schools the building contract has been let to a single contractor and the equipment directly to those doing the work. He asked the Mayor if it was required that the city demand of its contractors to disclose their sub-contractors. The Mayor was unable to answer "offhand," and the Controller anaswered that in the Board of Education there was no requirement that the general contractor reveal his sub-contractors. Mr. Untermyer thought this a great mistake, and the Controller said it did not exist in any other city department.

Mr. Untermyer pointed out that the solvency of the contractor depended on the solvency of the sub-contractor, and said the Board of Education should long ago have had revealed to it its sub-contractors. The situation was complicated because where the contractor has been acting in good faith, but has been the victim of sub-contractors who have acted collusively, it was difficult for the city to strike at the contractor.

Growing Mass of Material.

The Lockwood Committee, he said, has a growing mass of unmanageable material to deal with, and cannot too long be deflected from its main purposes. Much as it desired to help the committee and as it would aid the city, the suggestion that the committee inquire into every city contract involved an impossible proposition. He pointed out that what would happen in the course of the inquiry would be that as various trade combinations are exposed it would be learned that many of them have dealt with the city, and in that way the city would get the information on which it could act.

Taking the matter of docks and other public works on which one contractor is employed, Mr. Untermyer asserted that this contractor was probably dealing with a series of rings. The contractor's estimate, he said, was based "in many cases upon the most extravagant, exorbitant and outrageous imposition ever foisted upon any city in the world."

There was enought data in hand by the committee to indicate that it had not scratched the surface of the combines. In the meantime, with a long and arduous task ahead, for the city not to pay on its contracts would mean that sub-contractors and contractors would fail, masses of innocent persons would suffer and men would lose their employment. It did not seem practicable to him to take such a brutal step.

Mayor Hylan asked Mr. Untermyer if he would "mind" being interrupted. Counsel to the committee said he "would" mind and the Mayor continued saying he assumed from Mr. Untermyer's letter that he meant just what the lawyer had been explaining.

"I never dreamed that anybody would be so reckless as to simply sweep all the city contracts off the map and bring about general disaster," said Mr. Untermyer. "We are engaged in constructive work—this committee. In order to build on our constructive program we have to expose existing difficulties, and that is the reason we are engaged in exposing them now, but they are a mere preliminary.

Propose to Correct Evils.

"We propose to build not upon the rotten structure, we intend to tear that down, and if we were simply here to engage in a smelling expedition, to expose evils without any thought of correcting them and bringing about a better state of things, I should be ashamed to be in the investigation. We want to bring about peace with labor based on justice. We want to bring about and we want to restore the open and free channels of competition and we want to secure funds available, ample funds, and we will get them, too, ample funds so that any people who want to build on a sound basis will be able to build in this city unchecked by these monopolies and combinations that make it impossible to build at this time, and unchecked by these brigand people, masquerading under the cloak of honest labor who are holding them by the throat.

"Now, my suggestion is, and I want to discuss it with you, that where you have your contracts with a single contractor, you first require him to give you a list of his sub-contractors, and, if necessary, copies of them, copies of all of his estimates on which his contracts were based, so that we shall know whether he has been victimized by a ring or party to a ring.

"Secondly, that you retain, hold back—if he wants to go on and is interested, and is not going to be involved in these disclosures, he should be willing to have retained—an additional 10 per cent. besides the 15 per cent. now held under contract, so that there will be a fund available to protect the city, when the investigation discloses that the city has been victimized, sufficient to make good to some extent the amount that it was victimized of.

"In addition to that, the contractor should be required to enter into an obligation that future payments made to him under the contract are entirely without prejudice to the city maintaining and asserting the same rights with respect to collusive bids and contracts as though no payment had been made. In other words, that the city must not be deemed to have waived its rights to assail the legality of this contract by reason of the fact that it is going on making these payments."

New Receipt for Contractors.

Controller Craig announced that he had devised a form of receipt which every contractor was being asked to sign, and which they have willingly signed, and payments are being made on that basis.

"I am offering this as a suggestion because I believe it is going to avoid grave injustice to innocent men," continued Mr. Untermyer. "It is going to permit labor to go on, instead of having a general holdup, a disastrous thing, and is going to safeguard the city. If you can get receipts of that kind from contractors and get an assurance against it ever being claimed that by going on you have waived anything, I think the city is in a fairly good position, not as good as it would like to be, but perhaps as good as it can be under existing conditions.

"That having been done, I would not allow any contractor to go another step with his work or get another dollar until he subscribed to those conditions. If he is honest, he loses nothing by subscribing to them, except this additional 10 per cent. If he is not honest, the sooner the city finds it out the better.

"The banks which these contractors deal with know these men, and that additional 10 per cent. that is withheld can undoubtedly be financed in most cases through these banks. Then, as we go on with our investigation and uncover these various combinations, that evidence will apply to city contracts as well as to other contracts.

"We are not going on to an investigation specifically of city contracts—but the city uses sand and lime and cement and bricks and what-not, the same as other private contractors or builders use, so that the evidence applicable to one will doubtless be applicable to the other.

Ready to Discuss Defects.

"That seems to me a program that might be feasible, but I offer it only as a suggestion and I am ready to discuss the defects in it and the dangers that might come from it and see whether it is a feasible plan, because one man's mind never grapples all the ends of a proposition."

Mr. Craig attempted to show that he was in entire accord with Mr. Untermyer, and the latter said he had not formulated his suggestions until the previous evening. He said he had seen Controller Craig but once during the last year, and Mr. Craig said that he and Mr. Untermyer had arrived at the same conclusion without any discussion.

Mr. Untermyer continued, asserting that he was morally justified in saying that in cases where contracts for school equipments were made directly 75 per cent. of the contracts were made in combination, although the testimony, so far incomplete, showed that but 30 or 40 per cent. of the contracts were made in collusion.

He took up the furring and lathing contracts, in which metal or steel lathing was required, and iron furring. The testimony shows that the Furrers and Lathers' Association had a subcommittee handling school contracts. The general contractor may not have known of the existence of such a combination, he added, but he probably paid twice as much as he should have for his work and the city paid twice as much as it should have paid. These contractors were not in the Hettrick combination, he said.

It was shown that "Bull" Taggart, right-hand man of Robert P. Brindell in the Building Trades Council, called a special meeting of the employers among lathers for the purpose of finding out what minutes should have been destroyed. Minutes of a price-fixing meeting were destroyed, Mr. Untermyer declared.

Edward Riegelman, Borough President of Kings, at this point said Mr. Untermyer had offered many valuable suggestions for a workable plan which would prevent the interruption of public work. He suggested the advisability of the Corporation Counsel and the counsel to the Lockwood Committee conferring on the plan and putting the suggestions in a form that could be used as a basis of procedure under all contracts.

Not Pursuing City Officials.

"In the course of these investigations, where you have come to the point where you have information sufficient to satisfy the purposes of your investigation, if by going a little further you can determine that there has been misconduct on the part of city officials, will you continue or drop it at that point?" asked Mr. LaGuardia.

"We shall drop it right there because that is not our business unless it is so interwoven with our case," said Mr. Untermyer. "We would never get through. We are not organized or empowered to investigate city departments and we do not want to do it."

Here the Mayor suggested that he was made an exception to this rule and Mr. Untermyer said the committee had been very tender with the Mayor. He said the Mayor had no right to interject the remark because he was explaining that with respect to the Hanlein limestone contract for the County Court House a ring of nine men acted collusively so that only one bid was cast. He said that it was found that "the master mind" of the transaction was John T. Hettrick and the committee felt it its duty to expose this case and would do the same under similar circumstances.

Mr. LaGuardia leaned over the Board of Estimate's table and in an earnest voice said that when such a circumstance arose, he desired to "beg" the committee to pursue its investigation to see if any city official was involved.

Controller Craig then made a suggestion concerning a possible exchange of evidence between the committee and the Board of Estimate. This impelled Mr. Untermyer to remark drily: "I hope I am wrong, but I am afraid your exchange of evidence will be somewhat like that of the Department of Justice. They suggested exchanging evidence and they gave us a gold brick and got our evidence. However, they were welcome to it."

Anning S. Prall, President of the Board of Education, complained that the board had no force of any kind to investigate contracts. Mr. Craig pointed out that he had an Assistant Corporation Counsel assigned to his office, and the Mayor admonished Mr. Prall not to pay any attention to "side remarks."

Says Force Is Ample.

Mr. Untermyer said it was "ridiculous" to say that the Board of Education had no force to investigate contracts. The Controller pointed out that there were 248 employes in the Building Bureau under C. B. J. Snyder, and Mr. Untermyer declared the Board of Education had enough men "to investigate all the contracts of the country."

Mr. Prall explained that what was desired was an independent investigation. Mr. Untermyer replied that there were too many departments in the board already, too much extravagance, and that the Lockwood Committee "have to find out everything for you, and then you want us to go on and do the work." He said that Mr. Snyder testified that before a contract is made his department investigates the estimates. He said that for the same men to investigate the contracts again after they had passed them when they were 350 per cent. too high showed that they were unfit for the work.

"That is just the point I am making," said Mr. Prall.

"Will the committee be satisfied to have the Commissioner of Accounts make such an investigation if the Commissioner of Accounts will do it?" asked Mr. Prall.

"Oh, don't start a row here," said Mr. Untermyer in mock despair, as he threw up his hands. This brought a chorus of laughter from the Board of Estimate and spectators.

Mr. Craig brought out that when he tried to obtain information from Mr. Snyder several days ago he was unable to do so, and was referred to the Superintendent of Schools. This situation was characterized as "scandalous" by Mr. Untermyer, who was amazed to learn that the Controller could not inquire into the finances of any city department. Mr. Prall said it was the law, and Mr. Untermyer suggested that the President of the Board of Education "study the law a little more."

The Mayor thanked Mr. Untermyer and the Lockwood Committee, and then the board continued its session and adopted the following resolution:

Whereas, In the sessions recently held by the Legislative Housing Committee disclosures have been made of combinations for the purpose of collusive bidding upon building contracts, and

Whereas, It has been asserted in the public prints and public sessions of said investigating committee that in connection with and leading up to city contracts of school buildings and other structures there has been collusive bidding on the part of contractors, resulting in the loss of large sums of money by the city, and

Whereas, the work under many of these contracts is now in progress and payments of certain finished contracts in some instances are now due and payable, and

Whereas, it is vitally necessary that sufficient facts be established before positive action is taken by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment in respect to the cancellation of any or all of said city contracts; be it

Resolved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment that an investigation and inquiry be made by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment into the facts and circumstances in any wise relating to said bids, contracts, contractors, and into any combination or conspiracy in connection with same, and be it further

Resolved that the meetings where testimony is to be taken by the said board be open to the public.

Craig Opposes Resolution.

Controller Craig opposed the resolution, declaring that it would permit department heads to investigate what they pleased.

"Oh, don't always be four-flushing," said President Riegelmann. "If you know of any dereliction on the part of any public official, show it up. If you don't know anything, shut up."

Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien told the board that the evidence so far did not show that school contracts should be cancelled.

From the Board of Estimate room Mr. Untermyer went to the Criminal Court Building, where he appeared before Judge Mulqueen in the Backer case.

Mr. Mooney told the Court that the Lockwood Committee was acting on a concurrent resolution and not on law, that it had no power to administer oaths, and cited the McDonald case in the New York Courts and other cases in Illinois and Kansas.

Mr. Mooney said he did not contend that to sustain his motion to dismiss the indictment the life of the committee would come to an end, but he suggested that the committee had gone about its work wrongly. Instead of coming into being through a concurrent resolution of both houses, a bill should have been passed creating a commission which should have been presented to the Governor for his approval.

For such a committee to go on, he said, would be to continue as a volunteer body.

Mr. Untermyer attacked Mr. Mooney's argument as "weird and almost grotesque" and said he was unwilling to believe that Mr. Mooney was a "Columbus of the law" and that he had discovered a law that had never before existed, so far as was known.

Mr. Untermyer read the legislative rules that indicated that either house by itself, or both jointly, could by resolution create a committee. He pointed to the experience of seventy-five years and to numerous investigations, including the Mazet, Lexow and Armstrong and Thompson committees, to uphold his argument.

If Mr. Mooney were sustained it would mean a death blow to the usefulness of the Legislature, contended the lawyer. He said it was not a serious question, and Judge Mulqueen said he thought it a very serious question. Mr. Untermyer contended that the State Constitution would have to be amended if Mr. Mooney were found to be correct.

The Lockwood Committee will meet at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the City Hall.

HAS NOT REACHED GOMPERS.

Zaranko's Complaint Would Go to Union Head, Say A. F. of L. Officials

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—No complaints have been made direct to Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, by William Zaranko of the House Wreckers Union, it was announced at federation headquarters today. It was said that Zaranko could not make his complaints direct to Mr. Gompers anyway, but would have to file his grievances with Dominick D'Allessandro, president of the Hodcarriers Union, who lives in Boston.

Zaranko, it was reported here, had asked Mr. Gompers to settle a dispute between Zaranko and Robert P. Brindell, who is charged with demanding $10 per week from members for the privilege of working.

"Inanition" Due to Lack of Money, Palmer Aid's Reply to Untermyer.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Robert Scott, assistant to the Attorney General, discussing the criticism of the Department of Justice by Samuel Untermyer, said:

"The Department of Justice has done everything possible with the limited appropriations apportioned it by the Republican Congress. If there is any inanition it is due to lack of money."

Attorney General Palmer is not in Washington.

POLICE SCAN AUTOS IN SAFETY CAMPAIGN

All Patrolmen on Duty Begin Search for Defective or Stolen Machines.

CARRY WARNINGS AND RULES

Arrest One Chauffeur Who Refuses Information — Deaths May Reach 15,000 This Year.

The police inspection of automobiles in the city's campaign to lessen the number of accidents started yesterday with the halting of thousands of machines for examination for defective mechanism and to hunt for stolen motors. All policemen on duty are taking part in the campaign, on instructions from Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright.

Following a conference of Inspectors and Captains at headquarters, the patrolmen were sent to all parts of the city yesterday morning, with instructions to stop all motor vehicles that did not bear the police sticker showing that they had been inspected. In addition, squadrons were sent to garages to inspect all cars not in use. Vehicles found to have mechanical imperfections that might cause accidents were ordered to be immediately repaired.

Only general reports were received yesterday at headquarters and no figures were available. Scattering reports from precincts, however, indicated that many cars were found to need repair. In all such cases the policemen accompanied drivers to garages, where the repairs were ordered made.

Every policeman received stickers, regulations for street traffic and special traffic regulations with warnings to drivers. To aid patrolmen not familiar with motors, a special pamphlet has been issued.

To aid in the hunt for stolen cars motor numbers were taken, also the license numbers and the chauffeurs' license numbers.

A chauffeur who gave his name as Edward McKeon and his address as 575 West 175th Street refused to answer questions put by Patrolman Riebron of the West Forty-seventh Street Station, and was arrested. He also told the questioner to "go to hell," according to the police. He was released under $500 bail.

In Brooklyn the inspection was confined to garages and parking places. In a day or two the police will turn their attention to all cars on the borough streets and outlying roads on which certificates are not displayed.

A campaign will be undertaken by the National Safety Council to lessen accidents, it was decided at an executive meeting of the organization at the Biltmore yesterday. Statistics collected by the organization showed that if accidents continue at the ratio during the next month and a half as during the previous months of 1920, the number of deaths caused by auto accidents will reach 15,000, the largest in the history of the country. Last year's deaths were said to have been about 11,000.

It was pointed out that in St. Louis and Cleveland, where the council was most active during the last year or two, the number of accidents decreased this year, while most other large cities showed huge increases over the preceding year. Work similar to that undertaken in these two cities will be done in fifteen cities this Winter, it was decided, New York being included among them.

ONE KILLED, SCORE HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Jennery Grant, 29 years old, of 29 De Witt Street, New Haven, is in Fordham Hospital with a fractured skull as the result of an automobile collision yesterday morning on Pelham Parkway at Southern Boulevard, the Bronx. Grant was thrown through the windshield of the car in which he was riding.

Herman Wengroven, 2 years old, was killed by an automobile truck driven by Samuel Spiegel of 183 Second Street, a chauffeur in the employ of Joseph Schwartz, a crockery dealer of 195 Broadway. The accident occurred in front of 119 Suffolk Street.

Victor Toriena, 22 years old, of 230 East Fifty-sixth Street, received a fractured arm when a motor truck he was driving collided with another truck at Washington and Reade Streets. He was taken to the Broad Street Hospital.

Morris Hernlich, 13 years old, of 1,680 First Avenue, was struck by an automobile at Eighty-fifth Street and First Avenue. He was taken to Reception Hospital with a fracture of his right leg.

More than a score of others were slightly injured in automobile accidents yesterday. None of them required hospital treatment.

SHIP INSPECTOR TELLS OF DEFECTS

the headquarters of the Emergency Fleet Corporation in Philadelphia. He was warned against this course but he persisted.

"They were getting away with murder there," he testified, but, he said, when he insisted upon proving this, he was discharged a second time—for insubordination.

The Inspector then went to Edward N. Hurley, Chairman at the time of the Shipping Board, who was stopping at the Hotel Biltmore, and presented his complaint. Mr. Hurley asked that it be put in writing. The witness said he replied:

"I've already got a cramp in the arm from so much writing."

Following his talk with Mr. Hurley, he said he received a letter from R. H. Bailey, assistant to the Shipping Board Chairman, in which the writer said the complaints had been investigated and were found to have been unwarranted; that Purtell was a trouble maker, and that his discharge on the ground of insubordination was fully justified. The letter was introduced in evidence.

The witness said his persistent efforts to have defective work remedied was due to his patriotism. He didn't want to be responsible for loss of life in event of the foundering of one of these ships.

Chairman Walsh called attention to the fact that none of the vessels had foundered. He asked how they had managed to keep afloat so long if there were so many defective rivets in their hulls. The witness thought they had not had sufficient time, perhaps, for their weaknesses to be developed by adverse conditions.

"Two years is not long," suggested Purtell. "One of these boats might go along all right and then sink like a shot out of a 16-inch rifle."

The witness said that defective riveting was prevalent among all the yards, except the Hog Island yard, but his information was based on second-hand reports. He cited the case of the steamship Agawam, aboard which he said pumps had to be used as soon as the vessel was launched. Referring to the ninety-two days it took that vessel to make a trip to Genoa and return, the witness said she was suffering from a "complication of diseases."

Chairman Walsh asked the witness if he were not basing his statements on newspaper reports. He asked Purtell if he did not know that the difficulties of the Agawam were in fact due to defective fuel oil and the acts of an engineer.

The witness offered to take the Congressional committee aboard either of the two vessels he had named (Hulls Nos. 13 and 14) and demonstrate that he could push rivets out of their plates with his big finger. The committee did not accept his offer, but when he concluded his testimony Chairman Walsh suggested that the witness might be called again.

Three other witnesses were heard during the day. They were Captain William H. Chambless, Commander of the Shipping Board steamer Lake Elkwood; Captain Charles A. Elliott, formerly first mate of the same vessel, and Captain James A. MacGregor, who had supervision over the operation of Shipping Board vessels at Savannah and Brunswick, Ga. and Charleston, S. C. Captain MacGregor was on the stand when the committee adjourned last Saturday.

Captain Chambless told of his arrest in Rio Janeiro following a controversy with A. T. Haeberle, the Acting American Consul, over the disposition of the cargo and the handling of repairs on the Lake Elkwood. He said the repairs had cost $100,000, whereas they could have been made for about $2,000. He complained to Shipping Board officials by wireless and said that as a result the State Department took the matter up. Frank L. Polk, he testified, requested a member of the Shipping Board to discharge the Captain dishonorably and to give the case wide publicity. Captain Chambless testified the Acting Consul then had him forcibly removed from his ship by Brazilian officers.

Captain Elliott largely corroborated the testimony of Captain Chambless.

The committee will meet again this morning at 9:15 o'clock in the Federal Building.

BENSON AFTER WRONGDOERS.

Says We Are Reaching Crucial Moment That Spells Success or Failure.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Nov. 15 (Associated Press).—Replying to critics of the Shipping Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation, Rear Admiral W. S. Benson, Chairman of the board, declared in an address here tonight before the South Atlantic Ports Association that his "fellow countrymen" could depend upon it that no wrongdoer connected with the board "will escape if his wrongdoing is called to my attention."

"Not only have I insisted upon the closest watch upon all matters," said Chairman Benson, "but I have followed the work of the Shipping Board in every port of the world with the one thought in mind that we are now reaching that crucial moment which spells either the success or failure of a permanent merchant marine.

"There is no effort on our part to shirk whatever responsibility we have assumed. We have insisted that at all times the records are open to the public. Every facility is offered to those who desire information.

"It is an easy matter for anyone to pick flaws in an organization like the Shipping Board. We had to train 300,000 shipbuilders, and in the manning of our ships we have had to train thousands of men. Of course, in an organization of this magnitude, you will find here and there evidences of wrongdoing, and now and then you will uncover a systematic effort to defraud.

"It was necessary for the Shipping Board to employ men whose sole responsibility was the uncovering of wrongdoing, and these men were charged with a heavy responsibility. The men whom we depend upon to be checks upon those who might be tempted to do wrong bear a heavy responsibility if they failed us, but in an organization spending more than three billion dollars, where, as the largest steamship operator in the world, millions of dollars are expended from day to day, it would be humanly impossible to prevent all wrongdoing or to do business without suffering financial losses from time to time."

Men of vision will take into consideration the whole picture presented by shipping problems, Chairman Benson asserted, recalling the work done by the American merchant marine during the war and praising the vision of Edward N. Hurley, who as chairman of the board after the armistice, went ahead with the shipbuilding program.

"My predecessor, John Barton Payne, had a heavy responsibility placed upon him when he stepped into the office made vacant through Mr. Hurley's resignation," Admiral Benson continued. "Thousands of claims amounting to millions of dollars, the jobs of more than 300,000 men involved in the settlement of these claims, problems of reconstruction, are only a few of the many pressing matters that came before him in a day's work."

Responsibility for the establishment of a permanent merchant marine rests with the American people as well as with the board, Chairman Benson declared, adding that "it is the responsibility of every newspaper publisher in America (and I have time and again called upon the press and they have met me in a noble manner) to spread this message before the world—that America is now ship independent."

Declaring that he was charged, as Chairman of the board, with great responsibility, Chairman Benson said he would be cowardly if he ceased to exercise to the best of his judgment the powers vested in him.

"If mistakes have been made," he said, "they were mistakes that naturally may be expected in such a stupendous enterprise, involving, as it does, the active employment of more than 1,600 seagoing vessels, with the manifold problems involved.

Discolored Teeth a Good Cause for Worry

They are not pretty to look at, and their discoloration is a sign that the forces of decay are present in the mouth. Yellowish and brownish stains at the necks of the teeth are really colonies of germs whose purpose it is ultimately to destroy every tooth.

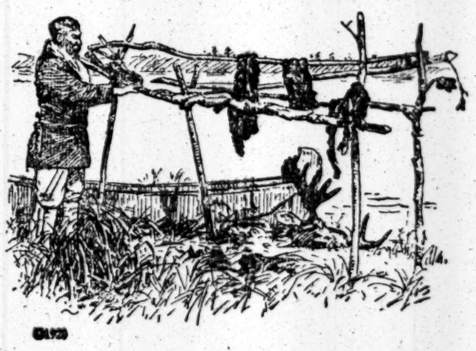
THE STORY OF REVILLON FURS



Smoking Moose Meat

A moose has just been killed by a director of Revillon Frères. The head and antlers may be seen lying beside the canoe. The guide is smoking the fresh meat which will be a welcome addition to the pork and beans and canned goods which are the usual diet on an inspection tour. In order to preserve the meat as long as possible, the guide is smoking it on a rack which he has built quickly with small trees cut from the bush.

ON TRIAL AS SEQUEL TO ALCOHOL DEATHS

TRUCKMEN TELL OF THEFT

Testify That Wine Dealer Bought Ten Drums' Contents for $23,000.

During the Christmas season of last year more than a hundred persons died from wood alcohol poisoning in various parts of New England. Yesterday John Romanelli, an undertaker, charged with being the head of the band who stole the wood alcohol and sold it for grain alcohol, was put on trial in the Brooklyn Supreme Court before Justic Isaac M. Kapper, charged with grand larceny.

In his opening address Assistant District Attorney Herbert N. Warbasse said he would show that ten drums of wood alcohol consigned to Johnson & Sons Company, London, England, while in transit between the railroad yards and the steamship were entrusted to Cosimo D'Ambrosio and William Woller, truckmen. D'Ambrosio, according to Mr. Warbasse, told Romanelli about the stuff and the latter suggested stealing it.

Woller as a witness for the prosecution admitted that he knew of the plan to steal the alcohol and sell it, and testified that he took it to a garage conducted by himself and D'Ambrosio.

D'Ambrosio testified that when he told Romanelli of the wood alcohol the latter said that it could be sold for a large sum. On Dec. 20, 1919, D'Ambrosio stated, the alcohol was sold to Carmine Lizenziata, a Mott Street wine dealer.

D'Ambrosio testified that he, with Romanelli and others, in Romanelli's garage, transferred the alcohol from the drums to barrels and carted it to Lizenziata's place. The drums were filled with water, taken to the steamship and shipped to England. D'Ambrosio testified that he and Romanelli received $7,500 each out of the $23,000 paid by Lizenziata. Woller, he said, received $8,000. The rest of the money was divided in small parts to others working in D'Ambrosio's and Romanelli's garages. D'Ambrosio will take the stand again today.

REJECTS SPA CIGAR BILL.

League Secretariat Holds It Is Supreme Council's Debt.

PARIS, Oct. 28.—The Belgian Government has just presented to the League of Nations a bill for cigars amounting to 80,000f. The bill says: "These cigars were smoked or carried off by members of the various delegations at the Spa Conference."

That conference, which was held in July, was attended by members of the Supreme Council and representatives of the German Government. The Secretariat of the League has announced that it is short of money and, moreover, it refuses to take over the debts of the Supreme Council.

COLLEGE STUDENTS STRIKE AS PROTEST

St. John's Military School at Annapolis Is Forced to Suspend Temporarily.

AT ODDS OVER HAZING

College Is Third Oldest in the Country and Furnished Many Officers in the World War.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 15.—Acting in defiance of the Board of Governors and Visitors and the Faculty of St. John's College, the entire student body, consisting of the senior, junior, sophomore and freshman classes, about 200 students in all, went on "strike" today. The school has suspended, at least temporarily.

"Inefficiency of the Board of Governors and Visitors of St. John's College to satisfactorily adjust and direct the movements of this college" is the reason for the walkout, according to a letter to Vice President John B. Rippere, signed by L. W. Hecht, "Chairman, Publicity Committee."

"In consequence of the recent and many previous unsatisfactory developments originating, according to our belief, in the inefficiency of the Board of Governors and Visitors of St. John's College, to satisfactorily adjust and direct the movements of this college," says the letter, "the student body of this institution uses this means to notify Dr. John B. Rippere, acting President of St. John's College, that they will absent themselves until arrangements, such as will prove acceptable to a committee consisting jointly of the Presidents and Secretaries of the senior, junior, sophomore and freshman classes, have been complied with, and until another and more suitable method of arbitration has been fulfilled."

This action came after it was thought the controversy between the members of the Sophomore Class and the Board of Governors, which has caused turmoil at the institution for three weeks, had ended this morning, when the sophomores signed a pledge. This pledge, in brief, was that the class would amend the rules adopted as a means of enforcing subordination on the freshman class and to abolish hazing in so far as "slatting" or compelling the freshmen to perform menial service is concerned.

The trouble started a short time ago, when the sophomore class drew up a resolution relative to hazing and was ordered by the board to retract it by Nov. 13, under pain of expulsion.

St. John's is a military college, and has supplied many men as officers in the regular army and Marine Corps, having been designated by the War Department as a "distinguished" military college each year continuously since 1914.

During the World War practically all of St. John's boys of suitable age were in the service as commissioned officers.

St. John's is the third oldest college in the United States, having been founded in 1696 as King William's School. Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star-Spangled Banner," was a graduate of the institution.

NO CLUE TO DEATH OF GIRLS

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Police, investigating the death of the two actresses Maree Ramey and Lillian Thompson, on the lake front early yesterday morning, uncovered no clue today to a solution of the crime.

It was definitely decided that another person besides the two young women had been injured in the scuffle which preceded the desertion of their bodies. It was proved that the mysterious telephone call giving notification of the girls' death had not come from the offices of Conkling, Price & Webb, as at first reported to the authorities, but instead had come from a pay station in the Stratford Hotel. No clue as to the person turning in the call is as yet available.

It is stated on good authority that the deaths resulted from poisoning, but the poison is as yet unknown, although four chemists labored today to determine it. It is not believed it was either wood alcohol or chloral hydrate (knockout drops).

Robert McCarthy and James Meeks, mechanics, of the "Smilin' Through" company, were booked tonight at the Detective Bureau on charges of adultery. A dozen other witnesses were examined at the inquest. They included the Citti brothers, who gave the two dead women wine on the eve of their death. The inquest was continued at the call of the Coroner to give the police an opportunity to work on the case.

It was discovered that Miss Thompson was in reality Mrs. Joseph McAree. Miss Ramey's correct name was Mrs. J. H. McCauley. The mysterious wedding ring, with the inscription "B. M. H. to L. T.," found on Miss Thompson's finger, is still unexplained.

WILSON GREETS MINING MEN

Sends Message to Convention Being Held in Denver.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 15.—Greetings from President Wilson were read to the first session of the annual convention of the American Mining Congress, which opened here today.

In a telegram of greeting to the congress, Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas declared that "it seems to me that we have reached a period in America when a just Government must assume the same responsibility for the regulation of industrial strife that it has assumed for all other forms of strife. If there is any subject in this country too great for Government to solve with justice, then Government is a failure."

$75,000 IN WHISKY SEIZED ON A PIER

Consigned to Dealer Here, Who Declares His Name on Permit Was Forged.

BAN ON LIQUOR FOR COOKS

A carload of whisky, which would have brought more than $75,000 to bootleggers in this city, was seized yesterday afternoon by men from the office of Frank L. Boyd, Supervising Prohibition Enforcement Agent in this State, on Pier 5, North River, when it was discovered that the liquor had been transported to this city from two distilleries in Kentucky on a forged permit.

The whisky was in 1,000 cases consigned to Max Kuntz, a wholesale liquor dealer in South Street. It was delivered to the pier, which is occupied by the Pennsylvania Railroad, on Saturday last. A notice was sent to Kuntz of the arrival of the liquor, and he was mystryfied, because he had not ordered it.

Mr. Kuntz went to the pier and examined the consignment. He found that the 1,000 cases had been shipped to him from the Susquemac Distilling Company, at Milton, Ky., and the Dant Distilling Company nearby. He said the value of the liquor at the distilleries was about $35,000, but prohibition enforcement agents declared later that bootleggers would have obtained $75,000 for it from illicit purveyors.

Mr. Kuntz also discovered that the liquor had been consigned to him under a false permit purporting to be issued by the prohibition enforcement officials in this city. His name was signed to it, but he declared the signature a forgery.

Mr. Kuntz communicated with John B. Quigley, Assistant Supervising Prohibition Enforcement Agent, who sent three of Mr. Boyd's agents to investigate. They waited at the pier until last evening to see if anybody called for the whisky, and when their vigil was not rewarded they removed it to a warehouse.

Indorsed at State Office.

Inquiry at the office of Charles R. O'Connor, State Director of Prohibition Enforcement, revealed that the forged removal permit had been endorsed there, and efforts were made to learn the identity of the person who submitted the permit.

Mr. O'Connor declared that prohibition officials in Washington had not changed their ruling made in February last that hotels would not be permitted to use liquor for culinary purposes. It was reported some days ago that several hotel proprietors in this city recently renewed applications for such permits as the result of the decision of the United States Supreme Court permitting the removal from a warehouse to the owner's residence of liquor purchased for personal use before the Volstead act went into effect last January.

"As I understand it," Mr. O'Connor explained, "that decision had no effect on the use o fliquor for cooking purposes. It applied only to the removal of liquor for persnal use."

Mayor William A. Lord and City Counsel Arthur C. Seymour of Orange, N. J., appeared yesterday before Police Judge Blanco, in Orange, as counsel for thirteen saloon keepers and bartenders arrested last Tuesday in raids conducted by private detectives. They demanded the release of their clients on the ground that no proof had been submitted that beverages alleged to have been purchased by Fred Sheridan of Elizabeth and Nicholas Turzay of Newark, the detectives, were whisky.

Mr. Lord demanded to know who employed the private detectives to obtain evidence against the saloon keepers, but Assistant Prosecutor A. Leslie Price, who appeared against the defendants, advised the detectives to refuse to reveal the identity of their employers.

Sheridan and Turzay testified that they ordered and drank whisky in each of the saloons raided by them. Mr. Lord demanded they produce some of the whisky as evidence, but they smilingly declared the evidence was consumed.

Judge Blanco refused to dismiss the complaints and reserved decision for one week on the motion of the prosecutor to send the cases to the Grand Jury.

Grapple Whisky in Ship's Hold.

Customs Inspectors, by means of grappling hooks, seized yesterday fourteen cases of Scotch whisky in ten feet of water in the hold of the steamship West Zuchio, undergoing repairs at Robins Drydock, in the Erie Basin section of Brooklyn. The liquor was in metal containers, and, according to the customs officials, was believed to be part of forty-five cases of whisky smuggled into this port on a ship last week.

Several complaints had been received in the office of Thomas Rush, Surveyor of the Port, that an unusual number of sailors were found intoxicated last week in the vicinity of the drydock. He assigned four Inspectors, who searched half a dozen vessels at the drydock yesterday, and were about to give up their quest on board the West Zuchio, when one of them dropped a grappling iron in the water at the bottom of the forward hold of the vessel.

The Inspector got a "bite," and, calling to his companions, after much effort, landed on the deck a metal container, which was found to hold whisky. Nine more containers were hauled up, and then the Inspectors questioned Alexander W. Hannus, Captain of the West Zuchio, and Charles Wall, the chief engineer. They said the vessel arrived here from England last week, but they denied knowing anything about the contraband cargo. They accompanied the Inspectors to the Custom House, but no charge was made against them.

What of the Future?

It is an enigma. No one is wise enough to forecast it clearly. Where is the "middle of the road" for your money's journey?

Stocks and bonds may go up. They may go down. The prudent investor will choose something that will not go down and will waive the chances of its going up.

The rates of interest may go up and they may go down. The principal of a Guaranteed Mortgage will not go up but it will not go down.

Whichever way the rate of interest goes, the investor at short intervals can readjust the rate and get the market value.

What can be fairer or safer?

The appearance these coats presents proclaims their station in life more eloquently than any words could possibly do it. There is an accomplished atmosphere about their fashioning and finishing in general that conveys the idea of importance without in the least making the onlooker aware of the details that produce it. They were made particularly for the man that likes to be well dressed, but who does not wish to call attention to the fact. The frills and furbelows of the riffraff are nowhere in evidence. The precepts of convention have been followed implicitly in the molding of every belt, buttonhole and lapel in their construction—from collar to hem. They are impressive looking garments in the real meaning of the term and will not fail to interest every man desirous of securing clothes of this exclusive sort at a splendid saving.

The joy of doing

Bursting with enthusiasm. Bursting with the joy of discovery. That was what Abner Cutler's little shop seemed to be doing on that day, three generations ago, when he began to make roll top desks.

Out of that enthusiasm grew his ideal to become a leader among desk manufacturers. And although in time he came to apply it to a complete line of desks, he always had a soft spot in his heart for the roll top and always kept it far in advance of any other roll top which entered the market. It was a matter of pride and sentiment with him. It is still—with us

Cutler desks are made to give satisfaction to the kind of men who work as Abner Cutler worked—to steady, upstanding men who find sheer joy in getting things done.

And you will find that in most any town the dealer who sells the desks that express success is that same kind of man. Write us for his name and for descriptive literature.

GRAND JURY OPENS VOTE INQUIRY TODAY

Will Consider Case of 26 Lost Ballots Among Election Fraud Charges.

JOHN R. VOORHIS TO TESTIFY

Tammany Leader Had Forecast Only Five Votes for Miller in His District.

Judge John F. McIntyre of the Court of General Sessions yesterday charged the August Grand Jury to take up the charges of frauds, crimes and irregularities at the recent election. The Grand Jury's inquiry will begin this morning.

District Attorney Swann has a number of cases to present, including the one involving twenty-six voted ballots of the Thirteenth Election District of the Fourth Assembly District found in a sewer opening. Deputy Attorney General Charles P. Robinson, assigned to prosecute election frauds, also has a number of cases.

Among the complaints received by Mr. Robinson is one charging wholesale frauds by Democratic election officials in the Second Assembly District made by Antonio Dalessandro, Republican leader, through the Honest Ballot Association. The Socialist Party, which has a number of fraud complaints, organized a Bureau for the Prevention and Prosecution of Election Frauds, which will present its evidence to the District Attorney.

Assistant District Attorney Wallace has subpoenaed witnesses in the Fourth Assembly District case and in several cases in Harlem to appear before the Grand Jury. He also has subpoenaed John R. Voorhis, President of the Board of Elections, to produce the ballot boxes and the tally sheets in the Fourth Assembly District case. The Grand Jury, it was said, will also consider complaints of Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch and her daughter, Mrs. Nora Blatch Barnet, of irregularities in the count, which they said they observed in a number of polling places on election night.

The charges made by Mr. Dalessandro pertain to the Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-first and Thirtieth Election Districts of the Second Assembly District. In the Seventeenth Election District, Mr. Dalessandro alleged, the Tammany election district captain sent word that he would bet any sum from $1,000 up that Nathan L. Miller, Republican candidate for Governor, would get only five votes. There were 575 votes cast in the district, and Judge Miller received but five of them. Mr. Dalessandro said he wanted a recount to prove fraud in the count of the ballots.

The Socialist Bureau is said to have evidence of fraud and intimidation in the Twentieth Congressional District, where Morris Hillquit was the Socialist candidate for Congress, and in the Eighth and Seventeenth Assembly Districts, where Louis Waldman and August Claessens were the respective Socialist candidates.

OHIO PHONE GIRLS STUDY SYSTEM HERE

START WITH SIGHTSEEING

Company's Guests Will Return to Instruct Others in Handling New Apparatus.

Twenty-one telephone girls, each representing an exchange in the Cincinnati telephone system, arrived at the Hotel McAlpin yesterday, the guests of B. L. Kilgour, President of the Cincinnati & Suburban Bell Telephone Company. In command of the party were H. J. Barber, Traffic Superintendent, and Frank W. Armstrong, President of the association of Cincinnati telephone employes.

The girls came to this city to study the telephone apparatus of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the largest and most modern of its kind in this country, and they will pay special attention to the elaborate system of handling long-distance toll calls in force in the Western Union Building at 24 Walker Street.

Although the party of pretty misses was sent on here by the company as part of its efforts to give Cincinnati the peak of efficiency in telephone service, no party of twenty-one girls landing in the "big town," many for the first time, could settle down to the monotony of just plain business on the first day. That's why inquiry at the McAlpin in the afternoon found most of them out sightseeing, and it is also probably why they dashed in for dinner and straightway dashed out to a show last night.

"The girls," said Mr. Barber yesterday in the office of J. P. Ellsworth of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, "are the elected representatives of the employes in the traffic sections of the various exchanges in Cincinnati. The company down there has an employes' association and all of the workers in the system belong to it. The association is divided into various sections—traffic, clerical and so forth—and the girls in this party come from the traffic staff, or, in other words, the operators.

"They are coming up here on a sort of educational tour, an idea conceived by Mr. Kilgour. He wants them to see every bit of the New York organization, which is, of course, the best in the Bell system. They are going to meet President Thayer of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and also Vice President Hall.

"The idea is, in bringing these girls to New York, that they may clearly see the relations that exist between our company and the Bell company, as the parent organization. We plan to stay here until next Saturday, and we want the girls to see the new ideas in force here, to study the 'set up,' the machinery as it were, of New York's system.

"Then, when these new appliances or large installations of the machinery already established, come to Cincinnati, these girls as the leaders of the various exchanges can explain the new apparatus to the rest of the operators. This will facilitate things for the girls and will, as a consequence, enable us to put in appliances without a break or a lowering of service to the Cincinnati public."

Because of its quiet, non-echoing surface, Armstrong's Plain Brown Linoleum was selected for floors in the general offices of the Remington Typewriter Company. The steel desks and tables have tops of Armstrong's Linoleum.

There Is Just Such a Floor

YOU want a quiet floor for your office. A floor that's easy and restful to walk on. A floor that isn't treacherously slick and slippery. A permanent floor that can be kept clean and attractive with little labor and at small cost.

There is just such a floor—Armstrong's Linoleum. It has endured the searching test of actual use in office buildings, schools, hospitals, libraries, stores, churches—and has proved satisfactory.

Armstrong's Linoleum, because it is made of cork, is a non-conductor of heat. This makes it a cooler floor in summer, a warmer floor in winter. Maintenance is inexpensive—you do away with the repeated refinishing that hardwood requires.

You'll find high-grade merchants in your vicinity who will furnish estimates and do the work of laying properly.

A very satisfactory way to install Armstrong's Linoleum is to cement it down firmly over a layer of builders' felt paper. Such a linoleum floor will remain permanently as smooth and tight as when it was laid, and give added years of service.

Whether you are going to build, or lay new floors in your present offices, be sure to consult your architect or contractor about Armstrong's Linoleum. We can furnish him with data and specifications for installing permanent linoleum floors.

HORSE RETURNS IN OLDTIME GLORY

SOCIETY PAYS ITS HOMAGE

Many Notables Occupy Boxes at Evening Session—Polo Game an Innovation.

Though his sphere of activity has become limited in an age of asphalt streets, the horse came into his own again yesterday for a brief time with the opening of the thirty-fifth annual exhibition of the National Horse Show Association at Madison Square Garden. Amid the rural beauty into which the amphitheatre has been transformed, he will be the centre of attraction for the remainder of the week for society, which always makes this an important event of the social season, as well as for the other thousands of lovers of the equine.

It has become the custom to point to the horse show each year as better and more pretentious than its predecessors, and that can be said of the present exhibition without exaggeration. The show opened yesterday with the promise of a brilliant success and destined to set new records before the week is over. There are 1,700 entries this year, compared with 1,400 last year, and this has resulted in so many new classes that it has been found necessary to carry the exhibition over six days instead of five, as originally planned.

The exhibition this year is distinctly of a military character and army officers and army horses are to take a much more important part in it than ever before. This is due very largely to the increasing interest of the army in the horse throughout the country, stimulated originally by the remount service, which has seen the necessity of maintaining a high standard as a matter of protection in times of war and to avoid a shortage of properly bred and trained mounts whenever the need for them arises.

Military Classes Numerous.

A year ago, at the first show after the war, the army first took a prominent part in the exhibition, and though just beginning the work of its new plans in this sphere it had ten classes. This year there are sixteen classes and 360 entries. Among the exhibitors is General John J. Pershing, who is showing under the name of the Headquarters Stable, U. S. Army. Other of the army exhibitors are the Third Division, Camp Pike, Troop F, First Cavalry, and the First Division of Camp Dix. John McE. Bowman has offered a $1,500 prize, one of the richest offered at the show, for one of the military numbers.

The series of polo matches, introduced this year for the first time as a part of the annual exhibition, bear further evidence of the interest of the army. These matches will bring together teams from West Point, Squadron A and Durland's, as well as teams from Brooklyn and Boston, in which army officers who are now playing polo throughout the country will take a prominent part.

Madison Square Garden has been dressed up on many occasions, but it is doubtful if it ever presented a prettier scene than yesterday when the doors were thrown open for the morning session of the show. The entrance from Madison Avenue has been made into a garden pathway, with flowers and hedges blanking out the harsh walls. Inside, the Garden is a reproduction of a quiet English village, the effect being carried out entirely around the big amphitheatre.

At the eastern end, high up on the balcony, is a row of picturesque English cottages, designed to represent a little town in Sussex, England, where in another age it was the custom to hold the horse show on the greensward in the centre of the village. The cottages are shown against a background of green and as twilight falls tiny stars begin to twinkle against the blue canopy overhead. The predominating colors are red and white, in perpetuation of the colors of the late Alfred G. Vanderbilt.

The attendance for the opening day was above the average, although it was not until the night session began that the boxes filled up and the reserved seat sections held their full quota. When the evening session began the Garden was well filled, while society was numerously represented among the boxholders.

The judging was necessarily slow on the first day owing to the large classes and the desire of the officials to make their awards with care. A large part of the morning was taken up in judging for conformation a large number of hunters which will be seen later in various classes where performance alone will count. This left only the class for cavalry remounts to be judged before the noon recess. It was found that more time was needed in the judging and it was announced that the first class would be taken up at 9:30 today instead of 10 o'clock.

One of the most interesting and by far the most spectacular of the novelties introduced for the opening day was the exhibition of the six-horse gun teams of the United States Army held during the afternoon session. This novelty was made part of the show at the suggestion of Major Pierre Lorillard, Jr., who first introduced them in the horse shows conducted in Germany by the American Army of Occupation.

The German soldiers first saw these gun teams during the hostilities along the American front, and after the armistice they had a chance to see them under peaceful conditions. In the horse show exhibitions in Germany the gun teams made a decided hit with the patrons when they cut figure eights and went through other evolutions which were extremely difficult for an outfit apparently so clumsy.

Action Is Limited.

Four of these teams took part in the exhibition yesterday and while no prizes were awarded the crowd was given a chance to see them in action in a limited space. The teams were fully equipped as if going into a fight, and the horses excellently caparisoned. In the limited space of the Garden they were unable to do themselves full justice, but they were sent around the arena at a fast clip, turned sharply and brought quickly to a halt.

Among the teams were some of horses that had seen action during the war and which were later taken to Germany for exhibition purposes. There were two teams of grays and two teams of bays. One of the teams met with a mishap as it came out into the arena when the gun carriage became detached and it could not take part in the exhibition.

The army took a prominent part in the first number of the afternoon session, a class for jumpers open to all, and in this General John J. Pershing met with his first defeat. He was represented by his horse, Jeff, which was shown by the name of the Headquarters Stable of the General Armies. Jeff is a horse that was presented to General Pershing by the Jefferson Feigl Post of the American Legion. Originally it was named Pershing but the leader of the American forces changed this to Jeff. Jeff may do better in some of his future trials but he was unable to get recognition from the judges in his first effort yesterday. This was an unusually large class and it required two hours for the judges to reach a decision. Jeff cleared his obstacles well enough, but when the ribbons were finally awarded it was found that the veteran jumpers of other shows were the winners. There were several faulty jumps during the judging of this class and the attendants were kept busy replacing the barriers.

Great Heart Gets Blue.

After several retrials the blue was awarded to Mrs. F. S. Peabody's chestnut gelding, Great Heart, which not only jumped faultlessly but also took the obstacles with a confidence born of experience. Miss Janice Liggett won second with Black Watch, while third went to the Quansett Farm's Rempstone, and fourth to Miss Lida L. Fleitman's Palmetto. This class indicated that there will be plenty of jumpers for the other classes to be judged later in the week and serves notice that there will be keen competition throughout the week. The veteran jumpers are certain to meet with strong competition from some of the newcomers which are only becoming accustomed to their surroundings.

The class for novice saddle horses was one of the largest that has been brought out at the shows of recent years, and there were so many good performers that it was more than an hour before the judges reached a decision. It was evident that they were giving attention to a different style of performance than in some years, and the high steppers which were always sure of attention at other times were not so well received. The winner of this class was Red Cedar, a chestnut gelding owned by Joseph J. Murphy. Red Cedar with a large blaze and four white feet, made a very impressive appearance and carried himself excellently. Early in the judging he had won the crowd over and was applauded every time he passed. Finally when the judging narrowed down to four horses Red Cedar was examined for soundness, and having passed muster, was awarded the blue. John P. Crozier's Elelia was the recipient of the red for second, John McE. Bowman's Cemas took third and Miss Isabella Wanamaker's Cherrystone was awarded fourth honors.

Cherrystone succeeded in winning a blue in the class for horses not exceeding 15.2 hands, which were required to carry 200 pounds. Cherrystone performed to better advantage in this class and won the first honors without much difficulty. South Down Pride, owned by Lieutenant K. B. Scharlini, took second. The White Oaks Stock Farm's Water Boy won third and Miss Janice Liggett's Gwydyrbud was awarded fourth.

Prince Leads Army Jumpers.

One of the best competitions of the afternoon session was seen in the class for jumpers, which was exclusively for army officers, the horses to be the property of the officers or their governments, the contest being open to all nations. There were forty-eight entries and it required nearly two hours to determine the winner.

The feature of the competition was the excellent riding and the fine jumping throughout. It was not generally known that the army had so many horses well trained for show purposes and the performances were a pleasing surprise to horsemen about the ring. Of all the entries but two horses refused the jumps and there was not a mishap during the trials.

The blue was won by Prince, a chestnut gelding owned by the Cavalry and Artillery team of Fort Totten, Staten Island, and ridden by Major De Witt. Second honors went to Kinglike, a chestnut gelding owned by the Nineteenth Field Artillery of Fort Myer, Va., and ridden by Major Patten. An unnamed horse entered as part of the Fort Knox entry was awarded third prize, this one being ridden by Major Booker, while the last of the honors went to Mitchell B, owned by Major Lewis Brown, Jr., who rode his own horse.

The judges spent nearly half an hour deciding between Prince and Kinglike. Both had performed so well over the hurdles that it was necessary to send them back for several retrials before the judges were able to reach a verdict. When the award was finally made it was greeted with cheers. Prince, the winner, will have an opportunity to try his skill in several future classes during the week in competitions which, like this one, will be exclusively for army horses ridden by officers.

Camp's Joan Takes Blue.

While the evening session was given over largely to the polo match between the Brooklyn and Boston teams, there was found time to judge several classes, among them one of saddle horses and one for horses shown in harness.

In the first of these, a class for novice saddle horses, the blue was won by Herbert L. Camp's Joan, which was formerly shown under the name of Joan Sawyer. This chestnut mare easily carried away the honors and gave the judges but little trouble in making the award. Miss Ivy D. Maddison's Myopia took second in this class, while third went to Glittering Glory, from the stable of Harry Newman, which took part in competitions in last year's show. Fourth in the class was Cottage Grove, owned by Frank Donovan.

BROOKLYN POLO TEAM IS WINNER AT GARDEN

Defeats Boston Trio in Spectacular Feature of Horse Show, 6 1-2 to 2 1-2.

For the first time in the history of the National Horse Show, two teams crossed mallets last night in a polo game, one of a series to be played as a spectacular feature of the equine exhibition in the Garden, and the event afforded the required dash and excitement which was needed to stir up interest in the show. The crowd enjoyed it.

The two teams that battled on the tanbark for honors represented Boston and the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club. The latter won by a margin of 4 goals, the score being 6½ to 2½. Each team was penalized ½ goal for fouling. It was a well contested game, as indoor polo games go, and every means possible was used to make it like the regular outdoor game. Instead of doing away with goal posts, as is usual in indoor polo, the uprights were there, eight feet in from either end of the ring, and drive outs were played, as in the outdoor game.

The arena was in better shape for the game than most followers of indoor polo expected it would be, but, at that, it was not to be compared with the fine, speedy turf of a well kept polo field. The players showed surprising skill, both in driving the ball and in interference and clever riding, while most of the ponies used were speedy and well trained to the game.

Four Goals for Each Team.

The Boston trio had to allow the Brooklynites a handicap of three goals and the actual scoring was four goals for each team, which showed that the handicapping was not just right, that Brooklyn played a better game than usual or that Boston was up to form standard. The players of both teams agreed, after the game, that two periods of ten minutes each is too short a time for play, with handicap, if the ball is to be driven out every time it goes behind the goal lines. Nearly half of the time was spent in putting the ball into play.

However, the crowd enjoyed the game. It furnished even more thrills than do the usual jumping contests and according to the officials, the minor defects in evidence during the game last night will be corrected in the second game of the series tonight.

The real feature of the game last night was the excellent team work, rather than any individual brilliancy, and as the goals were not credited to individuals, but to teams, the credit for an interesting match may well be given to the ensemble rather than any particular players.

In the first period Brooklyn was the first to score, on a long, well-directed drive. Then Boston narrowly missed a goal from the side, and Brooklyn made her second drive for a count, out of a scrimmage, Boston adding another to her score just before the conclusion of the period and just after Winn had been penalized one-half goal for goal crossing.

Brooklyn Scores Again.

But two minutes were allowed as intermission, in which to change mounts, and Brooklyn was first to score in this period, as in the first, the count being made on a lofty shot which, though between the posts, sent the ball up on the roof of one of the thatched-roof cottages at the end of the Garden. Boston followed with a good goal from a sharp angle and Brooklyn ended the scoring with a direct drive following a scrimmage near the Brooklyn goal. A foul was allowed against Dempsey in this period, during which one partial spill of a rider, who kept in the saddle when his horse went down, but arose in an instant, brought cheers from the spectators.

A team from West Point meets the Squadron A trio tonight, and polo enthusiasts expect a hard-fought game. West Point has to allow the squadron six goals.

The line-up and summary:

BROOKLYN.	Hdcp.	BOSTON.	Hdcp.

Mrs. and Mrs. M. Belmont Spectators.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Belmont were interested spectators at the rail. Mrs. Belmont wore a plain black suit and a small black hat. When Lady Beck was not judging in the ring she occupied her box, No. 20, and entertained friends during the evening.

Mrs. William A. Fleitmann, in box 22, entertained Mrs. Craig Biddle, Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., and her daughter, Miss Lida Louise Fleitmann, in riding togs, joined them after she appeared in the ring.

Reginald Vanderbilt entertained a party in box 14. Mrs. Bryce Wing and a few friends occupied box 78 for a while early in the evening.

Others among the spectators were Mr. and Mrs. John McE. Bowman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tremaine, Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Salmon, Miss Clara S. Peck, Robert E. Tod, Miss Amy E. du Pont, Mrs. J. S. Sylvester, Mrs. William du Pont, Mrs. Louis Long Combs, Mr. and Mrs. Francis S. Peabody, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Liggett, John R. Townsend, Harry D. Halloway, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Willock, Lewis L. Clarke and Mrs. Francis P. Garvan.

The afternoon was very brisk in point of attendance, and there were many children in evidence, especially in the Carll Tucker and the Reginald Vanderbilt boxes. Dark modish gowns with sables predominated, and much black was worn with the small crush hats, devoid of any ornamentation except designs in embroidery.

Princess de Braganza in Box.

The Princess Miguel de Braganza, who was a guest in box 15, which is owned jointly by Mrs. Preston Davis, Mrs. John S. Rogers and Mrs. Richard L. Morris, wore one of those small black hats, with a white embroidery design, at the afternoon session. Pearl necklaces continue in favor, and many diamond bracelets were seen. A glistening diamond anklet diverted some attention from the ring during the afternoon, as a smartly garbed young woman model, with black slippers having red heels, strolled around the "clothes walk" with her companion.

The thatched cottage effect of the decorations, with rows of hollyhocks at the entrance, proved a pleasing background for the display of afternoon frocks and furs. The display of the silver prizes opposite the entrance into the arena is also an innovation. Two gayly decorated booths add to the effect of the main entrance. Mrs. John Bowers was in charge of the Red Cross booth, and Mrs. Herbert Nicholls was in charge of the booth installed for the New York Women's League for Animals, of which Mrs. James Speyer is President. Mrs. Speyer, Mrs. Lewis G. Morris and others will alternate in attendance at the booth during the week.

Some of the season's débutantes were seen on the promenade. Miss Betty Jackson, Miss Margaret Flint and Miss Burks Yuille were members of one group. In Box 17, with Harry D. Holloway as host, were Mrs. Gouverneur Kortright, Mrs. Robert Graves, Mrs. Charles S. Whitman and Mr. and Mrs. Jerome N. Bonaparte.

Others at Afternoon Session.

Others occupying their boxes at the afternoon exhibition were: Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hamilton, Judge and Mrs. William H. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Garvan, Colonel Sir Adam Beck and Lady Beck of Toronto, who have Box 20; Mr. and Mrs. Rufus L. Patterson, Mrs. Ben Ali Haggin, Mrs. J. S. Sylvester and Miss Amy E. du Pont, who have Box 24; Mr. and Mrs. John McE. Bowman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Law, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Salmon and Harvey Ladew, who had Mrs. S. Bryce Wing and Mrs. William R. Grace among his guests; Mr. and Mrs. William M. Fleitmann and Mr. and Mrs. Herman C. Huffer, Jr., who have Box 22 this year, and who had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. William M. Fleitmann, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Craig Biddle and Miss Lida Louise Fleitmann.

Others in attendance included Mrs. George Henry Warren, Jr., Mrs. Samuel Vauclain, Mrs. Henry L. Burnett and Edward N. T. Burnett, Foxhall Keene, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac H. Clothier, Jr., Pierre Lorillard, Jr., Mrs. Ambrose Monell, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Fahys, Thomas B. Wanamaker, Jr., Mrs. William du Pont, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis L. Clarke, Mrs. Loula Long Combs, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Lehmann of Chicago; Mrs. T. Shaw Hall, William H. Wanamaker, Jr., Miss Clara S. Peck, Mrs. Thomas J. Regan and Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Fairbairn. Mr. Fairbairn is President of the National Horse Show Association, and gave a supper and dance last night at the Biltmore.

SOCIETY IN FORCE AT SHOW'S OPENING

But Simplicity Is the Rule in Fashion Display—Well-Known People Attend.

With more exhibitors at the Horse Show than ever before, the interest of society in the show this year has increased accordingly. At both sessions yesterday the boxes were filled with interested spectators and many well-known faces were seen at the ringside.

The interior of Madison Square Garden was transformed into a replica of an English village on fête day and made a fitting background for the uniforms and smart gowns of the ladies. What with the polo players, the uniforms of the American and visiting army officers, and the feminine exhibitors the ring was more colorful than it has ever been before, but this was hardly true of the boxes and the promenade.

More than ever before one was impressed with the informality. One boxholder was even seen knitting. With the increasing enthusiasm of society women for horses their interest in clothes has become secondary. Of course, this is largely due to the fact that so many women exhibitors now appear themselves in the ring, and evening clothes or even elaborate afternoon gowns are quite out of the question. So suits and simple street costumes were quite in order and there was a conspicuous absence of evening gowns.

Velvet gowns predominated, this material being employed in conventional dinner gowns which were topped with filmy picture hats of black or some other dark shade. These sombre gowns were relieved with handsome fur wraps and jewels. Diamonds seemed to have particular favor, although pearls and elaborate jade ornaments occupied an important place in the setting of the gowns.

BOSTON, Nov. 15.—The sale of Bill Sharen (2:11¼), crack trotter of the Maritime and Maine half-mile circuits this year, to Tommy Murphy of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., trainer and driver on the Grand Circuit, was announced in a telegram received here today. Archie Alcorn of Blackville, N. B., who bought the horse last Spring for $2,500, will receive $25,000 for him now, equivalent to $28,000 in Canadian exchange. The price is said to be the highest ever paid for a standard bred horse produced in Canada. Bill Sharen, a grandson of Peter the Great, is five years old. He was not raced until last year, and in two seasons of half-mile circuit campaigning he stands unbeaten, the holder of records on nearly every track on which he raced. The horse is a rich chestnut in color, stands fifteen hands high and has weighed 1,150 pounds.

YANKEE GENERALS TO PLAN CAMPAIGN

Owners, Manager Huggins and Scouts Will Meet in Conference Here on Thursday.

The 1921 campaign of the New York Yankees is scheduled to get under way officially on Thursday next. Colonels Ruppert and Huston, owners of the club, yesterday sent out word to Manager Miller Huggins and the scouts connected with the club to be here on that day for a general conference dealing with problems now in hand or likely to be encountered during the next championship campaign, and plans for another season will be discussed.

The call was sent to Huggins in Cincinnati, to Joe Kelley in Baltimore, to Bob Connery in St. Louis and Bob Gilks in Nashville. These four, with the owners of the club and Business Manager Ed Barrow, will get together to discuss the needs of the Yankees and the best way to fill these needs. Conferences this kind are not frequent in baseball, due partly to the fact that no other club has such an extensive organization.

Huggins has stated since the close of the season that he plans to make some sweeping changes in the personnel of the club and is prepared to do considerable trading to remedy certain defects. It is hinted that some of the veterans who have been regarded as important cogs in the machine are to be sacrificed in the movement to strengthen the club. The owners have declared their willingness to sanction any move that Huggins may care to make and to take the rubber off the bankroll if he is able to add strength without giving up players in return.

The scene of the 1921 training operations may be decided upon at the conference. The Yankees owners hold an option on South Side Park in Jacksonville for next Spring, but other cities are being considered and it would not be surprising if New Orleans is selected. It is understood that the Cleveland Indians, who have trained for years in that city, are to give it up in favor of Texas, and the Yankee Colonels are considering a shift from the Atlantic seaboard to Louisiana or Texas.

The Cuban invasion of the Giants has been completed and most of the players are now on their way home, having left Havana yesterday morning. This news was cabled yesterday by Johnny Evers, who has been in charge of the tourists, to Manager John McGraw. Evers will be in this city Thursday, before leaving for Chicago to begin his work as boss of the Cubs. During the stay in Cuba the Giants won eight games, lost five and tied two.

According to Cuban papers which have reached New York, Babe Ruth has been something of a disappointment to the Cuban fans. His ability as a manufacturer of home runs led the Cubans to look for some remarkable stickwork by Babe, but, while he has been hitting frequently, he has not been driving the ball to great distances. The latest accounts of Babe's exploits convey the information that he has yet to make a home run on Cuban soil. Meanwhile his Cuban rival, Torriente, has been on a home run rampage. This big Cuban hit three home runs in one game of the series with the Giants, Ruth and George Kelly being the pitchers who were nicked for the long drives.

President Charles A. Stoneham and Manager McGraw of the Giants will leave here tomorrow for Cuba to attend the opening of the Winter racing season at Oriental Park, just outside Havana. This track is owned by Messrs. Stoneham and McGraw, and the season is scheduled to open on Thanksgiving Day. Both officials of the New York club plan to return to New York for the annual meeting of the National League in December, after which they will make another trip to the island.

McGraw declared yesterday that the Giants probably would take on three or four American League clubs during the training campaign next Spring. He probably will again select San Antonio for training quarters, but this point has not been determined positively. At any rate, "somewhere in Texas" will be the address of the Giants next March. Connie Mack, who is to take his team back to St. Charles, La., discussed the playing of exhibition games with McGraw during the meetings at Chicago last week, and President Comiskey of the White Sox talked of a similar program. If the Cleveland Indians train in Texas, as now seems likely, they may be included in the preliminary schedule of the McGrawmen, and some games probably will be played with Clark Griffith's Senators just before the season opens. McGraw announced emphatically that there would be no long series of exhibition games, such as his team engaged in last Spring with the Boston Red Sox while making their way home from Texas.

LEOCHARES FIRST IN BOWIE FEATURE

E. B. McLean's Aged Gelding Defies Father Time and Gallops Off with Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 15.—Edward B. McLean's Leochares, which, though older than the Bowie track itself, is still racing in good form, scored another victory here today. Leochares won the featured race, a test at a mile and a sixteenth. He was so much the best of the four starters that he led all the way and was just galloping at the finish to win by two lengths from Thunderstorm, with Goaler third. Flibbertygibbet finished a bad last.

Leochares had not been in better condition for a long time, and, though he conceded some weight to all his rivals, he was able to make his own pace from the start. Butwell sent him to the front after racing a few paces with Thunderstorm, and the aged gelding drew clear to a lead of three lengths going through the backstretch. Thunderstorm was always second, and the two front runners had the others badly outrun. Coming into the stretch, however, Goaler closed with a rush and gained so rapidly on Thunderstorm that the latter saved second by only a neck. Had Goaler not been carried out badly at the turn into the stretch he would probably have got up for the place.

R. T. Wilson Jr.'s Wyoming accounted for the fifth race at a mile, in which he defeated Wood Violet in a driving finish after closing a big gap entering the stretch. Tom McTaggart was third. Chasseur showed a fine flight of speed for seven furlongs, and was leading when he turned for home. Wyoming was rated back of the pace until rounding the turn, when Weiner sent him along. He gained steadily until he disposed of Chassuer, but had to make a hard drive to get up to Wood Violet, which had speed left. Tom McTaggart was well up throughout and had no excuse. He fought it out with Wood Violet for the place and weakened right at the end.

There was a disqualification in the seventh race when Wood Thrush was penalized for fouling Favour. Wood Thrush got home first, half a length in front of Solid Rock, with Orenzo third. Favour had been the pace maker throughout, and Wood Thrush, in making his run at the head of the stretch, bumped into Favour and knocked her to her knees. Favour had to be pulled up, and the winner was disqualified at once. Handful being moved to third place as the others were advanced.

James W. McClelland's two-year-old filly Irish Abbess, graduated from the maiden class in the first race, at five and a half furlongs, when she led all the way to win easily from Trantula and P. T. Barnum among others.

BELMONT DECLARES ROSS RESPONSIBLE

JOCKEY CLUB TAKES STAND

Informs Bowie Management That Its Rules Govern Situation Involving Rider's License.

Explanation of the attitude of the Jockey Club with reference to the granting of a license to Carrol Shilling by the Maryland State Racing Commission was given out in an authorized interview yesterday by the Chairman of the club, Major August Belmont. The Jockey Club holds that the granting of the license was a mistake made by men new to racing, and a letter sent by the club to the management of the Bowie track, insisting that the rules of the Jockey Club are in force in Maryland racing, was also given out for publication. Major Belmont was asked if the hearing requested by the Maryland Jockey Club on the Shilling case and which has been set for Thursday next, involved the reopening of the matter.

"No," said Major Belmont, "that is not the way we understand it. It is a conference which Mr. Ross and the representatives of the Maryland State Racing Commission have the privilege of attending. As long as you are asking me the question, perhaps it would be as well to outline the situation, so that the matter may be thoroughly understood.

"First, as to Shilling. When the incident took place for which he was suspended and his case referred to the Jockey Club, he had already created a feeling of mistrust and suspicion, so that when he committed a definite breach of the rules, exposing himself to punishment, the opportunity was promptly seized to discipline him. The following Spring he applied for a license and at frequent intervals since then he has asked for the privilege of riding. Due consideration was always given, but the Stewards of the Jockey Club have felt that it was for the best interests of racing that Shilling should not again ride in races under its jurisdiction, though he was granted a license to train in order that he might make a living.

A Universal Custom.

"It is the unwritten custom the world over," resumed Major Belmont, "where reputable racing authorities exist to recognize punishment meted out to owners, trainers and jockeys for infractions of the rules. A jockey whose license has been refused, as in the case of Shilling, would not be considered in good standing in any of the Continental jockey clubs or in England or Australia, and it has never been the habit of turf authorities to sit in judgment on each other's decisions. This mutual support has existed between the independent authorities in racing in the United States and Canada also.

"The action of the Maryland State Racing Commission, therefore, in granting Shilling a license to ride was a regrettable mistake, attributable to the organization's being new to its duties and its members having permitted themselves to be misled. I really do not blame the commission at all, for we have had ample proof in our conferences with them of a sincere desire to further the best interests of the turf. The blame rests solely upon Commander Ross and Mr. Bodwell, his trainer. I attach no merit to Mr. Ross's eleventh-hour action in forbidding Shilling to ride under his license. As a racing man he knew perfectly well that it would mean the overturning of the Jockey Club's ruling. He failed to foresee such loyalty as the Maryland Jockey Club and the sportsmen that surrounded it manifested. Mind you," and at this point Major Belmont spoke with additional emphasis, "I do not mean loyalty to the Jockey Club, although I am sure that that exists also. But I mean loyalty to the interests of racing everywhere. It is fundamental that racing authorities stand together against what is undesirable and support each other in their exclusion of what they consider as coming under that head.

"It is the universal principle and practice," said the Chairman of the Jockey Club in conclusion, "that those under the ban must seek relief at the source of punishment. The racing authorities of Kentucky and those of Maryland and New York as well can be counted upon to follow this practice. It is already in vogue between Kentucky and New York, and I speak advisedly when I say that it will also exist with Maryland, New York and Kentucky. I can go still further and state that a like relationship exists already between the Canadian Racing Association and our turf authorities."

The Jockey Club's Letter.

The letter sent to the management at Bowie explaining the attitude of the Jockey Club on the entire case follows:

The stewards of the Jockey Club have considered with great care and deliberation the question of the authority and rules under which, in its opinion, the racing at your course is to be conducted.

First, That your license to race emanates solely from the Maryland State Racing Commission.

Second, That the Maryland State Racing Commission, at a conference with the stewards of the Jockey Club in New York on Sept. 1, in default of having then the time or the opportunity to agree upon a definite and complete method of co-operation with other established turf authorities, agreed that, in the absence of a set of definite rules and regulations prescribed for racing in Maryland by the commission, the meetings of 1920 should be run under the rules of the Jockey Club.

Third, That the Maryland commission would appoint one of the presiding stewards at each of the meetings running under its license.

Fourth, That at some future time to be mutually agreed upon a conference would be held between the Maryland State Racing Commission and the Jockey Club and a modus vivendi for the next racing season would be arrived at to the end that the good conduct and discipline of the turf should be promoted.

The Jockey Club, therefore, feels, and is so advised by its counsel, that its rules are actually in force in Maryland by consent of the Maryland State Racing Commission.

Fifth, That its rules cannot be changed excepting by the method prescribed in Rule 232, which calls for a certain time and procedure necessarily involving not less than three weeks to accomplish any specific change.

That in the absence of such change at the present time and until such change can be effected the racing rules of the Jockey Club are in force at your track.

Owners', trainers' and jockeys' attention is called, through your kind offices, to Rule 53.

In reference to the final paragraph of the foregoing, it is explained that Rule 33 disqualifies all participants in an unrecognized meeting.

Silent Martin and K. O. Jaffe Under Ban, Pending Hearing.

Silent Martin, deaf mute boxer of Brooklyn, and K. O. Jaffe, Harlem middleweight, yesterday were suspended by the Boxing Commission pending a hearing, which will be held at the next meeting of the commission, on Thursday afternoon. Martin and Jaffe were the principals in the stellar bout at the Commonwealth S. C. last Saturday night and were disqualified in the fourth round by Referee Jack Dorman because of their unsatisfactory work. Upon receiving the reports of its representatives at the bout the commission decided to suspend the boxers and conduct a rigid investigation into the circumstances surrounding the bout. The details of this investigation will be received before Thursday's meeting and the boxers will be given a chance to explain their work in the ring.

A. T. A. Grants Permission For Indoor Title Shoot

The American Trapshooting Association has granted a sanction for the first registered indoor trapshooting championship tournament. The event is to be held in connection with the Sportmen's Show at Madison Square Garden, Jan. 29 to Feb. 5, inclusive. Three indoor championships will be decided as follows: The amateur, the professional and the women's. In local shooting circles it is predicted that the event will prove an extremely popular one and there is every reason to believe that many of the leading shooters will compete.

GARDNER MAINTAINS GRIP ON CUE PRIZE

Billiardist Defeats Appleby by Score of 300-266 and Keeps Metropolitan Cup.

Edward W. Gardner successfully defended the Metropolitan Billiard Challenge Cup against Francis S. Appleby at the Amateur Billiard Club last night. The final score was 300 to 266. The winner averaged 9 21-31 and made high runs of 51, 45 and 34. Appleby's average was 8 26-30 and his high runs 37, 33 and 32.

It was the second time that Gardner successfully defended the trophy since he won it from Edgar Appleby last season. The trophy had been on the shelf during the war, but just as soon as Gardner felt that Edgar Appleby had had a chance to limber up his stroke after serving in France he challenged for the cup. Gardner won, and then defended it against the onslaught of Charles White. Last night's match was the first that has been played this season with the famous trophy as the stake. Immediately after the match Edgar Appleby challenged Gardner, and they probably will play at the Crescent Athletic Club within two weeks. According to the deed of gift the trophy must be won seven times, not necessarily in succession, to become the property of a player. Gardner has now scored four legs on the cup.

In anticipation of a keen match a big gallery assembled at the Amateur Billiard Club last night. The enthusiasts were rewarded. The match came up to their fondest expectations. Seldom has keener or better all around playing been exhibited by amateurs. A margin of 34 points in an 18.2 balkline match is a real victory by a scant cue's length.

Appleby started off as if he meant to make it a runaway victory. He scored his high run of thirty-seven buttons in the first inning. Gardner, however, soon found his stroke, and the lead alternated between them with neither having a commanding advantage. At the end of the twenty-third inning Appleby was in front by a score of 210 to 207, and then, in the twenty-fifth and twenty-sixth rounds, Appleby made runs of 32 and 26, respectively, and had command of the situation by the decidedly impressive margin of 265 to 221. At that stage of the contest it looked very much as if Gardner was doomed to lose his hold on the coveted cup. But Fate decreed otherwise. For the remainder of the game Appleby was able to procure but one point, while Gardner was making 79. It was a real "Garrison finish."

It was in the twenty-eighth inning that Gardner took the lead. It was then that he injected his run of 45 into the proceedings and went to the fore by a score of 278 to 265. During this run Gardner displayed some of the best billiards of the evening. He made several excellent cross table shots and his nurse shots were almost perfection.

E. W. Gardner—0 25 4 0 4 51 3 2 1 10 34 13 1 21 4 15 0 2 3 0 14 0 3 7 2 2 12 45 0 18 4. Total—300. Average, 9 21-31; high runs, 51, 45, 34.

F. S. Appleby—37 1 1 1 15 5 1 3 0 33 22 0 22 1 7 1 5 0 8 10 15 2 10 0 32 26 0 0 0 1. Total—266. Average, 8 26-30; high runs, 37, 33, 32.

Is Deadlocked With Mills After Beating Wickers in Cue Tourney.

Robert Crespi last night advanced to a tie for first place in the pocket billiard tournament being staged at the National Recreation Academy in Brooklyn for the interborough championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players. He scored his second victory in as many starts by defeating Ardie Wickers by a score of 100 to 87. As a result John Mills and Crespi are now setting the pace for the five other players seeking the title.

The fact that the game developed into quite a cue battle occasioned no little surprise among those who have closely followed the form displayed by the players entered in the event. Wickers was generally regarded as being pretty much of a "set up" for Crespi. This view obtained because of the decidedly disappointing showing Wickers had made in his two previous matches. In those games he had shown nothing to warrant the belief that he would be able to make Crespi step out as he did last night. Crespi is conceded to be one of the strongest players in the tournament, and the fact that Wickers was able to hold him to a thirteen-point margin of victory was a distinct shock.

Had it not been for the frowns of Dame Fortune during the closing frames of the game Wickers might have won. The balls rolled badly for him just as it seemed that victory was within his grasp. Several times toward the end of the match when Wickers was playing for position, his cue ball rolled behind the pyramid of balls and so tied him up that he had no shot. These breaks came at a time when they spelled defeat for Wickers.

Wickers took the lead at the start of the game. He was in excellent stroke and seemed to have almost perfect control of the cue ball. At the end of the ninth frame he was leading by a score of 68 to 52. It was then that Crespi was called upon to exercise all the generalship he knows to check Wickers. The result was that both players resorted to a great deal of safety playing. By degrees Crespi was able to overhaul his opponent and finally clinched the match.

Player.	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
J. Mills	2	0	1000
R. Crespi	2	0	1000
G. Gardner	1	1	.500
F. A. Saunders	1	1	.500
O. Hurd	1	1	.500
J. Renauld	1	2	.333
A. Wickers	0	3	.000

GREENLEAF WINS AGAIN.

Pocket Billiard Champion Leads Kreuter by Score of 250 to 170.

Ralph Greenleaf, the professional pocket billiard champion, won both blocks in his 750-point match against Louis Kreuter at the Strand Billiard Academy yesterday afternoon and last night. In the matinee performance, the champion won, 125 to 116, after a real battle. In the evening he won more easily, taking the block by a score of 125 to 54. As a result of the day's activities, Greenleaf is leading Kreuter by a score of 250 to 170.

The afternoon's play was productive of the more interesting contest. Greenleaf broke the balls and Kreuter immediately made his high run of 45. He gradually increased this lead until he was in front by 95 to 43. It was then that Greenleaf put together clusters of 28 and 19 and, by playing Kreuter safe whenever no reasonably sure shot presented itself finally overhauled him and won. With the score standing 116 to 115 in favor of Kreuter, the latter attempted to make a long split shot. He missed it but broke up the balls and Greenleaf ran out the game.

In the evening, Greenleaf took the lead at the outset and was always in front. They will continue play this afternoon and tonight.

TROEH LEADER OF AMATEUR GUNNERS

Vancouver Star Missed Only 220 Targets Out of 8,880, for Average of .9752.

The official averages of all trapshooters who have shot at 2,000 or more registered targets during the current season have just been issued by the American Trapshooting Association. The figures on which the averages are based include the reports of all tournaments received at the headquarters up to and including Oct. 31. While the season of 1920 is not yet closed, there are but a few tournaments to be heard from and only slight changes are possible in the final standing of the contestants for this year.

Frank M. Troeh of Vancouver has made the best record among the amateurs. Of the 8,880 targets he shot at he succeeded in breaking 8,660 for an average of .9752. Fred Harlow of Newark, Ohio, is second, having shot at 3,050 clay pigeons and broken 2,962. His average is .9711. These are the only two amateurs who succeeded in establishing averages of .97 or better. Among the professionals Guy Ward of East Alton, Ill., is the high gunner. He broke 6,249 targets out of 6,425 and averaged .9726. J. R. Jahn of Long Grove, Ill., ranks second with a record of 5,205 "kills" out of a possible 5,360 for an average of .9710. Jay R. Graham of Ingleside, Ill., is third in the standing with an average of .9701. He broke 5,355 out of 5,520. These are the only three professionals who managed to reach .97 or pass it.

Troeh's average of .9752 is truly remarkable when it is realized that this high mark was attained after he had shot at nearly 9,000 targets. This is more than 2,000 targets greater than any of the other ranking amateurs shot at. The only professional who shot at more clay pigeons than did Troeh was C. G. Spencer, who broke 9,925 out of 10,260 for an average of .9667. Of the 8,880 targets Troeh banged away at he missed only 220.

A study of the figures discloses the rather surprising fact that the form displayed by the trapshooters this season was not up to the high standard set a year ago. In 1919 the figures showed that twenty-two amateurs averaged .96 per cent. or better, with seven of them having .97 or over. Just an even dozen succeeded in making averages of .96 or better this season and only two of these topped the .97 mark. In connection with the averages of the professionals it is a curious coincidence that there are just an even dozen in this division who have averages of .96 per cent. or better.

BOXING TEAM IS PICKED.

New York Will Have Strong Representation in Intercity Tourney.

Fourteen local amateur boxers, including members of the team and alternates, have been selected by Benny Levine, local A. A. U. boxing official, to represent Father Knickerbocker in the intercity amateur boxing tournament which will be held at the City A. C., Thursday night. This team will engage boxers of Boston, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia in a series of bouts in four classes. The members of the team include Dave Yamins, former national champion, who will compete for New York in the 110-pound class.

New Basket Ball Coach Finds Good 'Varsity Material Plentiful.

Joseph H. Deering, Columbia's new basket ball coach, assembled his 'Varsity candidates for the first time this season yesterday afternoon. Despite the absence of all but one of the regular players, some thirty-one floor men were on hand for their initial session under the former City College coach. The only first-string player on hand was Stutz, who won a guard position last season under Coach Claus Benson and is in line for a similar post on Deering's aggregation.

Late classes kept Captain Marty Tynan and Johnson, the star negro forward, away from the workout. Other regulars missing were Watson, centre, and Bunk Harris, who is almost sure to step into a guard position after the football season has ended. Some of the 'Varsity veterans will report at today's workout and others will be taken care of in the night practices which Deering will inaugurate after he has had time to work out a schedule for the drills.

STEINBUGLER DEFEATS LOW

Play in the final round of the 18.2 balkline billiard tournament for the Class C metropolitan championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players was started at the Broadway Academy last night. Two matches were played. Charles Steinbugler defeated John Low by a score of 150 to 132, and George Spear won from Joseph Johann, 150 to 115.

In the match between Steinbugler and Low, the former took the lead at the start and, at the end of the tenth inning, was in front by a score of 71 to 21. Low, however, found himself and began creeping up on his opponent in the later stages of the game. The early lead that Steinbugler piled up proved too much of a handicap for Low to overcome. The winner averaged 3 15-45 with a high run of 21. Low's average was an even 3 and his high run 17.

In the second game, Spear jumped to the front soon after the start and was never headed. He made his high run of 30 in the second inning and thereafter maintained a good working margin. Spear was in excellent form, a fact attested by his average of 4 26-31. Johann's average was 3 22-31 and his best run was 14.

Maturo Eager to Play Greenleaf.

James Maturo, who finished third in the recent national pocket billiard championship tournament in Chicago, arrived in this city yesterday. He is seeking Ralph Greenleaf's scalp. Greenleaf defeated Maturo in a match in the tournament by a score of 125 to 44. Maturo's remark yesterday was: "No one can defeat me by that score and get away with it. I want to play Greenleaf again." The chances are they will be matched in the immediate future.

French Girl's High Jump Claimed as World's Record

CAEN, Normandy, Nov. 15.—Mlle. Elise Constant of the Caen Gymnastic Society cleared the bar at 1 metre and 42 centimetres (about 4 feet 6½ inches) at the Cormelles Stadium yesterday. The performance was under the control of the Athletic Commission of Lower Normandy. The French claim that this is a world's record for the women's high jump.

The women's running high jump record, accepted by the Amateur Athletic Union and included in the official list of records, is 4 feet 9 inches, held by Miss D. Horer of St. Mary's Hall. The women's standing high jump record is 4 feet, and is held by Miss Ruth Spencer of Lake Erie College.

NO SHAM BOUT IS BOXERS' GUARANTEE

Commission Assured Leonard-Kelly Fight Will Be Decided On Its Real Merits.

Guarantees that the fifteen-round bout between Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, and Harlem Eddie Kelly, at the Commonwealth Sporting Club tomorrow night, would be fought strictly on its merits were given the Boxing Commission yesterday by officials closely connected with the match. Billy Gibson, manager of Leonard; Tom McArdle, matchmaker of the club, and George Smith, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Commonwealth S. C., visited the commission's office, and in a conference with Commissioners Hooke and Ditmars, gave positive assurance that the contest would be without taint of sham or collusion.

The visit of Messrs. Gibson, McArdle and Smith was caused by the warning issued last week by the Boxing Commission. In its warning the Commission declared that careful attention would be given the selection of officials for tomorrow night's bout, and that any evidence of a sham or collusion would attract summary punishment to those connected with the bout.

Manager Gibson was surprised at the action of the commission in issuing its statement of warning in advance of the contest. "The bout," Gibson said, "will be strictly on its merits, as every other bout Leonard has participated in has been. I don't think there were any grounds for a warning, and I have guaranteed the Commissioners that there will be no reason for dissatisfaction after the match. The fact that Kelly has been knocked out since the match was made does not necessarily stamp him as an inferior boxer. He has engaged the best men in the ring during his career and has always boxed in a satisfactory manner as far as I know."

The Commission issued the warning following the knockout defeat of Kelly on Nov. 8 by Lew Tendler of Philadelphia at the Quaker City. The club officials are understood to have considered another opponent for Leonard, following Kelly's decisive defeat, but were unable to procure a boxer who would take the assignment on the terms agreed upon by Kelly. Because of this the club officials were compelled to adhere to their original program.

Forfeits, guaranteeing weight and appearance, were posted yesterday by the managers of Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, and Joe Welling, Chicago boxer, for the world's title bout which will be held at Madison Square Garden Nov. 26. Billy Gibson, of Leonard, posted $10,000 for the title holder's appearance and weight for the fifteen-round contest. Nate Lewis of Chicago, Welling's manager, posted $2,500 for the Chicagoan. The weight agreed upon in the terms for the bout is 135 pounds at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of the bout.

Gibson was in conference with promoter Rickard during the greater part of the afternoon, going over various details in connection with the match. The Garden promoter was skeptical on Leonard's ability to make the required poundage, but Manager Gibson convinced Rickard that the title holder is capable of making the recognized notch without experiencing any ill-effects. Leonard weighed 137 pounds for his bout against K. O. Willie Loughlin at Camden, N. J., last week.

DELMONT SCORES KNOCKOUT

Phil Delmont, hard-hitting east side boxer, last night knocked out Johnny Hayes, a sectional rival, in the seventh round of their scheduled fifteen-round bout at the Star Sporting Club. The victor, showing a vast improvement in his form over what he displayed in his last meeting with Hayes, showed to advantage from the start of the contest. Four times Delmont sent his rival crashing to the floor before sending over the finishing blow in the seventh session.

In the semi-final bout of ten rounds Frankie Mitzwell and Frankie Edwards, lightweights, battled to a draw. The judges disagreed at the expiration of ten rounds, and Referee Eddie Pollack declared the contest a draw. In a six-round bout Peter Slain gained the judges' decision over Benny Cohen.

BOXING COMBINE IS GRANTED A CHARTER

Dempsey-Carpentier Contest Company Is Incorporated for $10,000 at Albany.

ALBANY, Nov. 15.—The Dempsey-Carpentier Contest Company of New York was granted a charter by the Secretary of State today. Subscribers to the capital stock are Kilbourn Gordon, Martin Furner and Nathan Vidaver, all of New York City. The organization is capitalized for $10,000. According to the certificate of incorporation the objects of the corporation are to organize, control and promote boxing exhibitions and contests and also exercise disciplinary authority in connection with such contests.

Tex Rickard, Charles Cochran of London and William A. Brady, co-promoters of the Dempsey-Carpentier championship boxing contest, have combined their interests in staging bouts in this country, it was learned last night, through the granting of a charter at Albany today to the "Dempsey-Carpentier Contest Company."

Promoter Rickard last night declared the articles of incorporation would be amended today when the Dempsey-Carpentier Contest Company title will be eliminated. The original name will be replaced by the title of American Athletic Club Inc. The Garden promoter declared that the incorporation carried no significance beyond the fact that the three promoters who will conduct the world's heavyweight championship bout between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier feel that the enterprise should be incorporated as are other big business undertakings. The change in name of the corporation is being made Promoter Rickard said, in order that the promoters may continue their activities in conducting important international or national ring contests, if they feel so inclined, following the Dempsey-Carpentier bout.

The corporation will be started with a nominal capital of 100 shares of common stock of no par value and Messrs. Rickard, Cochran and Brady will be the only directors. Later the corporation will be capitalized at $500,000, which will represent the organization's liability for the Dempsey-Carpentier bout.

Nathan Vidaver, an attorney who drew up the contract for the Dempsey-Carpentier bout and acted as master of ceremonies on the day the articles were actually signed at the Claridge Hotel, stated last night that the new corporation will take over the contract for the important International ring battle. Attorney Vidaver said the corporation would start with a nominal capital, which would be increased until the guaranteed purse involved in the Dempsey-Carpentier bout had been reached.

What Dual Valves Add to Pierce-Arrow Trucks

DUAL Valves add to Pierce-Arrow trucks increased power equal to any demand they may be called upon to meet. Hills, mires and rough-going will not worry them.

Power Avoids Road Delays

Power equal to any need saves delay. Trucks complete trips in less time; makes more trips, more money. The yield from a truck investment is fixed by the work it does.

Reduces Operating Costs

This increased power is developed at a lowered cost. Dual Valves mean fuller, purer gas charges. Two sparks assure complete combustion and convert the charge into more miles.

Decreases Repair Costs

Time lost in the shop is a big truck expense. Easy accessibility of parts assures repairs, when necessary, with the least loss of time, with the lowest labor charges.

THREE TRUCK SIZES:

TIGERS' VICTORY IS DULY CELEBRATED

TOWN WATER WAGON SAVED

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 15.—The historic tower of Old Nassau was lighted tonight by the blaze of a huge championship bonfire, celebrating the Tiger's successful football season and particularly her victory over Yale Saturday.

All day the Princeton freshmen had been busy gathering everything combustible within a radius of two miles from the university campus, and many is the farmer who will miss his fences or his chicken coop or the hay rack cover in the morning.

The pile was centred about the "cannon," just back of Old Nassau itself, the spot marking the centre of undergraduate activities. The cannon itself is a relic of the Revolutionary Battle of Princeton, when it was left dismantled by continental artillery fire, to fall into the hands of Washington's troops. In the century and more that it has stood nose down, deep in its circular gravel bed amid the college lawns, it has felt the heat of many a victorious fire, but none more joyous or more pleasing to the undergraduates' pride than this tonight.

Real Reason for Joy.

The flames that lit the ivy-colored walls of the old buildings as brightly as the morning sun and made a glow in the sky for ten miles around, bore the tidings that Captain Mike Callahan's team had defeated Yale the second year in succession, for the first time in twenty years. And no more could the New Haben rooters chant their song of "once in seven years," nor flaunt the fact that Princeton had yet to win a game from the Blue in her new Palmer Stadium.

As soon as classes were dismissed this noon, roughly dressed members of 1924 began their systematic raids of the town. Wise storekeepers retired their signs for the day and the old residents removed their detachable doorsteps and bolted tight their shutters, but, even so, many a landmark of Nassau Street will be smouldering in grey ruin in the morning as this line catches the reader's eye. Immediate resources being exhausted, the freshmen went further afield, and before long decrepit farm wagons and one-horse shays that had outlived their days of utility began to appear under loads of fences and logs. Sometimes these went into the pile when their task of hauling was done, but more often irate farmers came in during the lull at supper time and rescued the vehicles that were worth saving before the blaze started.

Even the town water wagon lumbered gayly across the campus under the care of twenty freshmen, but the local authorities came to its aid before it disappeared under the rapidly growing pile and hauled it back across the lawns amid the hooting of the drawers of wood.

At 8 o'clock this evening a huge parade of students gathered behind the band and snaked-danced its way up and down Nassau Street to the strains of "Yale, Yale, you can't play ball." The crowd wheeled down the side streets and swept back across the campus to the cannon, where Captain Mike, carried forward on the shoulders of his admiring classmates, applied the torch.

The pile, which was a hundred feet across and fifty feet high, burst into a blaze and in ten minutes was a complete mass of flames which lighted up every nook of the campus and drove the spectators back against the walls of West Hall to escape from the heat. The flames lighted up two big signs, in orange and black paint, which placarded the score of Saturday's game to any who might be unaware of Princeton's margin of victory.

When the blaze was at its height a dummy, dressed in a Yale football outfit, appeared in a window of West Hall and slid down an invisible wire right into the heart of the flames, where the heat touched off the heavy charge of black powder with which it was filled, to the huge glee of the crowd.

Captain Mike Makes Speech.

Captain Callahan was again captured and carried as near as comfort would allow to the fire, where he was hoisted up on ready shoulders and forced to make a speech. What he said was lost in the noise to most of the crowd, but his reception and the after applause were none the less boisterous for that. Then the other members of the team were brought forth from all parts of the campus. A group of students charged up the stairs of West Hall and brought Don Lourie on their shoulders from the Friends' room, where he had been watching the proceedings, while another dozen managed to hoist Stanley Keck's huge frame into the light of the fire for a cheer. Before the evening was over most of the team had been run down and carried out, to be cheered to the echo, amid the tolling of the bell of Old Nassau.

The blaze did not begin to die down until midnight, and about that time the party broke up and the college went to bed to dream about another celebration next November.

N. Y. U. IS OPTIMISTIC.

New York University's football squad came out of the Bates game on Saturday in good shape and yesterday started on its lastweek of practice of the season. The followers of the Violet team are not at all disheartened by the defeat by the Maine players and are unusually optimistic as to the Stevens game this week.

The local eleven showed flashes of fine football against the Bates team and Gaigan [illegible] to find out why his charges are so erratic. Misplays at critical moments have been the cause of the last few defeats of the Violet. The New York coach started a drive in yesterday's session to eradicate fumbling.

No injuries were sustained in the Bates encounter and those men who were on the hospital list will be all right this week. Ryan was kept out of the game at the last moment, as he has a slightly strained shoulder and the coach did not want to risk losing him for the rest of the season. Levin will be in form for the contest with the Engineers and will resume his old place at end.

The injury of Pitt last week was quite serious and it is not certain that he will be in trim. However, Cadell, who was hurt early in the season, is again in uniform and will start in the Hoboken game. This will greatly strengthen the Violet, as that place seemed somewhat weak on Saturday.

STEVENS ELEVEN AGOG.

Hopes to Beat N. Y. U., Thus Concluding Third Season Undefeated.

The football season for Stevens Tech is gradually working toward the climax on Saturday, when Stevens and New York University battle on the Castle Point field at Hoboken for supremacy. The Stevens team has more to lose than New York University in view of the records of the two institutions. If the Violet team wins, it will prevent the Engineers from claiming three straight undefeated seasons.

Great interest is being shown in this game, as is evidenced by the demand for tickets. About 8,000 spectators are expected and extra stands are being erected to accommodate the enlarged attendance.

Vardon and Ray Say U. S. Will Win British Amateur Title

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Harry Vardon and Ted Ray, the English golfers who returned today from their American invasion, expressed the opinion that Chick Evans of Chicago, who won the American amateur title this Summer, and Bobby Jones, the Atlanta youngster, are the best of the United States' amateur players, and that Jones is the better of the two. "Twenty American amateurs are certain to visit England next year," Vardon told reporters, "and our amateur championship will assuredly go to the United States."

HARVARD PERFECTS OFF-TACKLE PLAYS

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 15.—This was an unusually busy Monday for the Harvard 'Varsity football men, who have had no hard drilling since they played the Jersey Tigers. With only four days between them and their game with Yale at New Haven, they started work today in the fundamentals. There was a session at the tackling dummies and later a signal drill for the three teams which have been in grooming for the entire season. The session started shortly after 2 o'clock and lasted until dark. There was no scrimmaging, but the 'Varsity and substitutes were sent against each other for a dummy drill.

Yale's defensive tactics were watched very closely at Princeton on Saturday. The coaches evidently have more than a passing respect for the New Haven line from tackle to tackle, and this week Harvard will make every effort to perfect its off-tackle game.

The 'Varsity had no sooner finished with the substitutes than the second eleven was brought into the Stadium and engaged in a soft scrimmage against both the first team and the substitutes. There was both offensive and defensive work. The scrubs had been equipped thoroughly with the Yale play by the scouts, headed by Bill Blake, who has been on the New Haven job for several years.

The 'Varsity line-up was varied a little today, Crocker and Macomber both being used at right end, while Gaston remained with the substitute team. Macomber's weight and ability to receive forward passes make him valuable for open play, and, in a running attack, Macomber is as effective an interferer as there is in the entire squad of end rushers.

Sedgwick played in his old berth at left tackle for a while, alternating with Faxon, while Buell as well as Fitzgerald took a hand at running the first team. Johnson got a lot of good work out of the substitutes against Brown, but the play of the subs Saturday was discounted because of the poor condition of the Providence eleven, which faded away as soon as Ink Williams was hurt. In the running backfield, Dick Humphrey, who was a first-string man last Fall, got a chance with the regulars, playing at right half and alternating with Fitts and Churchill. The remainder of the team comprised Kane at left end, Hubbard at right tackle, Tolbert and Brown, guards; Hamemyer, centre, and Owen and Horween in the backfield.

Tommy Woods, the regular right guard, did not get into his playing clothes today. There seems no doubt about his starting Saturday. But he is not getting back in trim as fast as it was expected he would.

Percy Haughton was at Cambridge again today. The former head coach went to Princeton with the other football advisers, and he does not share with the graduates the idea that Harvard is going to run riot against Yale down in the bowl. Today before the practice Haughton talked to the team, cautioning them not to be overconfident and pointing out some of the strong points in the New Haven plays. He also went back into history, noting the years when Yale, with a team which Harvard expected to beat, notably in 1897, 1899 and 1910, was able to stave off defeat and finish in a 0 to 0 tie.

There was betting at odds of 10 to 7 and 10 to 6 in Boston today, Harvard, of course, being the favorite.

Fordham Eleven Prepares for Big Game—Muhlenburg Not Feared.

The Fordham football team emerged from last Saturday's contest with George Washington University in good shape, and Coach Dumoe started the Maroon athletes working again yesterday at Fordham Field in preparation for their two remaining contests. Although Fordham plays Muhlenburg here next Saturday, the Maroon coach is not looking for very strenuous opposition from the Allentown aggregation, and from now on he will point his charges toward the big contest with Holy Cross at Worcester on Thanksgiving Day.

Yesterday afternoon's session was an exclusive affair, the playing field being closed to all except coaches, trainers and the players. Furthermore, Dumoe announced that secret practice would continue for the rest of the season except during scrimmages when the student body would be admitted. There was no scrimmage yesterday, most of the workout taking the form of signal drills and forward passing practice.

Two of Fordham's injured regulars returned to the fold yesterday and went through part of the signal practice with the first team. Steele ran the team for a short time at quarterback, and Pat Miller, centre, passed to him from his old position. Neither is in condition for real work yet, but both are coming around gradually and will surely be ready for the Holy Cross contest next week.

Halloran, the halfback who has been out of the game for the last two weeks, also appeared in uniform yesterday and worked out with the second team. He appeared to be in as good shape as ever, and it will not be long before he has regained his place behind the Maroon line.

Captain Fitzpatrick, the lanky end of the Fordham eleven, escaped without a scratch after the great game he played against George Washington. Fitzpatrick is certainly the outstanding star of the Bronx aggregation. Although he plays in the line, Fitzpatrick drops back to the backfield frequently where he makes the ideal "triple threat" man. He can punt, pass or carry the ball, as he demonstrated most effectively on Saturday.

BEZDEK SILENT ON GAME.

Special to The New York Times.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 15.—"I will discuss no post-season game until after our regular season is ended," said Hugo Bezdek today when asked about the proposed game with the Notre Dame in New York City. That means that there will be no decision announced by the Penn State authorities until after the annual Thanksgiving Day game with the University of Pittsburgh.

Graduate Manager Neil Fleming also would make no comment on the proposal.

There were about two inches of snow on New Beaver Field this afternoon and Bezdek decided to give his players a rest in preparation for the hard grind between now and Thanksgiving Day. A short blackboard lecture took place and the Blue and White coach pointed out the hard task ahead, if Penn State is to defeat Pitt. Bezdek told the players that they could expect their hardest game of the year against the Panthers and that only by reaching the top of their game on Thanksgiving Day could they hope to win.

ELI ELEVEN IDLES AT GEDNEY FARMS

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 15.—The members of the Yale 'Varsity were not at the field this afternoon, and will not come down from Gedney Farms until tomorrow. On the trip to Gedney Farms were all the players who took part in the Princeton game, Tad Jones, Trainer John Mack and several substitutes. The other coaches, Dr. Brides, Dr. Bull, Field, Vaughan and Mosely, were at the bowl with the squad this afternoon.

The so-called first team for today lined up as follows: Dutton and Shevlin, ends; Munger and Trowbridge, tackles; Gulkshank and Herr, guards; Moore, centre; Dan Kelly, quarterback; Wakelee and Stabeck, halfbacks; Webb, fullback. Egan replaced Shevlin at end for a while. Trippe went in for Cruikshank and Knapp for Stabeck. This eleven had a long scrimmage with Dr. Bull's team, and afterward some practice in running back kickoffs. On the scrimmage, the principal work was forward passing and defending against forward passing. The individual star of the scrimmage was Wakelee, who made a 50-yard run. He also intercepted a forward pass and made a touchdown after a 30-yard run.

Early in the scrimmage Dan Kelly kicked a goal from the 25-yard line. Herr, playing guard, recovered a fumble of Saunders's, but on the next play Jack Cutler, the scrub quarterback, intercepted a forward pass. A punt of Saunders's was blocked and Shevlin picked it up and ran for a touchdown. Dan Kelly made another touchdown on a line plunge.

These three touchdowns were the only ones made by the first team in straight play. For the scrubs, Jack Cutler made a touchdown, taking a forward pass.

Chester J. Laroche, the freshman coach, who came out today to the field with the 'Varsity coaches, was highly complimented on the success of the freshman season, which closed Saturday. His team has come through without a defeat, or a tie score, and with victories over Hotchkiss, Dean Academy, Phillips Exeter, Phillips Andover and Princeton and Harvard freshmen.

LYTTLE ON W. VA. 'VARSITY.

Special to The New York Times.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 15.—Ross Lyttle was at quarterback on the West Virginia 'Varsity today as recognition of his sensational work against Rutgers Saturday. He got into the game in the fourth quarter, and was largely responsible for two touchdowns scored against the Scarlet.

All the Mountaineer regulars were on the field, but several had evidence of the struggle with the Rutgers eleven.

O'NEILL IS DISPLEASED.

Columbia Coach Lectures Eleven for Poor Game With Cornell.

Thoroughly displeased with Columbia's showing against Cornell last Saturday, Coach Buck O'Neill yesterday cleared South Field of everybody but coaches and managers while he gave the Blue and White 'Varsity its soundest lecture of the season. O'Neill had already launched on his scorching remarks before he decided to make the session entirely private, and he was forced to interrupt his remarks to banish all the spectators. Former 'Varsity players and members of the "C" Club were included in the ban, as were newspaper men and several well-known graduates who have been regular attendants at the practices this year.

The brunt of O'Neill's remarks was addressed to the line, which he said was responsible for Saturday's setback. The chief charge against the forwards was their failure to charge aggressively and meet the Cornell attack in its inception. Pulleyn, one of the ends, came in for a lecture on the same grounds, and the secondary defense was criticised for waiting back for the opposing runners to reach its territory. The only 'Varsity players to escape a lecturing were Calloway, the dusky guard, who played his position up to the hilt, and Ralph Forsythe, whose end play stood out in the Blue and White defense.

O'Neill made no attempt to minimize the superiority of Cornell's general play and was willing to pay tribute to the power in Gil Doble's attack. But it was equally evident that he believed the Columbia line was far below par and was the weak link in the New York team's defense.

A brief signal drill was the extent of the afternoon's drill for the 'Varsity squad, O'Neill making no attempt to drive the eleven too hard after Saturday's grind. The exercise with signals lasted after the searchlights had been turned on, but it was one of the easiest Monday workouts of the season.

Jack Kienninger, Captain and former centre, was experimented with yesterday at end in place of Pulleyn. The Blue and White leader played part of Saturday's contest at the wing position but displayed unfamiliarity with the post. He will receive further trials, however, and will be saved for reserve duty against Penn.

SURKEIN WINS WITH CUE.

Defeats Quinlan, 35 to 30, in Amateur Three-Cushion Tourney.

In one of the closest matches that has been played in the amateur handicap three-cushion billiard tournament at Joe Thum's Academy, Abe Surkein last night defeated William Quinlan by a score of 35 to 30. The game consumed 108 innings. Quinlan led up to the eighty-first inning, at one time being in front by 30 to 20, but Surkein cut loose a brand of angle play that could not be denied and he finally pulled the game out of the fire.

NAME CANDIDATES FOR A. A. U. HEAD

Weaver, Obertubbesing and Fitzpatrick Out for National Association Presidency.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 15.—The names of three candidates have been announced tonight in the contest for President of the Amateur Athletic Union, in annual session here. The election will be held tomorrow, determination of championship awards and various proposals for amendment of the constitution having been disposed of today.

Those now in the race are Robert S. Weaver, Los Angeles; Herman Obertubbesing, New York, and Harry W. Fitzpatrick, New Orleans. The name of William S. Haddock, Pittsburgh, also has been mentioned as a possible candidate.

Sharp discussion preceded the adoption of the recommendation of Chairman Bartow S. Weeks, of the Legislative Committee, that army and navy athletes be permitted to compete under Amateur Athletic Union auspices without registration. The amendment carried with it a requirement that service men be registered by the army or navy to insure their amateur standing.

Add to Amateur Rule.

The convention added a clause to the amateur rule providing that participation in any compensation or award contest as an official would impair amateur standing. It also decided to leave to local associations the determination of the question involved in the proposal to extend to high school players the summer baseball rule applying now to college men.

The record of Tom Campbell of the University of Chicago of 1 minute 13 1-5 seconds for 600 yards at indoor track and field championships of the Central Association of A. A. U. at the Coliseum, Chicago, April 12, 1919, was rejected because of being a paced race.

The record of Maurice M. Kirksey, Stanford University, of 9 4-5 seconds for 100 yards was referred back to the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. for certification.

The record committee referred the records of Earl J. Thompson, Dartmouth College, of 8 1-5 seconds for 70 yards low hurdles and that of 6 seconds for 45-yard high hurdles, made by the same athlete indoors, back to the Metropolitan and New England associations, respectively, because of insufficient papers.

THE LEAGUE AT WORK.

With calm disregard of all cisatlantic notifications that it is "dead," the League of Nations meets at Geneva, organizes and gets down to business. The United States is brilliant by its absence. But the small nations are there, all eager to make the League function. They seem to be fully convinced, notwithstanding the warnings of our wise Republican Senators, that it is a world-organization mainly for their protection. The horrid creature of the Borah-Johnson imagination—namely, a League which is only a military and imperialist alliance—does not affright the representatives of the weaker countries. Far from being terrified by the Assembly of the League, the Scandinavians have proposed that it meet at least annually, and that an extraordinary session may be called at any time on the request of ten members of the League. To Senator LODGE—we mean the pre-election LODGE—this must seem like slaves hugging their chains.

A little flutter of excitement has been caused by Lord ROBERT CECIL'S appearing at Geneva as one of the delegates from South Africa. There is no law or rule against this, though, of course, it would have been better if Lord ROBERT had been sent as a representative of Great Britain. But it was understood that he would not be so appointed, and General SMUTS and the Government of South Africa urged him to serve for them.

This is both an honor and a tribute to Lord ROBERT CECIL. No one labored more intelligently and disinterestedly than he to bring about the League, and he certainly ought to be at Geneva. Nobody better understands the League. He has a large grasp of its principle, and he thoroughly knows its machinery. Also with the chief problems that may come before it is he as familiar as any statesman of his time. In England he has been one of the strongest advocates of the League, defending it against the occasional despondent comments of LLOYD GEORGE, and putting more fervor into his championship of it than Mr. BALFOUR is able to muster. Friends of the League of Nations everywhere will be glad that Lord ROBERT, who at once enters into the high conceptions that gave it birth and is anxious to demonstrate its practical efficiency, is at Geneva to help set it going.

Too ambitious a program is not marked out at first. To put the League fully on its feet, to show to the world that the idea of it can be made a living reality, is of itself a great and useful achievement. Doubtless the League, whether formally or informally, will give attention to some of the vexed questions left over by the Treaty of Versailles. Chief among these is the question of the German indemnity. Despite the confessed necessity of making this fixed and definite, the work has flagged. The latest decision of the Supreme Council is to have a meeting of experts, including Germans, at Brussels, and then a final referring back of the matter to the Council itself. On these terms France and England, after some misunderstandings and no little diplomatic friction, have finally agreed. Here is a matter not only of controversy but of peril, in which the League might properly interest itself, since Article XI. of the Covenant declares it to be the "friendly right" of each member to "bring to the attention of the Assembly or of the Council any circumstance whatever affecting international relations." In this particular the League would probably have to work through the Reparations Commission, erected by the Treaty. But either in that way or some other, Germany ought soon to know precisely what she will have to pay for the damage wantonly wrought by her in the war. The earlier she knows it, the better it will be both for her and all the rest of the world. No large scheme of international credits can be worked out until the total liability of Germany is ascertained.

Thoughtful Americans do not conceal their mortification and regret that this nation is not represented at Geneva. We belong there. We ought to be in the League, if only to help perfect it and guide its first steps. Now that the prejudices and violences of the election have subsided, there is a general and an obvious feeling that the United States is playing a shabby part in standing aside, when nearly all the other Powers are striving to shape an instrument of peace and civilization. "Hang yourself, CRILLON, for there has been glorious fighting and you were not here." That old message may now be varied so as to convey to America the sense of all her admirers and well-wishers in Europe that she should be taking her part in the still more glorious peacemaking.

She will, we doubt not, be doing it in time. Just at present, she can do little more than look across the ocean to see the predictions of her oracles in the Senate falsified. They said that the League would never come into being. But it not only lives, it moves. The difficulties raised by ten thousand Republican speeches of ten millions of words are all solved by the League's walking.

PANAMA CANAL PROFITS.

The Canal Record reports that last year the operating expenses of the Panama Canal were $6,548,272, and the receipts were $8,935,871. "leaving a profit of $2,387,599." Since the opening of the canal the cost of operation has been $36,657,766, and the revenues $34,657,766. It is agreeable to know that the canal's last year was its best, and it may confidently be expected that the commerce of peace through the Isthmus route will surpass that of war. The canal's best years are before it, and it was not built for the sake of profit. It would justify its existence even if it did no more than double the efficiency of our fleet.

There are offsets to the profits reported. Nothing has yet been earned toward the interest on the $367,151,695 which the canal has cost. Every year that the interest is lost on that sum it is added to the cost and must be deducted from profits reckoned on a commercial accounting. No private undertaking could afford to sink that amount of capital. The canal therefore may be taken as an example of the sort of commercial facility which must be supplied at public cost, regardless of profit or loss, or not be supplied at all. Another considerable charge against the method of running the canal is the disturbance to land rates for the benefit of private shippers and without precautions to make sure that the saving in freight is reflected to some degree in prices to consumers.

One reason for building the canal was to force a reduction of railway rates, and in that it has been a success something too complete. The transcontinental rates have been reduced to the degree of abolishing profit on canal and railway transportation alike, and there has been created a problem which remains unsolved—that of the relation of long haul rates to short haul. Westward traffic has been sent eastward to make a combination of rail and water rates cheaper than the all-rail rate over a shorter route, and the corresponding combination has been made in the reverse direction. Moreover, all the territory between the oceans demands a land rate proportioned in some degree to the lower water rate which geography denies to it.

The problem has been fought over for a generation without finding a satisfactory solution. The one way which has not yet been tried is the operation of the canal in harmony with the railways, rather than as a trouble-maker for them. If the canal were put in the way of earning a commercial profit, the loss to the taxpayers would be reduced, the railways would be relieved from uneconomic competition and it might be that there would be no addition to the price of goods sold or loss of profits to carriers through the canal.

BETTER RURAL SCHOOLS.

In spite of the fact that Lord BROUGHAM'S aphorism, "The schoolmaster is abroad and I trust to him armed with his primer against the soldier in full military array," has been quoted millions of times, educational opportunities in the rural parts of the richest State of the Union are still limited. A survey is to be undertaken of schools in New York outside of towns and villages having a population of 4,500 with a view of putting in the way of children of the remotest settlement an education which is now to be had only in populous places. At least that is the goal of endeavor. The work is to be done under the direction of the State Department of Education by a committee of twenty-one representing, besides that organization, the State College of Agriculture at Cornell University, the State Teachers' Association, the Grange, the Farm Bureau, the Home Bureau and the Dairymen's League. Specialists from other States are to be called in. More is behind this movement than appears on the surface. Life in the rural communities has a tendency to atrophy of the social qualities. In the lesser villages the only organizer of entertainment is the church, and it kindles little enthusiasm, especially among the young people. According to Commissioner JOHN H. FINLEY, our foremost champion of progress in education:

> The survey will probably not be limited to a strictly educational program. It is thought that the rural school must be interpreted as a community institution vitally concerned with its social environment. The general community interests and activities form a vital part of a study of this character.

Without disrespect, JOHN H. FINLEY may be termed the live wire of educational reform. It was he who drew attention to the fact that the people are now paying less for teachers than for gasoline, and that not infrequently more is laid out on a six or seven passenger car than on a little red schoolhouse. It was Commissioner FINLEY who launched the idea of a teachers' training camp at Plattsburg for a six-weeks' course every Summer. The rural school survey should travel far and collect the last fact of value to reformers, to local authorities and to the Legislature. It is the plan to hold public meetings as the Committee of Twenty-one (three for each organization) moves around, at which meetings ideas will be invited from anybody interested. There is no doubt that these symposiums will be well attended and will be charged with inspiration, for the back country is tremendously interested in getting better schools.

What should serve as a model institution for all rural parts of the State is the school at Chazy, built by W. H. MINER of that town, with the aid of the local Government. Children living within a radius of five miles are brought to the Miner school in auto-buses and barges. Its curriculum is remarkable, affording a liberal education. Industrial and agricultural training also are provided, and even dental treatment is available. Recreation is a leading feature, and much attention is given to hygiene. There ought to be Chazy schools all over the State. In making their survey the committee men and women should have in mind the stimulating fact that the new census showed that there were 382,039 residents of New York between twenty-one and fifty who were illiterate or could not speak English.

A GREAT KANSAS MOVEMENT.

Long ago the Sunflower State ceased to be Bleeding Kansas. It is and ever must be Leading Kansas. From Populism to Prohibition it has plowed its glorious way. Now it is the head and front of another impressive moral movement. Why is Kansas so rich in gifts and achievements? Senator ARTHUR CAPPER, in a speech reported by Capper's Weekly, answers:

> Not infrequently I have had a good visit with a farmer and his wife in their home. I can recommend this as the first-class means of getting down to the "grass roots" of any proposition before the country, for, with less to distract them, a farmer and his wife do more reading and thinking than the average of townfolks. The man driving a plow or a harrow down along a row has a great deal of time for thought. And there are not many picture shows in the country.

Kansas has little time to waste on picture shows. She has begun another War against Evil. Upon a soil plowed and harrowed by agricultural thought, a missionary from Cook County has been sowing seeds that yield a thousandfold. The cigarette, that torch of Erebus, must be put out. Miss LUCY PAGE GASTON, founder of the International Anti-Cigarette League, is carrying on a campaign of education, inexorable and triumphant, against the cigarette. Kansas has a statute against the enormity. The Supreme Court has sustained the statute. Miss GASTON and her allies are going to see that the law is enforced. She has "put the ban on in Wichita," she said on her arrival in Topeka, "and it's going to be clamped down here." Indeed, the clamping is already done. Miss GASTON declared that by noon of last Thursday there wouldn't be "a cigarette for sale in Topeka."

The Anti-Cigarette League of Topeka was organized Sunday. The headquarters of the State league will be in the same capital. Field workers will "push the organization in every county." What does Kansas care about the H. C. L., so much abominated in less virtuous States? Down with cigarettes! Up with the A. C. L.! "The three letters," The Topeka Capital tells us, "will also symbolize the league's motto: 'A Clean Life.'" A noble cause. It is to be regretted that The Capital, inadvertently, no doubt, prints the portrait of Dr. MOORE of Washington, 91, who has smoked for eighty years, "smokes a pipe and a very modern brand of cigarettes." But the truth will prevail. Kansas slaves of the "pill" have "bought a big supply "to entrench themselves against Miss "GASTON'S possible 'corner' on the "cigarette market!" Kansas can be depended upon to do much more than her duty and to interfere as much as possible with the sinful pleasure of others. Before long, we may be sure, Miss GASTON, having subjugated Kansas, will sound to this city her terrible approach. There can be little doubt that in the course of a million years or so the physique of truckmen, stevedores and other slaves of the cigarette will degenerate.

Miss GASTON "advises Kansas to "adopt Carrie Nation tactics in get-"ting rid of cigarettes." Whatever the tactics, Kansas must succeed in this new mission. She will immediately begin another. It is a happiness to hear Miss GASTON say that she believes "soft drinks harmful." They must be harmful to persons who like them. All Evil is one. Kansas will abolish it in all its ramifications and dependencies. How far this abolition movement will go, who can tell? Some twenty-five years ago a Kansas woman uttered the fateful words: "Man must be abolished."

IT WILL BE JUDGED BY RESULTS.

The Lockwood committee was charged with the duty of inquiring into the causes of the shortage of human habitations in this city. The committee and its counsel feel that it cannot turn aside from that work to investigate suspected corruption and extortion in city contracts. When the Board of Estimate asked the Committee on Housing to continue its inquiry into contracts made by the city, Mr. UNTERMYER replied that the board was "asking the impossible." Thereupon, the Board of Estimate, on motion of the Mayor, decided that it would itself undertake the investigation.

That resolve was seriously taken, of course, but it has an ironic flavor. Will not the public conclude that the City Government is really investigating itself? The Board of Estimate is the grand commission in charge of the city's business. It knows or should know all about contracts made by the city. Many contracts are under suspicion. Corrupting influences have been at work. Mr. UNTERMYER told the board that "pirates and buc-"caneers have secured a strangle-"hold on labor and have practiced "blackmail and extortion on the peo-"ple." The people will want to know to what extent they have been defrauded by these practices; more than that, they will not be satisfied until they have learned who is responsible for permitting the "pirates" to carry on their operations. The Mayor himself is in a position where he must insist upon a disclosure of the whole truth. The revelations concerning the change from terra cotta to limestone in contracts for school buildings are incomplete. If the change was made prior to Mr. HETRICK'S letter to the Mayor, why were efforts to secure it continued for weeks afterward? If the Board of Estimate undertakes the investigation it must pursue it to the end. And now is the time.

The experienced hunter, when his quarry is once started, does not sit down to rest and contemplate the beauties of the forest. The pursuit must be kept up unremittingly. Delay may baffle the investigators. Witnesses will leave town upon important business errands; in busy offices documents will be mislaid; overcrowded correspondence files will be lightened by consignments to the junkman or to the furnace fire. The public will be a watchful and severe judge of the proceedings of the Board of Estimate. Crooked work has been attempted, there has been a conspiracy to rob the people for the benefit of the "pirates." The Board of Estimate must run down the malefactors. Its failure, through lack of zeal or competence, will certainly result in the appointment of a new committee specially charged with this work by the incoming Legislature.

THE END OF WRANGEL.

The Bolsheviki gave up a good deal in the Peace of Riga, but they have already got what they paid for. With the Red armies released from the Polish front, it did not take long to send General WRANGEL on the road which KOLCHAK, YUDENITCH and DENIKIN had traveled before him. WRANGEL was apparently warned by the mishaps of DENIKIN and tried to establish his authority firmly around his base before going on to more extensive enterprises, but he never controlled troops sufficient to make any great headway against the united forces of the Bolsheviki.

LENIN'S Government now has no serious opponent in Russia. There are brigands in Eastern Siberia and there are the wandering armies of BALAKHOVITCH and other partisan leaders in Western Russia, but these are mere guerrilla bands. They can give no more serious annoyance to the Red leaders than FERDINAND SCHILL did to NAPOLEON. It may be that, like SCHILL, they are pioneers of a movement whose time is not yet come, but it is apparent that for the present the peasants are not disposed to risk their skins in a war against the Soviet Government of the cities. They do not like that Government, but they have little contact with it. It does them no good, but hitherto, because it was preoccupied with other matters, it ha generally let them alone. One of the interesting things that we shall see now is whether the Bolsheviki, having crushed their enemies in the Russian civil war, will continue to let the peasants alone. The internal history of Russia in the next decade or two may turn largely on the relations between the small city faction now in control and the vast rural masses. Will the Communists try to make the peasants conform or will they leave them to their own devices?

A more immediately serious question for the outer world, however, is what the Bolsheviki will do with Poland. When they invaded Poland last Summer they had WRANGEL in their rear, and the pressure which he exerted undoubtedly contributed in some measure to the Polish recovery. Now the Red armies can all face the west. The Bolshevist foreign policy, admitted after Brest-Litovsk, is to give up whatever the immediate situation may demand in the hope of getting it back later on. Few Russians thought when the treaty was signed at Riga that the Polish marches were lost forever.

Already Mr. JOFFE, head of the Russian peace delegation, warns the Poles that they are violating terms of the preliminary treaty and that his Government is considering measures of retaliation. To what extent the Poles are or are not aiding BALAKHOVITCH and PETLURA we do not know, but the Zeligouski episode has thrown suspicion on Polish policy as a whole. The Reds may or may not have justification for their threats, but if they lack justification they will be able, when they need it, to make up a plausible pretext. There is a militant Communist faction in Germany which looks toward Russia; will the Bolsheviki, now that they have destroyed their enemies at home, beat their swords into plowshares, as their friends among us promise? Or will they carry the red flag westward in a new crusade? Doubtless some of their leaders would like to do one thing and some the other, and the Western nations may be excused for not feeling any particular confidence in the Russian policies of either the French Foreign Office or Mr. LLOYD GEORGE.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

He's Right About the Breakdown.

Impressed, as well he may be, by what he calls "a complete breakdown in the machinery for counting the ballots" in this city, under "the present crude, antiquated and inadequate provisions" for doing this work, Assistant District Attorney TALLEY proposes in apparent seriousness a truly desperate remedy. Instead of having the count begin as soon as the polls close and continue through the night until the task has been completed, he would have the ballot boxes locked up when the voting ends and taken to police stations for safe-keeping until the next morning, when a corps of specially competent counters is to take charge and in due time report the results to the proper authorities.

That, now, is a fine scheme—fine, that is, except for the fact that it ignores human nature in its American phase.

Just what would happen here if "returns" did not begin to come in early on the evening of Election Day, and if one or the other of the great parties did not know, or be able to make a good guess as to, the fate of the most interesting candidates—that is a question to which Mr. TALLEY evidently has not given the consideration it deserves.

Of course, if, or as, with a doubled franchise the ballots no longer can be handled by inspectors of the kind that always have been, and always will be, selected by the district committees and leaders, then something must be done about it at once. That is obvious, but Mr. TALLEY would be well advised if he prayed hard against the adoption of the plan he suggests, for it would bear his name and he would become quite the most bitterly denounced man in the United States as soon as there was general realization of the unhappiness he had brought upon his country.

Why Ignore the Best of Remedies?

It is strange that in seeking a cure for evils indubitable and large this well-intentioned Assistant District Attorney should have passed unnoticed and unnamed one which, instead of causing delay, would advance, always by many hours and often by several days, the announcement of full election results, and do it with at least as much accuracy as would be achieved by Mr. TALLEY'S bookkeepers and school teachers. He must share the strange but not wholly inexplicable antagonism that exists in this city to the voting machine. Indeed, so strong is that antagonism here that it is little wonder he had forgotten the existence of the voting machine, a device which in other parts of the State and in other States works to the satisfaction of everybody except the few people in every district whom it deprives of the giving out and the receiving of a little "patronage" every year.

With the changes and improvements that have been made in these remarkable engines, that deprivation really is the only ground on which they can be criticised. But for their introduction here seemingly there is no hope. Yet they soon would pay for their somewhat large cost not only by the promptness and the certainty of their election determinations but in actual money saved through the decrease in the number of persons necessary for service in the several districts after the close of the polls.

Selecting Judges by Chance.

Attention is deserved by what seems to be the fact that at elections like the last one, when a considerable number of Judges are to be voted for, the order in which their names stand on the ticket influences strongly the number of votes which each of them gets. Now, as this order, under the election law, must be determined by lot by the Board of Elections, it may easily happen that chance decides as between the candidates which is to go on or remain on the bench and which is to retire from it or not attain to its enviable dignity.

At the recent election this curious phenomenon was well illustrated in the cases of the four Republican and four Democratic Judges who were not endorsed by both parties. With a single exception, that of Mr. Justice BURR, who, though his name was second, stood first among the four Democrats as regards number of votes, the whole eight ranked in the polling in the exact order of their names on the ballot.

That hardly could have been the result of like differences in public estimation—could hardly have been the result of anything except that the candidate who by lot has his name put first on the list has the best hope of election, and that this hope decreases as fortune puts others lower and lower. The remedy is not obvious, for an alphabetical arrangement of the names would also be an arrangement by lot, though by a different form of lot, and equally irrelevant to judicial capacity. Perhaps the only remedy is to have Judges appointed instead of elected.

Children Will Get In.

Prevention of such panics as resulted in the slaughter at the little moving picture theatre in Catharine Street is not to be achieved by the law which forbids the admission of children unaccompanied by adults. On the one hand, that law is practically unenforceable in full degree, no matter how honest the intention to do it. On the other hand, even if it could be enforced, in many of the existing theatres the panics would be possible just the same.

The only real safeguard lies in such construction and maintenance of all these places that even the cry of "Fire!" raised with or without reason, can only cause a hurried departure through adequate and easily accessible exits. That means greater expenditures than some exploiters of the film can afford to make, but the closing of all the irremediably dangerous little theatres would be no loss to the community.

The law as to the admission of children was devised with a view rather to the protection of their morals than of their lives. It probably has as little efficacy in the one direction as in the other.

STREET MEETINGS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with interest the letter from Hon. Leighton Calkins, Mayor of Plainfield, N. J., in which he discusses the use of the public streets for open-air meetings. Inasmuch as the Mount Vernon free speech cases, which called forth his letter, were participated in by the American Civil Liberties Union among others, I desire to ask the use of your columns to comment on Mayor Calkins's position.

The Mayor insists that the public streets are primarily public highways and not primarily public meeting places. With that position nobody will disagree. Accordingly, he argues, it is competent for the local authorities to regulate the use of the streets for meetings, in the interest of their use for their primary purpose. So long as such regulation is reasonable, no one will quarrel with him because of that assertion. A local ordinance setting apart certain appropriate places for unrestricted use as meeting places, and requiring permits under proper rules in respect to other places, would be such reasonable regulation.

But Mayor Calkins goes much further. The Mayor, he says, should be clothed with absolute power to issue or withhold permits for street meetings in his discretion, so that he can prevent meetings which he believes will create public disorder, either because of violent utterances or because of the possible roughness of a hostile crowd. That any such power leads inevitably to abuse of discretion needs scarcely to be pointed out. Only last month in Waterbury and Meriden, Conn., Senator Borah and Secretary Roosevelt were permitted to hold campaign meetings on the streets of those towns, while the Socialist Party was refused permits to hold meetings at precisely the same locations. Such discrimination against those advocating unpopular causes is inevitable and almost invariable.

Moreover, and unfortunately for Mayor Calkins's position, the Supreme Court of the United States has held that a grant of such arbitrary and uncontrolled discretion in respect to any material right of the citizen is unlawful and violative of the Constitution of the United States. In the case of Yick Ho vs. Hopkins, 118 U. S., 356, the Supreme Court said, at P. 366: "The ordinances * * * actually do confer, not a discretion to be exercised upon a consideration of the circumstances of each case, but a naked and arbitrary power to give or withhold consent, not only as to places, but as to persons. * * * The power given to them is not confided to their discretion in the legal sense of that term, but is granted to their mere will. It is purely arbitrary and acknowledges neither guidance nor restraint." Again, at P. 369: "When we consider the nature and theory of our institutions of government, the principles upon which they are supposed to rest, and review the history of their development, we are constrained to conclude that they do not mean to leave room for the play and action of purely personal and arbitrary power." The court held that the ordinances before it were unconstitutional and void.

When we consider that the language quoted above was used in respect to local enactments which prohibited the exercise of no more substantial right than the operation of a laundry in a wooden building without a permit, in what language, we may well ask, would the Supreme Court condemn the placing at the arbitrary whim of an executive official such fundamental rights as freedom of speech and of assemblage, those bases of liberty, the latter of which, as Chief Justice Marshall said in Gibbons vs. Ogden, 9 Wheat, 211, "derives its source from those laws whose authority is acknowledged by civilized men throughout the world"?

Philadelphia Wouldn't Stand It.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A correspondent of THE TIMES makes a plea for a better observance of Armistice Day next year. While England with impressive services was honoring its 800,000 dead by interring an unknown soldier in Westminster Abbey, we in Philadelphia saw an exhibition of tomfoolery of clerks in office buildings cluttering up the streets with torn bits of paper, and I suppose the same thing was being enacted in New York.

We do here, however, observe the decencies of civilization in some degree. Our Governors and Mayors do not preside over meetings of the Sinn Fein or receive "Presidents" of countries that have no right to any such title.

Again, Philadelphia would not stand for a second the tearing down of a flag of a nation that saved France and Belgium and later this country by her splendid fleet, the only thing that enabled our troops to go across. What do you suppose England thinks of New York? Or does she know you have a Hylan for a Mayor, and discount the vagaries of your city?

Attacks on the British Flag.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I would like in some way to give expression to my indignation at the repeated insults shown to the British flag in New York. Surely something can be done to put a stop to it. That flag on the seas during the war protected these shores from the Hun. That flag was everywhere in the thickest of the fight. Let us give honor where honor is due.

DAWN IN JAPAN.

Notes of a samisen far,
Waning light of a star,

Freeing silk blossoms sweet,
Making dim pathways, where waking birds call,
Perfume for geishas' feet.

Swayeth the heart like the cherry flowers
Rising in dance of May,
Singeth all life through the gleaming hours
Which just precede the day.

CHINESE LAMP FOR $1,050.

Opening Sale of Antiques of Charles of London Yields $27,222.

At the opening sale of the fine collection of antiques of Charles of London at the American Art Galleries yesterday afternoon the highest price was paid for a Chinese porcelain lamp formed of a beaker-shaped vase of the K'ang-hsi period, which went to A. J. Halow for $1,050. The vase is decorated in colored enamels, the neck showing a mountainous landscape occupied by a group of archers and the body an interior scene, "Paying Homage to the Mandarin." The lamp was mounted in cuivre doré, fitted for electric lights and with a silk shade.

A pair of Ch'ien-lung celadon jardinières, in the design of closely placed stems of bamboo, with motives of growing bamboo and flowers in soft colors, each jar having a tall folding stand, brought the second highest price of the day, going to Frank Partridge for $860. A pair of Chinese porcelain lamps, K'ang-hsi period, went to Bernet, agent, for $540, and for a pair of eighteenth century Chinese porcelain decorated figures the same buyer gave $400. Two fine Chinese porcelain roosters went to Bernet for $500. For a club-shaped Chinese vase, with a reserved group of figures in brilliant enamel colors on a powder blue ground, he paid $425, and for a Chinese decorated porcelain lamp of the Ming period, native boys playing among peony scrolls, in three-color enamels, he paid $340.

Two Chinese porcelain cisterns of the K'ang-hsi period, 20 feet high by 23½ inches diameter, decorated in peach-bloom, rich blue and puce yellow, the bodies having all-over scrollings of peachbloom peonies, with conventionalized leaves, went to Bernet for $780. Another pair of cisterns, in deep blue, with designs of bats, scrolls and Dogs Foo, were bought by Paul Watkins for $550. Two Chinese porcelain plaques, with central medallions of Feng-huangs and deep borders of the "hundred antiques," in cloud scrolls, went to the Long Sang Ti Company for $340, and Mrs. A. T. Biddle, Jr., paid $340 for a Ming Chinese porcelain lamp, inverted pear shape, decorated with the four-clawed dragon seeking the pearl of power, in three-color enamels.

The returns for the afternoon were $27,222. The sale will be continued today.

MORE ELECTION COSTS.

Miss Robertson Spent $2,940 and Nathan Straus, Jr., $10,597.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Expenditures of $2,940 were made in the campaign on behalf of Miss Alice Robertson, of the Second Oklahoma District, the second woman to be elected to Congress, according to a report filed today with the clerk of the House of Representatives by her campaign manager. Miss Robertson is the only woman member of the incoming House. Receipts were given as $2,615, and the deficit, it was stated, will be made up from subsequent collections "to ratify the result of the election."

Miss Robertson declared in her statement that "no pledges or promises were made" to obtain her election.

Expenditures of the Single Tax Party in the Presidential campaign totaled $2,548.85, according to a report of the party's national committee filed today with the clerk of the House of Representatives. Receipts were placed at $3,-122.05 and there were no individual contributions of more than $500. The list included several donations from persons living abroad.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 15.—The campaign of Nathan Straus, Jr., for the State Senate cost $10,597, according to the statement of receipts and expenditures filed with the Secretary of State today by the Fifteenth Democratic Senatorial District Committee. Contributions of $5,000 each were received from H. Grant Straus and Helen Sachs Straus.

The Walker Campaign Committee, which managed the unsuccessful campaign of Lieutenant Governor Walker for the United States Senate, reported expenditures of $5,484 and receipts of $5,150. The chief contributors were the Lieutenant Governor, with a donation of $1,500, and the Democratic National Committee, which gave $1,000.

The Young Democratic Club of New York reported receipts of $4,435 and disbursements of $5,135.

HARDING AIDS NEGRO BUREAU

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—In a letter made public today, President-elect Harding indorses the drive for funds of the White Cross Free Labor Bureau of America, an organization designed to obtain employment, decrease idleness and assist in other ways the negro population of this country.

Senator Harding says in the letter:

"I take this opportunity of commending to the attention of the American people the good work being done by the White Cross Free Labor Bureau of America, of which Dr. Simon P. W. Drew, pastor of the National Baptist Institutional Cosmopolitan Church of Washington, is President.

"The organization is doing the most commendable work among the 15,000,000 colored people of the United States in uplift work for humanity, securing positions of all kinds for employes and furnishing reliable colored help free of charge to employers. This organization is serving humanity and I feel that any assistance rendered to Dr. Drew and his co-workers will be most heartily appreciated and repaid by honest, conscientious efforts."

BIG DROP IN DEATH RATE.

Declines from 18 Per Thousand in 1918 to 12.9 for 1919.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The 1919 death rate in the death registration area of continental United States, embracing 81 per cent. of the total population, was shown in statistics made public today by the Census Bureau to be the lowest recorded for any one year. The rate of 12.9 per 1,000 of population showed a drop of 5.1 per 1,000 from the unusually high rate of 1918 resulting from the epidemic of influenza.

The total number of deaths in 1919 was 1,096,436, of which 111,579, or 10.2 per cent., were caused by heart disease, while tuberculosis resulted in 103,985, or 9.8 per cent., the statistics showed. Deaths attributed to pneumonia totaled 105,218, influenza 84,113, nephritis and Bright's disease 75,000 and cancer and other malignant tumors 68,531.

Three States—Delaware, Florida and Mississippi—were added to the registration area in 1919, making a total of thirty-three States; the District of Columbia and eighteen registration cities in non-registration States in the area.

TO DISCUSS CITY TRANSIT.

Frank Hedley Among Speakers Listed for Engineers' Meeting.

At the meeting tomorrow night of the New York section of the American Society of Civil Engineers at 29 West Thirty-ninth Street the rapid transit problem of this city will be discussed by Frank Hedley, President of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company; Henry M. Brinckerhoff, an expert on the subject; W. S. Mendon, General Manager of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company; Daniel L. Turner, Chief Engineer of the Public Service Commission; R. E. Danforth, Vice President of the Public Service Railway of Newark, N. J.; George McAneny, formerly President of the Board of Aldermen, and others.

The steam railroads will be represented at the meeting by R. S. Parsons, General Manager of the Erie Railroad, and P. H. Woodward, General Passenger Agent of the Long Island Railroad. The meeting will be the second of eight devoted to the engineering problems affecting the future development of the city.

ARMY PROMOTIONS CAUSE CONFLICTS

PERSHING MEN ADVANCED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—There is every indication that when Congress meets in December the Senate will be called upon to deal with conflict of opinion between certain prominent officers of the United States Army and their friends over the new regular army promotions which will be sent in by President Wilson for confirmation.

Approximately 15,000 army promotions and transfers will be involved, of which 5,000 represent new appointments to fill new positions created by the army reorganization act of June 4, 1920, while the rest involve promotions based upon these new appointments and transfers from one arm of the service to another, or shifts between the line and the staff.

The centre of the controversy, involving charges and accusations flying back and forth in army circles, will be the appointment of thirty-four new general officers of the army, all chosen by selection, and in the naming it is being alleged that a number of well-known older officers of the army have been jumped by younger officers.

It is being alleged that General Pershing, who is now the General of the Army, ranking all other officers as a result of the reward Congress gave him for his services in France, and who was chairman of the special board which had the naming of Generals, had taken advantage of his chairmanship of that board to provide for the promotion of certain younger officers who were the favorites of the commander in Chief of the forces while in France.

It is also being alleged that where so-called favorites of General Pershing were not chosen, the cream of the promotions into the ranks of permanent general officers went to favorites of Major General Peyton C. Marsh, the present Chief of Staff of the army.

Another allegation that has gained currency is that by some "system of trading" between Generals Pershing and March several of the latter's principal subordinates find their names in the list of new general officers, but this accusation is vigorously repudiated by their friends.

Friends of Edwards Complain.

Friends of Brigadier General Clarence R. Edwards, who has been in command at Camp Zachary Taylor and who was in command of the New England division at the outbreak of the war between the United States and Germany, are understood to be especially disgruntled over the fact that the board and Secretary Baker passed over General Edwards, who has been a Brigadier General since May 12, 1912, and who stands at the top of the list of permanent Brigadier Generals.

Eleven new Major Generals have been promoted over the head of General Edwards in the new army appointments. There are intimations that when the nominations go to the Senate Senator Lodge and Vice President-elect Coolidge will be found contending the cause of General Edwards.

In the face of confirmations that is predicted it will be alleged that the board saw to it that eleven of the twenty-three new Brigadier Generals were younger officers who served under General Pershing in France and who were high in his favor and that this group of younger officers, if confirmed, will exercise high control in the army for some years to come; also that through these promotions General Pershing is seeking to obtain and perpetuate a certain degree of personal control over the army.

Friends of General Pershing, within and outside of the army assert in defense of the action taken that the younger officers were selected on the basis of extraordinary service in the war and that when the Senate committee takes up its consideration of the nominations it will be found that General Pershing was justified in approving these selections.

The New Officers.

The eleven new Major Generals, whose commissions date from July, 1900, and whose nominations will be submitted in December, are:

James W. McAndrew,	Charles H. Muir,
John L. Hines,	William G. Haan,
Adelbert Cronkhite,	David C. Shanks,
Willi m M. Wright,	Omar Bundy,
Henry T. Allen,	Charles T. Menoher,
George W. Read.

The new Brigadier Generals include:

Geo. B. Duncan,	Mark L. Hersey,
Jesse Mcl. Carter,	Harry H. Bandholtz,
Grote Hutcheso.,	Johnson Hagood,
Ulysses G. McAlexander,	Fox Conner,
Fred W. Sladen,	William R. Smith,
Dwight E. Aultman,	Ernest Hinds,
William D. Connor,	Robert L. Howze,
Robert C. Davis,	Hanson E. Ely,
William Lassiter,	Dennis E. Nolan,
Walter H. Gordon,	Malin Craig.

The army reorganization law under which the promotions were made provided that no man should be promoted by selection to be a new general officer until he had served twenty-two years in the army. It is charged that this provision of the law has, in effect, been openly violated by the special board in the case of the last two officers selected for Brigadier Generals. These are Lieut. Col. Hugh A. Drum, whose twenty-two years was not reached until Sept. 21, 1920, and Lieut. Col. George T. A. Moseley, who will not have served his twenty-two years until Feb. 15, 1921. It is asserted that neither of these officers had reached the service limit at the time that the board, prior to

HOUR FROM SCHOOL FOR RELIGION URGED

GOOD CITIZENSHIP THE AIM

Speakers Before Education Board Committee Say They Oppose Union of State and Religion.

The hearing on the question of closing the Public Schools at 2 o'clock on the afternoons of each Wednesday to permit the pupils to receive religious instruction, was continued last evening at the Board of Education Hall by the Special Committee which will make its report to that body. All those heard were in favor of the resolution, which was adopted by the Interdenominational Committee on Weekday Observance.

Bishop Charles S. Burch of the Episcopal Diocese of New York, said that he had been astonished at some of the statements made by the opponents to the resolution. He declared that the resolution was the result of five years' careful thought and consideration by the committee which represented the Protestant, the Jew and the Roman Catholic, and that nothing was further from the thoughts of the members of the committee than any union of Church and State. In fact, they were all decided that the two should be kept distinctly apart.

He explained that the Board of Education allotted so many hours a week for the school children to learn their lessons and attend to their other duties, and that all the committee was asking was that one should be deducted from this number to allow religious instruction to be given to the pupils.

The committee intended by the resolution to have the moral and religious welfare of the children cared for. He denied that it was opposed either to the Constitution of the United States or to the New York State Constitution. The words of George Washington in his farewell address about religion were quoted.

Quotes Clemenceau.

He also cited Huxley and Clemenceau statements as to the effect of religion in making good citizens. Clemenceau, he declared, had said that what France needed was 40,000,000 working Christians to win the cause that the Allies fought for and that Lloyd George also spoke of the work done by those who had a knowledge of God. He also quoted from Roger W. Babson, showing his belief in the force of religion.

Rabbi Samuel Schulman of Temple Beth-El, said that if any attempt was made to bring the Church and State into union in the schools he would oppose it. He said he was opposed to the Bible in the schools, or any song of religious nature, to the Ten Commandments, to even the Golden Rule or any other form of religion. He said that the committee had worked together in the greatest harmony and that there was no difference of opinion among the members as to the objects sought. The thing upon which all of the members of the committee was agreed, was that there should be some opportunity given to the child to receive religious instruction.

The Rev. Dr. Alfred G. Lawson, Baptist, said that those opposed to the resolution represented only about 15 per cent. of the population of the city, while those in favor of it were 80 per cent. He said it was necessary to do something of this kind to prevent the growth of vice and crime.

The Rev. Dr. Harris said he did not think that the opposition to the resolution had presented any strong points.

The Rev. Dr. G. W. Werner, Lutheran, said that he had labored on the east side for half a century, and that he was greatly attached to the people who live there. He declared that Major Gen. Barry and General George Goethals were both boys in the tenement districts and had shown what was in the people who lived there. He thought that religious instruction was needed for the children of immigrants who lived in this district.

Martin Conboy spoke in defense of the resolution. He read a selection from George Washington's writings to show the great belief that the Father of the Country had in religion. The Rev. Thomas McMillan of the Paulist Fathers spoke humorously on the subject, saying that he came from the McMillans of County Antrim, Ireland, whose property had been destroyed by Cromwell.

Criticises Statistics.

He said that the statistics reported by opponents of the resolution from the State Commission on Prisons' report, showing the large number of inmates of the penal institutions who were Catholics and Protestants, were not altogether correct. Many of the people included in these statistics, he declared, were unruly boys and could hardly be classed as criminals.

Miss Margaret Knox, Principal of a public school in Manhattan, and connected with the Protestant Teachers' Association, said that it was an excellent thing to allow the teacher who had made good American citizens out of her pupils extra time out of school in which to see religious instruction.

Miss Mary Brady, Principal of Public School 177, said she had visited Dannemora Prison, and many of the prisoners had told her that they started on a life of crime as a result of having been unruly in youth.

Miss Catherine McCann, Principal of Public School 17, said that the organization of teachers outside of the school into an organization of their religion had done a great deal of good, that it did not interfere in any way with their relations to teachers of other religious beliefs, and that she was very glad to see Protestants and other teachers join organizations of their religious faith.

The Rev. Dr. Anthony H. Evans, of the West Side Presbyterian Church, declared that the Board of Education would be doing the right thing in adopting the resolution.

Chairman George J. Ryan said another meeting would be held next Monday night, when both sides would be heard, and the hearings concluded.

FRANK SULLIVAN SMITH.

Frank Sullivan Smith, a corporation lawyer who had been identified with many large railroad, mining and manufacturing enterprises, died yesterday in his apartment at the Hotel Plaza.

He was born in 1851, a son of Dr. William Melbury Smith, former Health Officer of the Port of New York and Surgeon General in the Civil war. He was graduated from Yale in 1872. In college he belonged to Alpha Delta Phi and Wolf's Head.

He was receiver of the Pittsburgh, Shawmut & Northern Railroad Company, with its affiliated coal properties, and President of the Shawmut Coal and Coke Company. He was at one time President of the State Board of Law Examiners. From 1887 to 1891 he was Secretary of the State Republican Committee. JOWETT TO TAKE A REST.

Tells Congregation He Has Not Had 2 Days' Health Together in 2-Years.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The Rev. Dr. J. H. Jowett, formerly pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church of New York, explained yesterday to his Westminster chapel congregation how much he needed rest, but added that he was taking a six months' holiday with great reluctance. He said "I have had thirty years of pretty hard work. Whatever can be said of me, it must be said I have had a burning passion for my work. I am dragging along a weary body and I have not known what it is to have two days' health together in two years. I have had no pain but have had great sense of weakness, sometimes to the point of fainting."

SHIP TRAVELS 45,000 MILES.

Transport President Grant Returns After Nine Months Abroad.

The United States transport President Grant docked at Pier 2, South Brooklyn, yesterday morning after an absence of nine months, during which she traveled more than 45,000 miles, according to her officers, mostly between Siberia and Trieste via the Suez Canal, with Czechoslovak troops.

The 365 members of the crew had the opportunity of seeing seventy-eight foreign cities. They had the experience of having a fire break out when the temperature was 192 degrees in the engine room and encountering the tail end of a typhoon in the Formosa Channel. The only death on board during the nine months was that of James Farley, an assistant steward, who died of pneumonia on Saturday before the steamship reached port. The President Grant brought 2,000 passengers from Italian ports.

The New Rochelle of the Baltic Steamship Company arrived yesterday from Havre and docked at Pier 3, Hoboken, with 1,645 passengers, mostly in the steerage, including several Polish refugees.

The ship was held in Quarantine several hours while the health officers were investigating some suspected cases of typhus, but was allowed to go to her pier after being fumigated.

MAJOR PUTNAM GETS BROOKLYN HEARING

Once "Howled Down" by Sinn Feiners, He Wins Applause in Academy of Music.

UPHOLDS LEAGUE COVENANT

Declares World Must Stop Thinking Nationally and Begin Thinking Internationally.

Major George Haven Putnam, veteran publisher, who was "howled down" by Sinn Fein sympathizers several weeks ago when he tried to speak at the Erasmus Hall High School, spoke last night at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, under the auspices of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, on "America and England." There was no disturbance of any kind, and the large audience applauded the speaker's references to the "limbo into which the grievances between the two countries should be relegated."

Major Putnam, speaking for the League of Nations, said the peace of the world depended on the close friendship of the two great English-speaking nations.

"The League of Nations," he said, "which I hold to be the hope of mankind, can be realized only if the English-speaking peoples hold together. The world must stop thinking nationally and begin to think internationally. He who thinks only of America's interests is not thinking of the real interests of Americans. The world is one family of nations, and any injustice to one nation is an injustice to all."

Major Putnam said that if the American Colonies in our Revolution had not won, the cause of democracy would have been retarded 150 years. The American colonists in that staruggle, he held, were really fighting the cause of their English cousins as truly as their own.

The War of 1812, said Major Putnam, was a mistake, due to "the stupidity of Downing Street and the ignorance in Washington." He added that President Madison's Administration was not only ignorant, but wicked. Any Government was wicked which led its people into war when it was unprepared, he declared.

"We were unprepared in the same way in the last war," said Major Putnam. "We went in a year too late. When the Lusitania was sunk our people were ready to be aroused for war. But we delayed in preparing for two years longer."

Referring to his much-criticised speech in England on the Fourth of July, 1918, Major Putnam said he there took as his text simply the idea that now was the time to add to the Declaration of Independence a "Declaration of Interdependence."

Robert Moses spoke on "The Reorganization of State Government" and H. V. Kaltenborn, a Brooklyn newspaper man, spoke on the results of the national election.

WOMEN ADVOCATE CITIZENSHIP COURSES

Voters' League to Enlist Aid of Colleges and Universities—Support Maternity Bill.

As the most effective method of getting all women entitled to vote to participate in elections the regional conference of the League of Women Voters, which convened at the Hotel Pennsylvania yesterday for a two days' session, decided to launch a national campaign to establish citizenship courses in colleges and universities. Mrs. George Gellhorn of St. Louis, Chairman of Organization and Citizenship, reported that universities in twelve States already are giving such courses and that the league had a citizenship school in every county in Missouri.

"We plan to educate the voters, and then they can vote according to their consciences," Mrs. Gellhorn said. "Bossism, which is a pernicious form of intolerance, is the worst thing we have to combat. The cure is a one hundred per cent. electorate."

More than two hundred women were present, a great number of whom were delegates from the five States of the "region," New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware. Mrs. John O. Miller of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania State Chairman, reported organizations in the sixty-seven counties of that State with a total membership of 25,000 and 150 citizenship schools.

Mrs. F. Louis Slade, regional director, who presided at the morning session, denied that the league intended to form a woman's party, as reported in an afternoon newspaper. Mrs. Solon Jacobs of Birmingham, Ala., presided at the afternoon session. The report of the National Treasurer, Mrs. R. E. Edwards of Peoria, Ill., showed that the entire organization work of the league, including the establishment of its national headquarters, had cost less than $25,000. Mrs. Maud Wood Park, national Chairman, spoke briefly on Federal legislation which the league is supporting. She particularly urged support for the Sheppard-Towner bill to provide protection for maternity and infancy. Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, New York State Chairman, and Miss Mary Garrett Hay, New York City Chairman, also advocated the bill.

The conference will be continued today, and will close with a dinner, at which Mrs. Slade will preside. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Mrs. Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale, Miss Hay, Mrs. Vanderlip and Mrs. Park will be the speakers.

Jersey City's First Automobile Show

The first automobile show ever held in Jersey City was opened yesterday in the Fourth Regiment Armory. Governor Edwards was present in the evening and spoke of the wonderful growth of the motor car. He was introduced by Everett W. Cox, President of the Hudson County Automobile Association, under whose direction the exhibition is held. The Show Committee includes Elmer E. Hallinger, Charles W. Morey, Frank Hermance, Harry Lehman and August R. Southworth. Twenty-seven makes of passenger cars, seven makes of commercial motor vehicles and a great variety of accessories are shown. The show will be continued during the week.

Charles Noel Douglas, Writer.

Charles Noel Douglas, who, in spite of the faet that he had been a bedridden cripple for thirty years, had written many books, plays and songs, died on Saturday at his home, 1,299 Park Place, Brooklyn, in his fifty-seventh year. During all those years Mr. Douglas had suffered from neurasthenia in complication with an affection of the spine, but the immediate cause of his death was pneumonia. Mr. Douglas was born in Kent, England, in 1863, and came to this country in 1888.

Aero Club Silent on French Protests.

Officials of the Aero Club of America decided yesterday to withhold comment on the cabled report that French entrants in the recent James Gordon Bennett international balloon race at Birmingham, Ala., had complained that the regulations set down by the International Aeronautics Federation had been violated. The local Aero Club took the position that it was better to wait until a formal complaint had been filed before commenting.

THOMASSHIELDSCLARKE DIES SUDDENLY AT 60

Thomas Shields Clarke, the painter and sculptor, whose work has been shown at many of the large exhibitions in this country, died suddenly yesterday morning in the Post-Graduate Hospital following an operation performed there last Wednesday. He was born in Pittsburgh in 1860, the son of Charles J. Clarke.

After graduating from Princeton in 1882 he studied painting and sculpture at the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris and in Rome and Florence, spending eleven years abroad. He won several medals with his exhibits in Europe and also on his return to this country. Among his pieces of sculpture is the "Cider Press" Monument in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco.

He was a member of the Royal Society of Arts of London, an associate of the National Academy of Design and other art societies. His clubs included the Princeton, Century and Salmagundi. He spent the Winters usually at Primavera, his Palm Beach villa, and the rest of the year at Lenox, Mass. His widow, whom he married in 1887, was Miss Adelaide Knox. Three children also survive.

BROWN FRESHMAN MISSING TEN DAYS

ONLY WEEK AT COLLEGE

Clothes and Other Effects Are Found In His Room, Indicating He Had Intended to Return.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 15.—Robert R. Frankel, a freshman at Brown University and son of a New York merchant, has disappeared from his quarters at the university and all efforts by the college authorities and by Frankel's parents to find any trace of him have proved fruitless.

Frankel dropped out of sight Nov. 5, and there are indications that the young man may have met with foul play or some sort of accident. When he disappeared he took no clothing with him, and everything in his room indicated that he expected to return to it. A day or so before he disappeared Frankel is said to have received a sum of money from his father in New York.

Very little is known of the young man by his fellow-students at the university. He registered late, not being enrolled as a student until Oct. 25. This, with the fact that he disappeared less than a week after, gave no one an opportunity to become well acquainted with him.

A few days after Frankel disappeared a letter came for him from his father, saying that his parents were worried because they had not heard from him since his arrival at college.

At about the same time the Kappa Sigma Fraternity, which controls the rooms in the building to which Frankel was assigned, believing that Frankel had gone to live with friends somewhere in the city, allowed another man to take Frankel's room. This student, finding all of Frankel's clothes and other belongings, including a handbag and trunk, in the room, wrote to Frankel's father. This letter was the father's first intimation that his son had disappeared. He at once wired the college authorities, and last Saturday came on himself to see if any trace of the boy could be found.

Frankel's father, who lives at 410 Riverside Drive, New York, said that his son was graduated from the Horace Mann School, New York City, last Spring, and that he appeared to be eager to attend college. The young man, he said, had never before been away from home. He was described by his father as being 18 years old, dark complexioned and rather shy.

Robert E. Frankel, who disappeared at Brown University, is a son of Maurice Frankel, President of the Universal Transportation Company of 29 Broadway. Mr. Frankel and the college authorities, after a search of ten days, have been unable to obtain the slightest hint as to the circumstances of his disappearance or his whereabouts.

In his letters home Robert wrote enthusiastically and seemed greatly interested in his work and happy in his new surroundings. The last letter from him was received on Nov. 1, when he acknowledged a money order which his father had sent two days before.

Mr. Frankel said last night at his home, 410 Riverside Drive, that the theory that the disappearance was an act of boyish irresponsibility had been discarded, and that it was feared he had met with an accident or had been attacked by robbers.

PERSHING SQUARE

A combined locality and address
where transportation needs are served

THIS remarkable plottage, facing 125 feet 6 inches on 42nd Street and 41st Street, and entire Park Avenue frontage of 197 feet 6 inches, containing an area of 24,786 square feet, is now available for sale or lease.

The property adjoining on the east of this plottage has been sold by us to the Bowery Savings Bank, which will improve with a handsome structure for its own requirements.

Wide streets and existing surrounding construction assures permanent light, a clear view over Grand Central Terminal, of upper Park Avenue and surrounding locality.

Foundations and footings are now in place over 70 percent of plot area, valued at One-half million dollars, which provide for construction of a twenty-five story building, resulting in saving of expense and time in erection.

These and other outstanding features make this the one best plot in New York City for an improvement that will satisfy your demand for institutional and executive offices.

Factory for Joseph Fahys & Co., Watch Cases, Sag Harbor, N. Y. We started January 12th, owner moved in March 15th, 1920. It snowed, sleeted or rained 34 of the 54 days, including two blizzards which tied up other jobs.

Do you need a Factory this Winter?

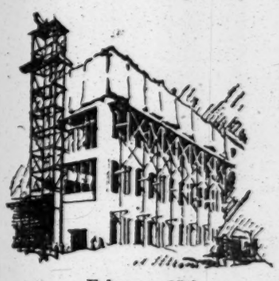
Then read this story of Barney-Ahlers' work at Sag Harbor during the blizzards of last February

Perhaps your business demands a new factory or warehouse right now. But you think of the probable extra cost of Winter construction, and you remember how the blizzards of last Winter tied things up—how lots of building operations were completely halted then.

Yet you want that building—and at reasonable cost and on time.

You can have it.

We solved this problem for other manufacturers last Winter. One of the severest tests was the factory we built for Joseph Fahys & Co., at Sag Harbor, Long Island.



February 25th

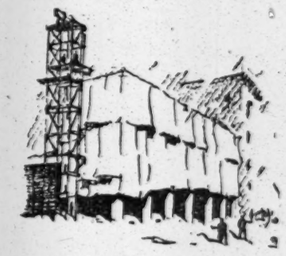
Work began January 12, the building to be completed by March 15.

By January 13 the ground was enclosed with wood framing and canvas, and thawed out by hot coke-fires, and digging began immediately. While this was going on, our carpenters erected the concrete plant, hoist-tower and forms. Everybody was busy. By Jan. 16 excavating was finished and some concrete footings poured. By the 18th footings were completed, and by the 22nd the first floor was concreted.



February 7th

Then came a snow storm and several days of bitter cold weather. To make matters worse, sand and gravel had to be carted from the frozen shores of North Haven Beach, and thawed out thoroughly with coils of steam pipes.

February 2nd

It snowed, sleeted or rained 34 days out of the 54 days between the beginning and finish of the job, including the two severe blizzards in February. Sometimes we had to shovel through snow drifts 6 and 8 feet deep to get at the work. In spite of these hardships, the entire organization worked every day; not even a single laborer quit.

January 24th

From the concreting of the first floor on January 22, the structure rose about a story a week, work on the brick walls keeping pace with the concreting. The roof was concreted February 25 and every last detail, even to cleaning up the rubbish, was completed by March 15. The owners moved in that very day. They got their building exactly on time and at very reasonable cost.

Two weeks before finishing the Fahys job we started a 5-story factory for Merit Hosiery Co. This job was hardly under way when the outlaw strike made it almost impossible to get cement, steel and other materials by railroad. Instead of shutting down the way many jobs were forced to, we put our motor trucks to work bringing materials from the surrounding towns and distant mills and actually finished ahead of time.

During this trying period we were also building for Dictograph Products, Valentine Varnish, Rainier Motor Corporation, Lehigh Valley R. R. and others, and every job was kept moving on schedule.

A contractor seldom has smooth sailing—difficulties constantly arise and it takes experience and resourcefulness to foresee these difficulties and meet them.

That is why Mr. Barney and Mr. Ahlers give personal attention to every job. We do not take more contracts at one time than we can handle with "Speed and Economy." Every job is discussed in weekly conferences—actual costs checked against estimated costs, actual speed against expected speed, and the necessary steps taken to avoid loss of time and money.

Result: Our business is growing rapidly and 79% of it is repeat-orders.

We specialize in medium-size industrial buildings anywhere in New York, Northern New Jersey, Connecticut, Western Massachusetts or Rhode Island. We build all types — concrete, steel, brickmill, etc. If you need a factory or warehouse now, we can erect it promptly and at reasonable cost on our "Speed with Economy" plan.

DEATH MOVIE HOUSE WITHIN THE LAW

EXITS CALLED ADEQUATE

Education, Not Law, the Only Means of Preventing Panics, They Declare.

INJURED ARE IMPROVING

Proprietors and Janitor Are Held in $10,000 Each on Manslaughter Charge.

Panics of the sort which killed six children at the New Catherine Theatre at 76 Catherine Street on Sunday afternoon may occur in any motion picture house in the city or in any other place where people gather in large numbers, according to Fire Commissioner Thomas J. Drennan and Fire Chief John Kenlon.

The long, narrow flight of stairs from the gallery of the motion picture house to the landing where the children from 2 to 14 years old were heaped up and killed and injured, conformed to the requirements of the fire law and the fire laws stand in no need of amendment, according to the two fire officials.

Whether or not one of the front doors was padlocked, this fact had nothing to do with the accident, according to the fire officials, because the children were heaped up at the bottom of the staircase and the landing by falling before the crush and not in consequence of the padlocked door. The two doors adjoining the padlocked door were both open, affording exit to the street for the adults who were all successful in saving themselves without injury and for a few youngsters who got safely through the human jam in the small hall at the bottom of the staircase. The proprietors of the place deny that the door was locked, insisting that the padlock was a dummy.

The other alleged violation of law is that of admitting children without guardians. This is denied by the proprietors, but there is ample proof of it, according to Assistant District Attorney Dineen. How much this alleged violation of law contributed to the deaths and injuries was another question. It was the adults, including the alleged guardians, who did the killing by crushing the little ones with their weight and strength, according the Chief Kenlon. While not defending the violation of the law, Chief Kenlon was sure that it did not contribute to the panic and doubtful whether it increased the number of dead and injured.

"Do you mean that the people who were at the moving picture house had all the protection that the law could give them?"

Exits Adequate, Kenlon Says.

"Yes," said Chief Kenlon. "The exits were adequate and the law was conformed to in every structural way. The violations, if they occurred, did not create the panic or make it worse, unless possibly in the case of admitting children contrary to law. The children, however, did not do the killing. It was the adults who lost their heads and plunged through. If they had all been children, probably no one would have been seriously hurt. If there had been more grown-ups there might have been more killings."

"Is there any such thing as panic-proof construction?"

"No. The panic-proof feature can only exist inside the skulls of people. No building can be built so as to insure safety in case of panic. In that gallery, there were two exits. The people all flocked to the one nearest them, the one by which they entered the theatre. No way has been found of changing human nature so as to break people of the habit, in any alarm inside of a building, from attempting to rush out the same way they came in. Other exits may be closer, more convenient, less crowded, but they will ignore them and take the long way through a crowd to get out the way they came in. Find some way of raising public intelligence so as to get rid of that fault and you may stop panics.

"There are very few, even among educated people, who have the power to stop and think in a case like this before they act. While they do use bad judgment and rush in herds, there is no way of framing a law to anticipate their conduct in a panic and no way of making any place fireproof. In addition to that, there is no way under the law of reaching and preventing such defects of intelligence as that of starting a furnace and making a smoke underneath a theatre full of people."

Chief Kenlon was asked if he felt that a panic like that of Sunday night could occur with loss of life in any theatre in the city.

"Yes, it could," he said. "Our theatres—I don't mean the moving picture theatres—are about the safest places where you can be in case of fire. But there is no insurance against panic. You may have a disastrous panic in any theatre or any building where people gather. You can have a panic with loss of life in your own apartment if you have enough people in it. You can have panics in the streets if you have enough people in a park and a panic takes them, they may run in contrary directions and crush the weaker ones. You can have them in railway stations."

Place Recently Inspected.

Chief Kenlon said that the New Catherine Theatre had been inspected by his men on Saturday, the day before the fire. There was then no padlocked door and no other violation of the law, he said.

Fire Commissioner Drennan said that, as far as he could then see, there was no lesson for the Fire Department in the tragedy and nothing to do except to dismiss the tragedy as an unavoidable occurrence.

"How can such things be prevented?" he was then asked.

"The only thing I can see that can prevenet them," he said, "is a law forbidding children under 16 years of age to go to the moving pictures at all, whether accompanied by their parents or guardians or not."

"Well, there are galleries in nearly every amusement house, school, public meeting place and auditorium in town. Buildings would certainly be safer if they were only one story high and without stairs, but it would be going pretty far to advocate a law compelling structural changes of that kind."

"If the stairs were wider at the New Catharine Theatre, do you think the loss of life would have been less?"

"That is possible, but the stairs were slightly wider than the legal requirement at that. Any kind of stairs are a bad thing in a panic. Even when a person is in a hurry, he is likely to trip on them. The ideal condition would be to have ramps, like those in the Grand Central Station, especially where children have to use them. I would like to see them in every building containing a crowd, but it would require wholesale changes, and ramps are not practical at all in small buildings and would use up most of the space in a moderate-size building."

When he was asked if any laws or regulations could prevent the loss of life in a panic, he replied that loss of life due to a panic might occur in Great Meadows Prison or in Central Park.

It was called to his attention that the staircase exit at the New Catharine Theatre was so arranged that persons in the rear of the panic-stricken crowd on Sunday night might have climbed or jumped over the guard rail and landed on the heads of those near the bottom of the stairs. Inspector William T. Coleman of the Police Department was of the opinion that this had occurred and that some of the deaths and injuries were due to it. When he was asked if amendments to the fire laws might not do away with this additional danger, Commissioner Drennan said:

Invites Safety Suggestions.

"We will be glad to have any suggestions for law or amendments to make these places safer. We are studying this building and other moving picture houses for any possibility of increasing safety, and we may find some way of bettering conditions in detail."

Commissioner Drennan said that he did not know positively that one of the front doors had been padlocked. The proprietors alleged that the padlock was fastened only to the wall and not to the door. It was made to appear as if locked looked at from the outside so as to deter children from slipping in without buying tickets. The detectives who first arrived after the panic, however, insisted that the door was not only padlocked, but that when unlocked it could not be opened more than an inch or two because of a flat coal door which jutted an inch above the bottom of the door and just in front of it.

"Children are no longer safe when out of the sight of their parents," said District Attorney Swann yesterday. "We have laws to protect them, but there are leeches who gamble for the lives of children against a 10-cent piece.

"This morning I received telephone messages complaining about other places that make a practice of admitting children without parent or guardian. Some of these theatres, I have been informed, have professional guardians standing out in front. He buys tickets, takes the children in and then returns to repeat the performance. This case will be laid before the Grand Jury and those guilty will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law."

Mrs. Ellen A. O'Grady, Fifth Deputy Police Commissioner, visited the New Catherine Theatre yesterday and said that she had been impressed by the dingy and dirty condition of the place, the floor of which, before the panic, was carpeted with dirt and dust, peanut shells, paper and rubbish of various kinds of several days' accumulation. She was eager for a law providing for inspection of the motion picture houses so that they would be kept clean and sanitary.

Complains of Evasions.

Magistrate Tobias in the Tombs Court fixed the bail of Bernard Weinberg and Max Schwartz, the proprietors, and Joseph Polani, the janitor, who caused the panic by striking the furnace, at $10,000 each and held them on the charge of manslaughter. Assistant District Attorney Dineen, however, said that the charge would probably be changed to that of admitting minors without parents or guardians.

At the Tombs Police Court yesterday were William J. Kelleher and A. Mossapp, agents of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, who escorted Carmelli Olivera, the fourteen-year-old boy of 68 Oliver Street, who saved his three-year-old brother Salvatore and Salvatore Strazeri, 4 years old, of 68 Oliver Street. The fourteen-year-old boy alleged that he had acted as guardian for the other two boys and taken them in with him.

Miss S. I. Wilson, a teacher of Public School 1, reported to the District attorney's office that several moving picture houses on the east side had made a business policy of cutting prices to 5 cents during school hours, to increase their attendance during that usually dull period by enticing children to be truants.

A flood of complaints came to the District Attorney's office and to other authorities from residents all over the city who alleged that the law against admitting minors without guardians had been allowed to become a dead-letter.

"It has rarely happened, however, that any of these licenses have been revoked. For instance, there have been eleven convictions against a theatre in Third Avenue."

Angelino Mancini, one of the children at Bellevue Hospital, was sufficiently recovered by noon yesterday to be taken home. Several of the other nine injured children were still in a serious condition, but all were reported as showing more or less improvement.

2,400,000 Chinese Pigtails Made Into Filtering Cloth

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Establishment of a carload rate on Chinese pigtails pressed into cloth from Houston, Texas, to various parts of the country, was asked of the Interstate Commerce Commission today by the Oriental Manufacturing Company of Houston.

Clifford Thorne of Chicago, representing the applicant, told the commission that the pigtails pressed into cloth were used for filtration, straining soups and similar purposes. Prior to the war European supplies of goat and camel hair were drawn on, he said, for filter purposes, but when this source was cut off the industry he represented turned to China, where the fall of the Manchu dynasty was followed by abolishment of the edict directing Chinese subjects to wear queues.

The Houston company has 800,000 pounds of Chinese hair, the equivalent of the former pigtails of 2,400,000 Chinese. Nineteen carloads already have been ordered, and the prospects are for sixty more to move during next year.

D'ANNUNZIO DEFIES RAPALLO COMPACT

CALLS ITS FINDINGS ILLEGAL

Received with Enthusiasm by Regular Italian Troops When He Enters Susak.

PARIS, Nov. 15 (Havas).—Soldiers of Gabriele d'Annunzio, commander of the Italian insurgent forces at Fiume, have taken possession of the coast and Mount Luban, to the east of Fiume, says a Rome dispatch today, quoting the Fiume correspondent of the Messaggero. The troops, says the dispatch, have occupied all localities of the district of Castua without struggle or incident.

The inhabitants of the village of Podogres, the message adds, opposed resistance to the insurgent forces, causing them to retire. A column of manifestants from Fiume entered the Susak quarter and replaced all inscriptions and signs in the Slav language by others in the Italian language.

FIUME, Nov. 14 (Associated Press).—The hostility of Gabriele d'Annunzio, insurgent Italian commander at Fiume, to the settlement of the Adriatic question reached between Italy and Jugoslavia at Rapallo was announced today at a session of the directors of the Fiume regency summoned by the commander. The reasons why the settlement was objectionable were set forth at length in a communiqué, which read:

"The Government of the Italian Regency of Quarnero is unable to recognize the right of the delegates who met at Rapallo to determine the confines of the regency without the admission of delegates from that regency. The regency, therefore, decides that the findings of the Rapallo conference are unacceptable and illegal. This Government holds:

"First—The regency was inaugurated so as to make the annexation of Fiume to Italy a certainty.

"Second—The people of Fiume, in their charter of liberty, confirmed their vote of October, 1918, which declared their complete dedication to the mother country.

"Third—Today Fiume again confirms that vote and purposes to continue to fight until the fulfillment of its legitimate vote.

"Fourth—Meanwhile, the confines of Italy can only be fixed as extending along the Julian Alps to Nevaso and Bitoria and to the sea at the promontory of San Marco, which was always kept as the Venetian confines of the regency.

"Fifth—The confines should be determined by the historic Napoleonic line.

"Sixth—The confines of Fiume can be drawn only by extending the line beyond Susak and Tersatto, from which Fiume derives her water and light, and which cannot remain in the hands of the Jugoslavs.

"Seventh—Contiguity between the soil of the fatherland and the regency from Nevaso can be understood only as the common confines of the ancient Istrian province from the Julian Alps to the sea."

Meanwhile d'Annunzio is calling councils of war and proceeding with the occupation of territory ceded to the Jugoslavs by the Rapallo agreement. Yesterday he sent two motorboats loaded with soldiers to occupy the Islands of Veglia and Arbe and dispatched a company of soldiers to watch what action the regular Italian troops would take regarding Castua, a suburb of Fiume overlooking the mouth of the harbor. No word is as yet available as to the destination of d'Annunzio's fleet, which left port Friday, but it is thought it was sent south to join Admiral Millo.

D'Annunzio entered Susak yesterday at the head of a body of troops. There was no resistance to his advance. The barriers were taken down, and the whole avalanche of legionaries swept over the bridge dividing Fiume from what now is Jugoslavia, but is still occupied by the Italians. He went to participate in the celebration for the return of the colors of the Lombardy brigade from Rome. He was received by General Faccini, and then delivered a speech, stirring up the regular Italian troops of occupation, who cheered his speech and swore obedience to him. General Faccini shook hands with d'Annunzio in the presence of the soldiers, and hailed the poet as "My grenadier of Lombardy, the redeemer of Fiume, present and future."

ROME, Nov. 15.—A council of Ministers was held today under the presidency of Premier Giolitti, who made a detailed report of the negotiations at Rapallo, the treaty concluded and the economic agreement about to be reached. He also outlined a statement which he will make on the subject before the Chamber tomorrow.

The Premier informed his colleagues that, contrary to the news spread by the Nationalist press, the official communications received from the armistice zone, garrisoned by Italian soldiers and sailors, showed that conditions were good.

Italian newspapers, with the exception of Nationalists' organs, declare that almost all the people of Italy have greeted the agreement between this country and Jugoslavia relative to the Adriatic with relief. Although it is painful to Italians to renounce Italian Dalmatia, the peace concluded is viewed as not being humiliating but dignified and victorious.

"The small minority opposing the treaty," says The Messaggero, "recall that 30,000 Italians remain under Serbian rule, but they forget Serbia's sacrifice in leaving 500,000 Nationals under Italian jurisdiction. The good sense of the people condemns all attempts to cause further trouble. In fact, the attitude of Gabriele d'Annunzio is strongly criticised and regret expressed, even by some of his friends and admirers, that he was unable to adopt the high and lofty tone of Garibaldi on a historical occasion, when, bowing to the force of events, he spoke the famous words: 'I obey.'"

In the meantime many young men are leaving different parts of Italy for Fiume. This appears to confirm reports from various sources that d'Annunzio is preparing several expeditions. On the other hand, it is known that Admiral Millo, head of the d'Annunzian naval service, is satisfied with the Rappallo agreement and is not disposed to join in new adventures.

SEIZE 700,000 FRANCS.

French Police Charge Theft of New Bills from Consignment to Africa.

MARSEILLES, Nov. 15.—When the steamer Afrique of the Chargeurs Réunis Line sank in the Bay of Biscay last January with frightful loss of life, it was incidentally mentioned that she carried 15,000,000 francs in new bills destined to the Banque Français Afrique Occidentale at Dakar. Seven hundred thousand francs in new bills, which the police have identified as belonging to the Afrique shipment and which were supposed to be resting on the bottom of the sea, were, however, seized yesterday when Jules Carassy, an automobile dealer, was arrested in this city.

Carassy was about to board a train for Paris when police officers invited him to accompany them to the station. In a suitcase he carried were 700,000 francs in new bills, the numbers on which were consecutive and tallied with records of a shipment to the Dakar bank on board the Afrique. It is asserted by the police that a case of 1,000,000 francs was stolen before the ship left her dock.

Lloyd-George Defends Poison Gas Research; A Nation Not in League Is Experimenting

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The Prime Minister, answering questions in the House of Commons as to experiments taking place in chemical warfare, said the subject had been considered by the Cabinet during the past year, and it had been decided that the whole question should be raised at the meeting of the League of Nations, but in the meantime the safety of the fighting services could no longer be neglected.

Mr. Lloyd George said he thought this country could not afford to take any unnecessary risks. Some countries were not members of the League at all, and in one of those countries poison gas experiments were going on at the present time.

LONDON, Nov. 15. — Much adverse comment has been caused here by an announcement made at a scientific meeting on Saturday that the War Office had requested the universities to undertake research into the development to its utmost extent of chemical warfare for both offensive and defensive purposes.

The question was raised by interrogations in the House of Commons today asking, in effect, how the Government reconciled this order with Article 171 of the Treaty of Versailles, under which the use of asphyxiating, poisonous or other gases and all analogous liquids, materials or devices is prohibited, and whether the investigations would be governed by similar declarations by the Council of the League of Nations.

HYPNOTIST PLAYS TRICK ON SCIENTIST

BUT NO BLOOD IS SHED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Nov. 14.—A melodrama of hypnotism has just been enacted in Vienna. On Saturday Professor Wagner Jauregg, a well-known nerve specialist at a university clinic here, was visited in his study by a girl about 18 years old, who presented a letter to him. While reading it he heard a movement on the girl's part and, looking up, found that she had covered him with a revolver. Seeing that she was observed, she cried: "There! You murderer!" But even before the professor had time to disarm her she let the revolver fall to the ground.

The professor at once decided that he had a mentally unbalanced person before him and called in the police, in whose charge the girl was left, as she could give no intelligible answers to the questions put to her.

The incident seemed likely to remain a mystery for some time longer, but today a third party appeared on the scene in the person of Walter Senn, a hypnotist who performs at various cabarets here.

Senn is very successful in his calling, but is troubled by one great grief. Professor Jauregg always asserts that it is impossible to make criminal suggestions to a subject in a hypnotic sleep, and backs up his assertion by a wealth of scientific lore. Senn is of the contrary opinion, and was hurt by the fact that he could neither engage the professor in controversy nor display anything like the same amount of scientific knowledge on the subject as Jauregg.

But, if argument was not allowed him, he could at least try experiments. His usual subject was a young girl called Mia Osta, the only daughter of an officer's widow who ekes out a living by taking in sewing. In the presence of two witnesses he put his subject into a hypnotic sleep. He then recalled to her that her lover had returned from war suffering from shell shock and had been brought to Professor Jauregg's clinic. Mia Osta replied to this that the professor had murdered her lover. Senn then gave her a revolver and told her to call on Jauregg and revenge herself. The revolver was an old-fashioned weapon and had been made harmless, of course, by Senn.

Acting on this criminal suggestion, to the huge delight of Senn, poor Mia Osta had to wait two days before she could get her opportunity, which she used as the story has recounted. She was put to sleep on Nov. 11 and was awakened yesterday at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. Senn tells his story today and naturally exults that Jaureg was attacked by a subject to whom a criminal suggestion had been made, despite the professor's assertions that the thing was impossible, and that the professor was unable to detect the fact that the girl was under hypnotic influence, although he is a learned psychologist.

Of course the Professor is bound to reply to Senn's allegations, and perhaps the police will also have something to say.

CLEMENCEAU PICKED FOCH TO WIN WAR

FOUND ENGLISH OBSTACLES

PARIS, Nov. 15.—"While the Tiger's Away the Jackals Play," is the title of a cartoon in L'Homme Libre on the campaign now being waged against ex-Premier Clemenceau. The cartoon depicts a group of meagre little animals dancing around a bonfire entitled "Peace Treaty." In the background there is a vista of India's coral strand with a Royal Bengal tiger admiring it.

I am in a position to tell the circumstances that led up to the meeting at Doullens, where Foch was chosen generalissimo. In February, 1918, Clemenceau was informed by his military advisers that a terrific German attack was impending on the allied front. Whether or not he expected the disaster that actually occurred he got in touch with the British Government with a view to appointing a single commander for the whole front in France. He was met by opposition from three quarters in England. First, the War Office, which had strong objection to being subordinated to a foreigner; second, the General Staff, largely from a feeling of natural loyalty to their own chief; third, the commander in chief, who had painful memories of the slaughter of English troops as a consequence of a semi-subordination to the French plans during Nivelle's unhappy offensive in Champagne in April, 1917.

Haig was above all a leader who wished to economize the lives of his soldiers. Without personal ambition he felt that he was serving a sacred trust if he exposed the lives of British soldiers to the control of a Frenchman about whose capacity he was not fully convinced.

The man in view for generalissimo was the French commander, General Pétain. But all the Englishmen knew of him was that he was a silent man with a cold eye. There was an additional obstacle that he was by far the junior of Marshal Haig at the beginning of the war and still inferior in rank.

To meet these objections Clemenceau must find a man of outstanding military worth who had already won his spurs. Foch, one of the greatest European authorities on the art of war, the hero of a daring manoeuvre at the Battle of the Marne, and a man who had actually commanded British troops with success at the battle of Flanders in the end of 1914, seemed clearly indicated. And there was reason to believe that Marshal Haig, who had already collaborated successfully with him, would raise no objection to his appointment.

During the early years of the war, and when Foch was suggested as the successor to Joffre, a strong party in Parliament opposed him as being clerical and reactionary. Nevertheless the Tiger chose Foch. They said to him: "Foch is clerical and reactionary."

I am informed that Clemenceau replied to one of the highest personages in France: "I don't care if he is Buddhist or Baptist, provided he can win; that is all I want."

No two men were ever less in tune, but Clemenceau, like other dictators of his calibre, saw that Foch, and Foch only was his man.

The General Staff's interest and passion were that Pétain should be chosen generalissimo. From Pétain himself there was little opposition, but the junta surrounding him espoused his cause with influence and vehemence.

Despite the support of Lloyd George and Lord Millner, Clemenceau was unable to impose his decision until after the disaster of March 16.

SUSPECT GERMANY GAVE 'ERSATZ' FLAGS

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Only one of the thirteen flags of 1870 which have been restored by Germany and were carried in the procession on Armistice Day is crowned by the imperial eagle of Napoleon III., and this has led to questioning whether Germany has not shown bad faith in this and supplied "Ersatz" flags.

Le Matin this morning says that the expert sent to Germany to recover the flags was cheated, and when he sought to get flags was told about how nearly all had been burned in the troubles after the armistice. A second expert, it is said, has been sent to make further inquiry and try to find in Berlin, Potsdam and Munich the flags which have been concealed. At the Army Museum it is stated that flags such as these are real and the fact that the eagles are not among them is because the flags were captured from the army of defense after the revolution.

The museum authorities state that they known the history of all the flags restored and how and where they were captured. They refuse to believe that they are "Ersatz."

Whether all the other flags perished in the armistice disturbances is, however, another matter. Information in French possession points to the probability that there are still many flags of the old-army style hidden in Germany.

AIRPLANE BOMB DROPS IN CROWDED CHURCH

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—According to a dispatch received by the Lithuanian Legation today, the city of Kovno was subjected to a severe bombing raid Sunday by Polish troops, in which many unarmed citizens, including women and children, were killed.

The dispatch said that while services were being held Sunday morning at a large Catholic church in the town of Wilkemir, a Polish bomb from an airplane was dropped through the roof and exploded among the kneeling congregation, killing and wounding many. The bombing of Wilkemir, the dispatch said, began about 11 o'clock in the morning, totally without warning to the peaceful inhabitants.

The legation has information that a commission from the League of Nations, now in session at Geneva, arrived in Kovno this morning and urged the Poles to cease hostilities at once, pending a discussion of the differences between Poland and Lithuania by the League. The President of the commission stated that the war between Poland and Lithuania would be taken up at once by the Geneva conference.

LAW GAINING IRISH, LLOYD GEORGE SAYS

MORE HOPEFUL TURN SEEN

Political Writer Hears That Sinn Fein May Abandon Their Extremist Campaign.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—In the House of Commons this evening Lord Henry Cavendish-Bentinck asked the Prime Minister whether it was not now quite evident that the Government's Irish policy, based on force, had completely and hopelessly broken down, and whether it was not more probable that the pacification of Ireland could be better secured by the application of liberal principles than principles of militarism.

Mr. Lloyd George replied: "I do not agree that it is evident that a policy based on force has failed. Every law is based to a large extent upon force. Unless a law can be enforced, then that law is perfectly futile. We are simply enforcing the law in Ireland, and I think we are doing it successfully. It is perfectly true that now the police, instead of remaining inside their barracks, as they had to do two or three months ago, until we were ready, are going all over the country and enforcing the law. They are running much greater risks, and consequently there are heavier casualties, but we have overwhelming evidence that the power and authority of the law are being established throughout the whole country."

Sees More Hopeful Turn.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Suggestions that the Irish situation may soon take a turn for the better are made tonight by the political correspondent of the Star. "Is the real heart of Ireland," he asks, "growing tired of murder and counter-murder, outrage and retaliation, and fear not merely of arson and assassination but of paralysis of industry in the south owing to the dislocation of the railways? Close political observers are, I think, conscious that some kind of compromise or accommodation is not far off.

"An Irishman, a Sinn Feiner of some influence in Dublin, said here in London last night that he did not think the action of Arthur Griffith in releasing the Cork mayor sisters from their pledge had attracted the attention it deserved. He thought it meant more than the saving of half a score of lives. He hinted that before long an appeal would be forthcoming—he did not indicate whether it would proceed from the same source—counselling the same minority of actual extremists in Ireland to allow the campaign against the police to slow down.

"There is a strong suspicion that the pending action of the House of Lords on the Home Rule bill may be important. It contains several Peers who took part recently in the Irish Peace Convention, and they may be relied upon to take an independent attitude toward the Government proposals.

"Meanwhile the Premier hopes that the south will show itself, sooner rather than later, as willing as Ulster to work the Government scheme, and he will then consider it safe to grant wider powers, first to the dual and then to a united Irish Parliament."

The Daily Mail Dublin correspondent sends a dispatch which gives support to The Star's information that the Sinn Feiners are likely before long to make a peace move. He writes:

"There is again talk of peace and conciliation in Ireland. The power of the Sinn Fein extremists is broken, the extremists are now on the run, their names and methods are well known and slowly but surely revolver rule is being quashed, hence the inevitable change in Irish politics.

"The extreme Sinn Fein is no longer popular. Moderates are again being listened to, and now is the time for wise British administration to find the cynics and make one more effort to bring peace where peace has not been known. The country is ripe for settlement."

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The Irish Home Rule bill passed its first reading in the House of Lords today. Nov. 23 has been fixed for the second reading of the bill, when its rejection will be moved by Lord Dunraven.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Mrs. Terence MacSwiney, widow of the late Lord Mayor of Cork, today cabled the Villard Committee of One Hundred which proposes to investigate the Irish question, that she had obtained a passport and would sail on Nov. 24 for the United States to testify in the hearings to be held here by the commission.

ROB DUBLIN SAVINGS BANK.

Two Youths Also Compel Depositors to Empty Pockets.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Nov. 15.—A daring robbery took place Saturday night at the Dublin Savings Bank, lower Abbey Street, which is within a couple of hundred yards of Sackville Street. As the bank caters to the working classes, it remains open on Saturday nights until 8 o'clock, and at 7:50, when the business for the day was drawing to a close, two men dashed in, and, brandishing revolvers, shouted "Hands up!" to clerks and a few customers who remained.

The cashier and desk clerks were driven out of their office. One of the robbers umped over the counter to where the cash was deposited and proceeded to fill his pockets with bundles of notes and silver. When his pockets were full he withdrew, leaving more than £40 in silver behind him.

In the meantime his accomplice, having covered the customers—a number of elderly people making small deposits from their earnings of the week—compelled them to empty their pockets and throw the money on the floor.

"I have no more," said a poor woman as she parted with ten shillings, a sum which she had saved from her week's wages. Having helped themselves to the money the two men decamped and it is believed got away in a waiting motor car. They were young and smartly dressed, wearing trench coats and soft hats, also rubber soled shoes. Nearly £800 is missing.

AMERICAN HELD IN LONDON.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The Daily Chronicle announces the arrest today in London of an American, Leo Berman, who was manager of a branch of Lloyds Bank in Aldgate, and a Russian named Praeger, described as an insurance manager, on a charge of dealing in alleged forged bills of acceptance amounting to over £900.

The Chronicle says the arrests followed a number of serious frauds in connection with dealings in high finance which considerably mystified banking circles. Bogus documents have been in circulation, and the amounts involved are stated to be many thousand pounds.

Men's Clothing Cut 40 Per Cent. By Rochester Manufacturers

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Cuts in the wholesale prices of men's Fall and Winter suits, ranging from 33 1-3 to 40 per cent., were announced today by nineteen Rochester clothing manufacturers who are members of the National Association of Manufacturing Clothiers. Spring lines of the same manufacturers opened today at prices 30 per cent. lower than last year's prices. The price cuts are to take effect immediately.

No statement was made by any of the manufacturers in explanation of the price decline, but factories are known to have on hand large stocks of unsold and returned Winter suits. Overcoat stocks are said not to be large.

TREATY WITH JAPAN HAS BEEN DRAFTED

SENT TO TWO GOVERNMENTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Ambassador Morris and Ambassador Shidehara, it is understood, have completed the drafting of the proposed new treaty between Japan and the United States for clearer definition of Japanese rights in the United States and American rights in Japan, and their reports are said to have been submitted to their Governments.

The findings of the Ambassadors are in the form of recommendations and seek to lay a basis for settlement of the land-ownership question and the clarification of disputed points concerning the rights of the nationals of either nation in the territories of the other.

The recommendations also include an amplified gentlemen's agreement respecting Japanese emigration to the United States, but whether this provides for the exclusion of Japanese farmers as well as laborers is not known.

OKUMA ATTACKS PLAN TO EXCLUDE JAPANESE

TOKYO, Nov. 15. (Associated Press).—Marquis Okuma, former Japanese Premier, addressing a meeting today, strongly attacked the plan to exclude Japanese from America by treaty. He pointed out that hitherto immigration had been restricted under a voluntary agreement because it was realized that restriction was prejudicial to Japan's prestige. The present effort to make restriction statutory, he said, was an act of infidelity to Japanese-American friendship.

The former Premier believed that Washington would be able to stop California measures of hostility by enlisting the public opinion of the whole country. If Japan's appeals to America's sense of international morality failed, the speaker continued, only force remained. Japan sincerely desired a solution of the problem, he concluded, fearing that otherwise the question would lead up to an outburst of self-sacrificing patriotism for which the Japanese people were noted.

NEW AMERICAN SPY TALE.

Tokyo Paper Has "Confession" of Another Would-Be Seller of Maps.

TOKYO, Nov. 15.—Another spy story affecting American officials is published in the Yomiuri Shimbun, which says that Sergeant Major Hasegawa of the Formosa garrison was arrested recently outside the American consulate at Taihoku which he was visiting, it declares, in connection with the disposal of stolen plans of fortifications. The newspaper says that Hasegawa confessed that he stole the plans in April and offered them to Henry B. Hitchcock, American Consul at Taihoku, who, Hasegawa alleged, agreed to purchase them for $50,000.

Hasegawa took the plans home, awaiting the money, the newspaper continues. Consul Hitchcock went to America in October, Eugene H. Dooman, formerly Consul at Kobe, succeeding him. When Hasegawa again visited the consulate he was arrested.

The facts of the case according to the American Chargé d'Affaires here, are that in April last a Japanese visited Consul Hitchcock and offered him the plans. Mr. Hitchcock declined to discuss the matter. Later the man visited Consul Dooman, who telephoned the police and caused his arrest.

MOB JAPANESE CHRISTIANS.

TOKYO, Nov. 15.—Anti-Christian mobs twice broke up Salvation Army jubilee celebrations here yesterday. Gangs of students dispersed an open-air gathering, while a mob invaded an indoor meeting, tore down the decorations and silenced the speakers. Officials of the Salvation Army declare they believe the disturbances were fomented by Buddhists.

WILSON FIXES WIRE POLICY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—President Wilson has taken personal direction of the major American policies to be adopted with regard to matters before the International Communications Conference now in session here.

Under Secretary Davis of the State Department, Chairman of the American Commissioners to the conference, has been in frequent consultation with the President since the convening of the conference.

The President's interest in the subjects before the communications conference is known to have been inspired by the discussions in Paris at meetings of the Council of Five of the disposition of the German cables and other matters relating to international agreements on communications.

CONGRESS FACES A HEAVY DEFICIT

BUDGET PLAN WILL START

Committee of 35 Is Likely to Consider All Appropriations of Coming Session.

REPRESENTS 8 COMMITTEES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—One of the largest deficits in governmental expenses in recent history will have to be met before the coming session of Congress adjourns for the Christmas holidays, according to clerks of the Budget Committee who are now preparing the appropriation schedules. The deficit results, it is said, from the course of the Appropriations Committee in reducing estimates radically at the last session with the idea of showing economies before election.

The House Appropriations Committee, as then constituted, ceased to exist with the session. It will appear at the coming session as a Budget Committee enlarged to thirty-five members. This reform, proposed as a necessary part of the budget system, will be carried into effect despite the fact that President Wilson vetoed the bill creating the system.

No budget will be presented by the executive departments, as was planned, but the House will consider the department estimates in this one committee instead of in eight. The new committee, if the plans of leaders are accepted by the House Committee on Committees, will consist of the old Appropriations Committee of twenty-one members and the Chairman and ranking minority member of each of seven other committees which passed on appropriation bills under the old system.

While the budget plan cannot be carried into full effect at the coming short session, even if the Senate should pass the budget bill amended to meet Wilson's objections, yet the House leaders will try to show, by considering appropriations in one committee, that the departmental estimates can be disposed of promptly and with an eye to economy.

President Wilson vetoed the budget bill because it provided for an executive controller to be appointed by him but subject to removal by Congress. He held that this feature was unconstitutional in that it infringed on his prerogative. The House amended the bill to meet this objection, giving the President authority also to remove the controller. The amended measure was caught in the last day jam in the Senate, but the upper house is expected to act on it so that the budget system may go into effect for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1921.

If the plans of leaders are adopted the House Budget Committee for the coming session will be made up as follows:

OPERA OPENS WITH GREAT BRILLIANCY

ROSA PONSELLE AS HEROINE

BY RICHARD ALDRICH.

Cardinal Brogni ..... Leon Rothier
The Princess ..... Evelyn Scotney

The Metropolitan Opera House opened its doors last evening for another season with a performance of Halévy's opera of "La Juive" under auspices to be considered favorable. The burning desire to hear operatic performances and to be present at one of the most highly esteemed functions of New York society invades all strata of the population equally, nor is it tempered by any disposition to manifest criticism of what is offered. The subscription list is said to be larger than ever before, even at advanced figures. There is no need to say, therefore, that the eagerness to witness the opening performance of the season is significant for that occasion only; it may be chastened by the passage of the Winter months, but it will persist to the end of the season.

And so there was a very large audience present at the performance last evening; an audience that was considered "brilliant," or at least "representative," by those best qualified to judge of audiences, of brilliancy and of representation. It is perhaps a matter of somewhat less importance on an opening night that the opera was "La Juive," and even that Mr. Caruso appeared in the tenor's part. The audience and the brilliancy would not have been much less under other circumstances; but it could hardly be said that the enthusiasm of this first-night audience was overwhelming.

Excellent Role for Caruso.

"La Juive" was accounted one of the successful new productions of last season, after a number of years during which it had had no representation at all in New York, and a good many in which it had had no really good ones. Its success was in great measure, probably in greatest measure, due to the fact that it affords an excellent part for Mr. Caruso—one of the best that has been added to his repertory in recent years. It gives him numerous airs and ensemble pieces to sing that he seems to find congenial, and it brings out his best qualities as a singer, tempting him less than some others to exercise his worst ones. It also gives him an opportunity for some of his best acting, for creating a portrait that has distinctive traits and that, again, brings out the best qualities of his somewhat limited range as an actor. The representation that he gives is a sincere and earnest one, one that denotes study and insight. There is the suggestion of the intensity of passion and of savagery of revenge that are at the foundation of the character. They are forcibly shown in Mr. Caruso's impersonation, which has the outward semblance traditionally assigned to Shylock.

Mr. Caruso sings much of his part with fine breadth of style and beauty of voice, without excess of lachrymose utterance. It is conventional music, lacking largely in distinction and showing now the wrinkles of age. But it is well adapted to the voice and hence capable of making its effect, though there is little to linger in the memory. And this quality is the one that most persistently characterize Halévy's music through the opera; in the solo passages given to the other singers, in the ensemble pieces and the choruses. Time was when this music was considered in Paris and elsewhere highly "scientific," something beyond the comprehension, and hence the liking, of opera-goers. It may be now beyond their liking, but not because it is beyond their comprehension.

Splendid Stage Pictures.

Another source of the first success of the opera in Paris was its opportunity for lavish and picturesque stage setting. The opportunity is accepted now with something of a higher sense of artistic values than it was in the Paris of the '30s, when the employment of numerous horses in the pageant earned it the title of the "opéra Franconi"—Franconi being the proprietor of a famous equestrian establishment of the period. There are comparatively few horses deployed on the Metropolitan stage now; but there are some stage settings of strikingly artistic quality. All of Mr. Urban's stage pictures, in fact, are devised with a fine sense of composition and color. None of them is finer than that representing the interior of Eleazer's house at the celebration of the Passover—a scene that, in its chiaroscuro might have been the subject of a canvas of Rembrandt. The pageantry, the picturesquely costumed throngs that people the stage, the ballet, the elaborate pantomime of the Emperor's festival are handsome and skillfully arranged.

Miss Ponselle Sings Rachel.

The cast is nearly the same as it was last season. Miss Ponselle as the Rachel gives a robust impersonation; she has some excellent opportunities for singing, some of which she accepts; but to others she does considerable violence. Mr. Rothier as the Cardinal is one of the high lights of the performance, in the impressiveness with which he invests a generally conventional character and the excellence of his singing in voice and in style. Mr. Harrold as Leopold is heard in the part in which he made his entrance into the Metropolitan company last season. He makes much of the part from a dramatic point of view, but he did some singing last evening that his admirers would rather have had a little different.

Miss Scotney's attempt at impersonating the Princess left a good deal to be desired in tone and in the right performance of the few florid passages that are allotted to her. Mr. Bodansky conducted a performance that was in most respects excellent.

A brilliant assembly attended the first night of the opera. For the first time since the shadows of the great war lifted, the parterre shone resplendently as in ante-bellum days. In fact, last night's display was the most gorgeous array of costuming ever seen at the opera.

The color effect was most striking. There were orange and canary, emerald green and rose red, pinks and blues, bronzes and gold, and every other shade in the spectrum. The jewels were chiefly confined to bandeaus of diamonds and other precious stones, and superb ropes of pearls. Here and there a large plastron or necklace of diamonds scintillatted through the shimmer of varying brilliant shades of gowns. Paradise feather fans and ostrich fans of striking colors stirred amid the scene of color.

Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney and Mrs. Payne Whitney were in Box 30. Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney was in a low cut gown of canary colored velvet and carried a fan of canary colored bird of Paradise feathers. TELEPHONE COMPANY TELLS OF DEFICITS

SAYS LOSS IS $1,000,000

Asks for $17,000,000 Increase in Revenue Because of $10,000,000 Advance in Operating Expenses.

The New York Telephone Company presented yesterday before the Public Service Commission for the Second District an array of figures to sustain its petition for increased rates in this city. At the close of the hearing John R. Swayze, chief counsel for the company, announced his side of the case closed. He asked that the company receive immediate relief and be allowed to submit a schedule of rates based on its valuation of $117,655,745. He asked for 8 per cent. on this total, with provisions for an added million, which, he said, was the annual deficit. The monthly loss to the company was now, he said, $74,709, or approximately $1,000,000 a year.

Assistant Corporation Counsel M. M. Fertig objected to any action until he had an opportunity to cross-examine, and obtained a delay until Dec. 6, when the hearing will be continued.

Objection developed to the payment by the company of 4½ per cent. to the American Telephone and Telegraph Company for use of inventions and to $450,000 a year for publicity and advertising being included in the schedule of expenditures. One objector declared it was really not the New York Telephone Company that was asking for more money, but the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

W. D. Willmot, representing the Flatlands section, objected to the existence of "zones." He said that in the telephone business there was no such thing as the "long and short haul" and there should be no extra tolls for service between various sections within the city. Chairman Hill told Mr. Willmot that the commission would give consideration to this question.

As representing Midland Park, located in Zone 5, William F. Heussenbuttel objected to the proposed elimination of the neighborhood flat rate for service. He said they would be willing to pay from 20 to 25 per cent. increase if the telephone company could show it was necessary. Chairman Charles B. Hill of the commission pointed out that the company contended the message rate was the fairer, as the subscriber paid only for what he used, while under the flat rate he paid for an instrument often idle.

Mr. Fuller placed the company's operating expenses for 1920 at approximately $46,107,800. In 1921, he estimated, these expenses would be $56,028,500. He figured net revenue for 1920 at $2,403,200, and for 1921, under the proposed increases, $14,492,306.

Edward W. Beattle, tax attorney for the telephone company, testified that during 1920 the company paid in taxes $3,252,761. He estimated the 1921 taxes at $3,300,000, due to property acquired during the year. The 1920 expenses in the traffic department R. E. Walker, General Supervisor of Traffic, placed at $21,776,000, and the 1921 estimate at $24,640,000.

Returns from the Red Cross campaign for 400,000 new members, so far audited, showed that up to noon yesterday $67,000 had been turned in, representing about three days' work by 4,000 solicitors. Sunday's receipts were not included. The Districts Division led the divisions with $14,737 already reported. In the theatres $9,400 was collected.

Twenty-four young women chaperoned by Mrs. John M. Bowers visited the Horse Show in Madison Square Garden yesterday afternoon and evening and left behind a train of Red Cross buttons. Tex Ricard put his name down for $100 and six others followed his example.

At noon today twelve young women from the chorus of "Kissing Time" will march down Broadway soliciting members. Following this they will go to Wall Street to make the financial crowd "give up."

TWO MEN BEAT GIRL, ROB HOME OF $4,500

Miss Lillian Scenenva, 18 years old, of 640 Taylor Avenue, the Bronx, was attacked in her home last evening by two men, who gained entrance on the false representation that they were detectives. One of the men knocked the girl unconscious by a blow on the head with a milk bottle and the pair then ransacked the house and stole Italian lire to the value of $3,000 and jewelry valued at $1,500. The girl, who gave an alarm from a window after recovering consciousness, was taken to Fordham Hospital with a possible fracture of the skull.

Miss Scenenva is housekeeper for her father, Carmine Scenenva, an employe of the Street Cleaning Department, and her two brothers. The elder Scenenva is reported to have made considerable money during the last two years by taking advantage of the rate of exchange and dealing in Italian currency.

The girl was alone when two men rang the doorbell of the two-story frame home and, saying they were detectives, asked if a man they had been chasing had entered. Miss Scenenva told them that no one had come in, but the two men brushed by her. On her remonstrance one of them picked up a milk bottle and struck her on the head. They then dragged her into a bedroom and locked the door.

After the thieves had left, taking with them a bundle of Italian currency and jewelry, including seven pairs of diamond earrings and seven gold watches, the girl crept to a front window and by breaking the glass attracted the attention of two children, who ran for help to a saloon kept by Ralph Peppe at 626 Taylor Avenue. Peppe went to the Scenenva home and found the injured girl. He notified the police of the Westchester station.

WILLARD FOR RAILROAD ACT.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15.—Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, in his report submitted to stockholders at their annual meeting in this city today, recommended the Esch-Cummins transportation act, pointing out that while the law in some respects might be incomplete and inadequate time would develop what changes are necessary.

"But in the opinion of your management, Mr. Willard said, "it is a most constructive piece of legislation, and one which should command the hearty cooperation of all those interested in the transportation industry."

Mr. Willard declared that an important feature of the act is the provision to assure just and reasonable wages and working conditions at all times and under all circumstances to the railway workers by establishing a board to be known as the Railroad Labor Board.

"In this connection," Mr. Willard explained, "Congress evidently acted with a full realization of the importance of an uninterrupted transportation service, and being unwilling to deprive the workers of the right to strike, has sought to provide the machinery which shall make it unnecessary under any circumstances for the men to stop work in order to obtain just and reasonable treatment.

"Since the enactment of the law the Labor Board appointed by the President has made a comprehensive adjustment in wages of substantially all railroad employes, and the Interstate Commerce Commission has approved increases in rates and charges designed to meet requirements of the act. The prompt action of the Labor Board and the commission, taken in conjunction with the general provisions of the Transportation act, should go far toward improving the efficiency of railroad operation and should assure a reasonable return upon the value of properties devoted to public use, thus assuring the country adequate transportation facilities and efficient service for the future."

Inez Barbour in Song Recital.

Henry Hadley, who will conduct the Philharmonic this week and who composed the only American opera retained for the metropolitan season, assisted yesterday at an Aeolian song matinée given by his wife, well known on the concert stage under her own name, Inez Barbour. The artistic pair were associated in a final group of songs, including, by request, Hadley's "Berceuse" to French text, and three novelties to poems of Lawrence Hope and Tagore. The former Miss Barbour also sang to Richard Hageman's accompaniment her earlier classics of Bishop, Mozart and Bach, adding to the last named an air from the "Coffee" cantata, arranged by W. H. Humiston; several of Schumann and Brahms, and some archly varied French pieces, the animated "Ne Blanc" of Hue and Duparc's "Chanson Triste," especially deserving her audience's frankly expressed admiration.

A Card of Thanks to the great American theatre-going public, along with a review of "The Tavern," by Dorothy Parker, from Ainslee's Magazine for December.

It is an uncomfortable thing to be at variance with regular critics. There is a guilty feeling connected with it, as if one were admittedly at fault in not agreeing with them; surely, one thinks, as one cringes before their stern columns of impressive newspaper type, such neatly arranged and widely circulated opinions must be infallible. And yet what is there to do about it, when a play on which all the critics have turned down their thumbs in one beautifully simultaneous gesture seems to one the best entertainment of the season? There is nothing left but to mutter sullenly that one may not know anything about art, but one knows what is perfectly great.

To dispense with some of the "one's," the case in point is "The Tavern," produced by George M. Cohan at his own theatre. The piece was written originally by Miss Cora Dick Gantt, who, it is said, intended it in all seriousness as a melodrama of the romanticist school. And Mr. Cohan has taken that melodrama and burlesqued it, unmistakably even as, in "The Royal Vagabond," he burlesqued the merry-villager comic opera. The result is an evening to look back on for the remainder of a lifetime.

One—or at least, this one, which is what is usually meant by the person employing the word—has long dreamed non-Freudian dreams of a burlesque, built of speeches and situations from all the particularly hair-raising productions that have gone before; Mr. Cohan has built his burlesque of these, and has done immeasurably more by adding those masterly touches which no other living playwright could add. "The Tavern" has all the immortal lines, from "You would not put even a dumb beast out on a night like this" to "It was you, you black-hearted snake, who made me the thing I am today." It has all the immortal characters—the vagabond stranger, unmistakably a gentleman beneath his patches, courtly of manner and swaggering of carriage, talking with whimsical philosophy of love and life; the half-witted hired man; the sturdy innkeeper; the blustering sheriff; His Excellency, the Governor; the incessantly swooning, wronged girl—all, all are there, the old familiar faces. It has all the immortal devices—the pistol which only the hero knows is not loaded; the tall clock on the stairs, which, though its hands remain ever stationary, ticks loudly in the more tense moments of the action; the howling storm, with the lightning politely yielding precedence to the thunder, and with the drenching rain from which all the characters emerge comfortably dry.

But it has much more, in those twists which no one but Mr. Cohan could conceive and no one but Mr. Cohan would dare to carry out. For example, the governor and his party wear clothes of the period around 1820, while the vagabond wears a conventional Chauncey Olcott costume dated about thirty years earlier, and the sheriff appears in modern Western attire. For instance, the wronged woman accuses not merely one man, but each male member of the cast, in turn, of being her betrayer. For added example, the sheriff looms up out of the storm carrying a wounded man, and later looms up again, carefully bearing in the same man.

No, there is no use in trying to report it; the typewriter's touch is too heavy. All one can do is to throw awe of the newspapers recklessly aside, and proclaim that here is an entertainment sent from heaven, via Mr. Cohan. See it for yourself, though you must come in from Jersey to do so; see Arnold Daly's gorgeous performance of the vagabond; see Spencer Charters as the hired man; see, in short, the whole company, under the tutelage of Mr. Cohan, show a melodrama how to take a joke. And if "The Tavern" is not running by the time this comes out, write to your congressman and demand its immediate revival.

Of course, the question arises, what does the authoress think of her masterpiece now that George Cohan has finished with it. It is fairly safe to predict that, should "The Tavern" not have the overwhelming success which it deserves, the first person to call Mr. Cohan's attention to the fact that she told him so, will be Miss Cora Dick Gantt. Certainly, the play could have received no more ponderous notices if it had been presented with all the seriousness that its loving author thought its due; some reviewers complained of the antiquity of its lines; one spoke quite harshly of the "injudicious dressing" of one of the characters. Oh, well, it takes all sorts of people to make a world!

And, now, I suppose we have to come down to the month's output of other playwrights. How naturally do all writers for the stage fall under those two headings—George M. Cohan and Other Playwrights! * * *

Which brings us right back to the place we started and forces us to repeat with redoubled emphasis that "The Tavern" is the event of the year.

THE PLAY

By Alexander Woollcott

Lurid Melodrama at the Playhouse.

A Woman ..... Mary Nash
A Man ..... Jose Ruben
A Soldier ..... Curtis Cooksey
A Guard ..... Edwin Maynard

There are an unusually large number of opportunities for what is taut and suspensive in the colorful and violent melodrama called "Thy Name Is Woman," which made its long-delayed New York appearance last evening at the Playhouse. A few of these are realized, especially in the theatrically effective last act, which is so uncommonly tense and absorbing that it almost obliterates the resentful memories of the scenes leading up to it. The earlier opportunities, however, are almost all of them forfeited by the crudities of a performance more awakward than any the present season has witnessed.

"Thy Name is Woman," which, according to its somewnat enigmatic program, seems to have been taken from the German of Carl Schoner by an actor named Benjamin F. Glazer, is a borderland melodrama in more senses than one. Besides dealing with a smuggler chase in the defiles of the Pyrenees, it is one of those plays which stand undecided between what is substantial and thrilling even in a sophisticated theatre and what is merely cheap and lurid trash.

It remains for the director to make the decision and, according to the same program, the director in this instance was that exceedingly competent player, but apparently inferior director, Jose Ruben. Most of "Thy Name Is Woman" is played with the blacksmith touch, most of it driven home in a manner that insultingly assumes something less than the decent minimum of intelligence in the expectant audience across the footlights. Last night this procedure was very fittingly rewarded by startled and derisive laughter.

It seems probable that David Belasco, for instance, could take this same script, for all its raw edges, the same praiseworthy Spanish setting, even the same fair-to-middling company, and, with these materials, make something three or four times as satisfactory in the way of entertainment as the piece unfurled last evening at the Playhouse. To be sure, there would then be a deal of reproachful head shaking over his disposition to waste his talent as a director on the coarser and cheaper literatures of the theatre.

But this question of the direction is worth thus enlarging upon in this case because it seems to be what ails "Thy Name Is Woman." Certainly something is needed to explain the otherwise incomprehensible goings on of Mary Nash and Curtis Cooksey in three scenes which are played with the rhythm of a bunch of firecrackers in fitful and sporadic explosion. There are times in the play when Miss Nash is very good and others when she is almost startlingly bad. It is all very, very strange.

"Thy Name Is Woman" is worked out in the smuggler's eyrie between the sick, old blockade runner, his young and motherly little wife, and the large and stupid young soldier who has been sent out by the commander of the border guard to learn the old fox's secrets by worming them from his susceptible wife. The old fox welcomes the trick as one he can turn neatly enough on the authorities by simply having the pretty wife hold the soldier indoors and blind him to the smuggling which is then renewed with increased enthusiasm.

How the young folk, thus placed in dangerous juxtaposition, fall madly in love with each other and thus upset the expectations of everybody except those of the wily old playgoer—that is the story of a play which, in its final scene, takes an extraordinarily tight grip on him. Were it not for that, he would be inclined to suggest that "Thy Name Is Woman" be changed to "The Smuggler's Bride" and shifted to another circuit.

GAS POISONING KILLS FOUR.

Mrs. A. Friedman, 80 years old, of 328 Henry Street, died from gas poisoning when her room was flooded with fumes escaping from a stove. A defective stove also caused the death of John Movey, who was 65 years old and lived in a furnished room at 295 Ninth Avenue. Accidental disconnection of a gas tube brought death to Johann Sehr of 63 Prospect Place.

John Goellner of 701 Eleventh Avenue, Astoria, was found dead in a bedroom of his home by his wife, Margaret. Gas jets on a stove were open. At first Mrs. Goellner denied knowledge of any trouble and said she could assign no reason for the apparent suicide. Later, according to the police, she said that her husband had been drinking, had tried to light the stove, failed, and had gone back to bed thinking that the stove had been lighted. She said she did not believe that he had taken his own life.

ARREST IN MAIL ROBBERY.

Youth Admits Aiding Others in Iowa Crime.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, Nov. 15.—Post office inspectors today arrested Merl Phillips, aged 20, employed as a local railway mail sorter, in connection with the mail car robbery here on Saturday night. They said he had confessed having had a part in the robbery, and that he implicated two other men.

According to the inspectors, young Phillips told them he was riding on the engine tender at the time of the robbery, and was acting as a lookout; that he knew of the plans but did not participate further in the robbery.

No official or authentic estimate of the value of the eight or nine registered mail sacks stolen was obtainable this morning.

Sheriff Holds "Poor Little Ritz Girl"

The scenery and costumes of Lew Fields's production of "The Poor Little Ritz Girl," which had a Summer and Fall run here at the Central Theatre, were attached in Newark on Saturday night by Charles Purcell, and the show was thereby prevented from continuing on its route. It had been booked to play last night in Easton, Pa.

Purcell, who was starred in the piece until a week prior to the end of the New York run, claims that he was engaged under an oral contract in Boston on July 1, at a salary varying from $800 to $1,000 weekly. He was discharged, he declares, on Oct. 2, and claims $6,000 as a result.

Actors' Fidelity Adds Directors.

The Actors' Fidelity League, at a meeting at Henry Miller's Theatre on Sunday night, increased the membership of its Board of Directors from twenty-one to thirty-three members. The new Directors elected were Ina Claire, Patricia Collinge, Curtis Cooksey, Olive Wyndham, Sidney Toler, Ben Johnson, Lionel Brahatn, Arleen Hackett, Kenyon Bishop, Wilson Reynolds, Marguerite St. John and Frank L. Sylvester.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Olive Wyndham will have the sole feminine role in William Archer's play, "The Green Goddess," which Winthrop Ames is producing. George Arliss will be starred in the piece.

Vera Gordon appeared at the head of the new Palace program yesterday in a sketch by Edgar Allan Woolf, entitled, "Lullaby." Joseph E. Howard and John B. Hymer and company were also on the bill.

Alma Tell last night appeared for the first time in "When We Are Young" at the opening of that piece in Baltimore. The play, with Henry Hull and George Marion also in the cast, will come to the Broadhurst next Monday night.

Olive May has been added to the cast of "Daddy Dumplins," which will come to the Republic next Monday.

There has been an advance ticket sale of more than $9,000 for the Equity Ball, which will take place at the Hotel Astor next Saturday night.

Norman Trevor's lecture on "The Actor," under the auspices of the New York Drama League, on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 21, will take place at the Times Square Theatre, instead of the Garrick Theatre, on account of the necessity for a larger house.

This illustration shows the No. 1 Hoffman Air Valve—the watchman. It is for use in ordinary one-pipe steam systems. It costs $2.15. It is all metal and sealed against adjustment. Scientifically tested at the factory, it is guaranteed in writing for five years. Heating contractors everywhere sell and install Hoffmans, but if your dealer should not have them, send $2.15 to New York office for a sample valve. A descriptive booklet with lots of information regarding steam heating systems sent on request

Precious Coal!

Every house owner is facing a coal shortage—a cold house this winter. Perhaps he has children. These little tots must be comfortable if they are to be kept well.

To be sure, he can get some coal—but not all he wants, and it will cost so much that he faces the winter's coal bill with dismay.

How then to solve the problem? The answer is—the coal must be made to last longer—to give more heat—nine tons must do the work of ten. Impossible, you say? Not if the heating system is steam.

Put a No. 1 Hoffman Valve on every radiator and there's the answer. You'll then have a watchman of the coal pile.

Perhaps you do not know that the air valves on radiators spell the difference between a noisy, lukewarm, coal-devouring steam system and a quiet, red-hot, coal-saving one. It's true—experts agree on it. Hoffman Valves insure warmth and comfort at lowest possible steam pressure. No waste effort—no waste heat. Hence, they cut a surprising slice from your coal bill—or better still, they see that you get more heat from less coal.

Buy just one valve from your heating contractor today. Test it on your worst radiator. Then have your entire system equipped. You take no chances. The manufacturer guarantees satisfaction for five years—in writing.

Why Hudson Utility Appeals to Business Men

He knows Hudson is the supreme performance type among all the world's cars. Its stock car records in speed, hill-climbing, acceleration and endurance have never been matched.

Its speed and power do not come from great motor size and high fuel consumption. The exclusive Super-Six principle gets 76 H. P., from a light, conventional motor that formerly developed 42 H. P. at maximum.

That means that even extraordinary calls impose no strain or abuse on Hudson. It accounts for the way Hudsons retain new car ability when they have grown old in point of years and use. It removes the costly burden and annoyance of frequent repairs and service attention.

With all the other desirable things men find in Hudson, this accounts also for the additional triumph of true economy.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—8 per cent. for the best names. Saturday—8 per cent. for the best names. The quotations are for six months' paper.

Few Gray Goods Sales.

Few gray goods sales were made here yesterday and those that were were confined to deliveries during the remainder of this month. Much of the limited business done was in sateens and twills, which are said to have been sold by second hands at quite liberal concessions. Sheetings and fine-yarn goods were bare of interesting features during the day. In the printcloths 27-inch 64-60s brought 6¼ cents, with second hands the sellers. There were fairly well-established reports that the wider 64-60s had moved from similar sources at 8½ cents.

⁂

To Keep Public Informed.

The recently formed Bureau of Public Relations of the clothing manufacturers' organization is expected to help counteract any wrong conclusions the public may have formed about the business. The duty of this bureau, it was stated, will be to put the wholesale clothier's side of the question before the public whenever the occasion arises. In addition, the organization will also undertake research work in the interests of the industry, so that the manufacturers themselves may be accurately informed of conditions within the business.

The Tax Payment Due.

The final installment on income taxes, which is due on Dec. 15, is regarded in the wholesale dry goods and garment lines as a factor which will hasten readjustment in the retail trade. Manufacturers and wholesalers believe that the need of money to pay taxes will hurry along the retail sales which are required in order that present stocks be liquidated. The complaint is heard on all sides among wholesalers that considerable price averaging is still going on among stores unwilling to take the losses incident to re-pricing goods on a replacement cost basis.

Is More Production Best Now?

The question has been raised here in connection with manufacturing concerns which have increased the weekly number of working hours in their plants instead of reducing wages, as to whether that is the best way to solve the problem which is responsible for the change. While admitting that increased production, which the concerns in question are trying to obtain, would doubtless make it possible to decrease selling prices, the point is made that increased production at this time might not be a good thing in a general way. With wholesalers and retailers in their present non-buying mood, it is contended that greater production is likely to mean only an increase in the glut of merchandise in the market.

Fur Catch Reports Conflict.

Reports that have been received in the local fur trade recently from Canada conflict quite noticeably regarding the catch prospects for the coming season. Some of them say that a large catch is expected. This is especially true of those emanating from the Northwestern part of the Dominion, where the trappers depend very largely on their Winter's work for their entire year's living. From Eastern Canada come reports which say that, because of the lower prices prevailing, many trappers will give less attention to the work this year than they have for some years past. A smaller catch in this country is said to be quite certain. This is presaged, for one thing, by the sharp decrease in sales of traps and other equipment which is told of by the manufacturers.

Pressing Winter Hat Campaign.

There has been no let-up, in the campaign of the Retail Millinery Association of America to popularize Winter hats for Winter wear. Under the query "If you sell January goods now, what will you sell in January?" Executive Secretary Jerome C. Mendel has sent an interesting bulletin to the members of the organization. In part, it says: "This is the time to push Winter goods for all they are worth and leave the straws and lightweight fabrics alone. Let us all concentrate our energy on Winter hats for Winter wear. Push fashionable Winter goods, such as furs (hats), stitched felt hats, fur and duvetyn combinations and velvets trimmed with fur. There is plenty of business to be had on true Winter materials, so keep away from the unseasonable."

⁂

Worried Over Hesitant Trade.

Among garment wholesalers there is considerable complaint and anxiety that retailers may put off re-pricing of merchandise on the basis of present market values until the season is lost. If this occurs the manufacturers feel that prospects of a more normal Spring season are just that much retarded. The wholesalers feel an injustice is being done them by those retailers who refuse to price goods on a replacement basis because the entire burden of reduction is thus placed on the manufacturers, who are unable to get a proper turn-over. In other words, the wholesale business is being done on a policy of large sales and small profits, but the obstacle to large sales is the retail element which refuses to put on prices which will create volume.

Feeling Out Process.

The opinion is held in lines that come in contact with foreign goods that the present trade effort in this country of manufacturers abroad is in the nature of a "feeling out process." By this is meant that the foreign manufacturers have not yet reached a point where they are making a heavy drive for business, but are testing out various lines here. The real drive, it is felt, will come later if nothing interferes. It is said that in woolens for men's wear and dress goods the principal factor making importations here has been England, but that lately German manufacturers have given signs of interest. It is this country which is expected to make the most well-developed effort here, as it is thought that in England and France wages have risen to a point where old values have disappeared.

Clothing Price Guarantee Ends.

It was considered a little too early yesterday to judge the results from the ending of the price guarantee on men's suits. It was known, however, that quite a few orders were placed prior to yesterday at substantial reductions, the goods to be shipped when the guarantee was lifted. The local association of clothiers a short time ago suggested that the probable result after Nov. 15 would be for manufacturers to group their merchandise into two classes. One would be that group which would depreciate greatly in value by being carried over to another season, and the other would be made up of goods which were desirable and might be held without any great loss. It was suggested that the first class would probably see large price reductions while the second class of merchandise would not be sacrificed. In the market yesterday it was felt that this plan would probably be generally followed.

STATE OF JEWELRY TRADE.

In a report on business conditions just issued, the National Wholesale Jewelers' Association with headquarters in Philadelphia, gives excerpts from letters received in answer to an inquiry made to determine the present situation in the jewelry trade. The question which seemed to provoke most interest was the opinion sought on price reductions and whether such would occur in the jewelry trade in sympathy with concessions made in other commodities. This was generally answered in the negative, the jewelers pointing out that their product was advanced only a small percentage in comparison with other articles, and then only when it was necessary to take care of increased cost of manufacture. In reply one manufacturer stated:

"We do not believe there is any chance of a price reduction of our products. Our labor is hardly receiving sufficiently high wages even now as compared with carpenters, painters, &c., in this vicinity, whose trade can most certainly not be considered more skilled. This condition is bound to be apparent to our employes, and we certainly would not consider lowering their wages so long as it exists. The price advances of our products and, we believe, of jewelry in general have been slight as compared with other products and will be no more than sufficient to take care of the higher wage schedule which we think is bound to continue unless business comes to an absolute standstill."

In regard to individual production as compared with pre-war times, some of the manufacturers profess to see no difference, while others note that there has been a decline anywhere from 20 per cent. to a third. One concern reports introducing improved methods which have increased production, and another finds no slacking in effort because of the loyalty of the employes.

A satisfactory improvement in deliveries has been found in the last six months, and only a few concerns complain of being behindhand in shipping goods. Collections are found to be slow, with a good many debtors endeavoring to settle their bills by notes, extending the time of payment. Several of those who answered the inquiry concerning the return of goods stated that there was more of this sort of thing being practiced than usual. Others professed to see no change in this respect.

CARPET AND RUG PRICES.

Following the lower values established at the 45,000-bale auction sale of rugs and carpetings held here last week by the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company, a revised price list was issued yesterday by the company covering its goods for the coming Spring season. The new list, although divided into two parts, one of which applies to orders recorded prior to Jan. 1 and the other to those taken after that date, shows substantial decreases from the original Spring prices, which were issued on Oct. 1.

The following table gives the new prices announced on the 9 by 12 sizes yesterday, together with those given out on Oct. 1. The first column contains the quotations relating to goods sold before Jan. 1, while the second gives those applying to orders placed after the turn of the year. The third column gives the Oct. 1 prices:

AXMINSTERS.
Alpine	$33.00	$36.30	$48.00
Ardsley	40.20	44.25	50.10
Carlton	51.00	56.10	61.50
Yonkers	54.00	59.40	68.40
Kirman	56.40	62.10	72.00
TAPESTRIES.
Hudson	22.80	25.10	27.95
Manor	26.70	29.40	33.50
Nepperhan	34.20	37.50	39.95
VELVETS.
Katonah	36.60	33.60	38.10
Palisade	42.60	46.80	61.60
Colonial	52.80	58.20	63.60
Wilton	72.00	79.20	86.10

The same before and after Jan. 1 arrangement was used in repricing carpets. On tapestry and velvet carpets the prices ranged from $1.37 and $1.49 to $13.20 and $14.50, against a range of from $1.77 to $16.45 on Oct. 1. In the Axminster carpets the new figures run from $1.87 and $2.04 to $8.17 and $8.97, the second figure in each case covering orders placed after Jan. 1. The price range on Axminsters in the Oct. 1 list was from $2.57 to $10.20.

The new prices are subject to change without notice, and orders are accepted subject to the ability of the company to deliver the goods by March 31. Goods are sold free on board mills, and the selling terms allow 4 per cent. discount for payment in ten days. No dating is mentioned in the terms.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Recovery in Stocks, Wheat and Sterling, Declines Elsewhere —Money 7 Per Cent.

Although yesterday's markets gave little sign of enthusiastic recovery from last week's sweeping declines, the downward movement was at least arrested in most of them. On the Stock Exchange a considerable part of the active list (principally railway shares) closed at net advances for the day; sterling exchange ended fractionally higher than Saturday and wheat at Chicago rose 5½ cents a bushel, retaining most of the improvement. These several advances were not scored, however, until after prices had in each case gone below Saturday's closing, and there were declines for the day elsewhere. Many of the industrial stocks ended lower; so did French and Italian Exchange rates, and the cash price for cotton, corn and copper went to new low figures for the year to date.

Such recovery as occurred on the Stock Exchange was ascribed to the favorable statements, made since Saturday's market closed by the Federal Reserve and the New York Associated Banks. The call money market reflected this better banking position; it declined to 7 per cent. for the second time since Oct. 22, and for the first time in two weeks it did not go above 8½ per cent. all day. There was, however, no sign of relaxation in the prohibitive Wall Street rates for time loans and merchants' paper.

It was a matter of some comment that last week's reduction in the Federal Reserve system's loans and outstanding circulation had brought the one account to the lowest total in three weeks and the other to the lowest in five weeks. These changes are well worth watching; they are apt to show when a climax of tension is past, and they certainly foreshadow a great contraction in both accounts after the year end. But as yet the position is not appreciably changed. In the reserve ratio as reported by the separate Reserve Banks it was noteworthy that while New York and the Western and Southern districts were practically unchanged, Boston was distinctly weaker, Philadelphia and Cleveland much stronger.

The day's movement of stocks was confused. In the early trading such industrial shares as United States Steel, Baldwin Locomotive, Crucible Steel and United States Rubber fell to new low prices for the year and the whole market declined with them. At the low level thus reached there were unmistakable signs of large repurchases for the "bear account," which caused so abrupt a recovery that even the stocks which had made "new low records" closed in most cases at advances. The recovery left the general run of industrial shares with very irregular changes, largely declines. In the railway shares, gains of 1 to 2 points were numerous. Total transactions rose again to the neighborhood of a million shares.

For the recovery in wheat, which brought the December delivery 10¼ cents above last week's lowest price, there was the logical explanation that export buying had been large again in this latest reaction of prices. The past week's decline in fact carried the Chicago price well below that of the Canadian markets and necessarily shifted to the United States the heavy foreign orders. The "visible supply" in this country is 54,000,000 bushels less than a year ago and in Canada only 2,000,000 bushels above 1919, while the estimated "world's visible" as of Nov. 1 was 163,000,000 bushels below the same date a year before.

This only means, however, that in the existing abnormal situation of prices and credit the indispensable requirements of consumers have been the controlling influence, and not the potential supply. The day's net decline in the cotton market, after an early and substantial recovery from Saturday's closing, merely reflected the condition of the Southern banks, of the Southern borrowers on cotton and of the home spinning industry. Europe has been buying cotton freely as well as wheat at the recent prices; but the Census Bureau's report of Saturday showed that while cotton exports in October were the largest of any corresponding month since 1915, the month's purchases by American mills were the smallest since the war began.

MONEY.

MONDAY, NOV. 15, 1920.

Money on call on the Stock Exchange Monday opened, and was high at 8½ per cent., at which rate renewals were made; low and last, 7 per cent. Time money ruled unchanged, 8@8¼ per cent. on mixed collateral, and 8¼@8½ per cent. on all industrial. It is expected that the Government will withdraw approximately $9,200,000 of its deposits from the associated banks Tuesday. Commercial paper was in fair demand at rates of 8 per cent. for prime names, and 8¼ per cent. on less choice names.

SPANISH RATE UP IN DULL EXCHANGE MARKET

With the exception of a brisk recovery of exchange on Madrid, yesterday's market was devoid of movements to attract attention. Pesetas swung upward from Saturday's last quotation of 11.84 to 12.46. Sterling sight drafts were quoted between 3.36 and 3.37, the latter rate showing a net gain for the day of ⅜ of a cent. Francs and lire moved to slightly lower levels than on Saturday, but marks and most other Central European exchanges were somewhat firmer than on Saturday. Bankers reported light business in all the markets.

CONSORTIUM TERMS ARE SENT TO PEKING

Conditions for Financial Aid Are Set Forth, but Amounts Are Not Mentioned.

NOW AWAIT CHINA'S REPLY

Representatives of the bankers interested in the Chinese consortium have forwarded to the Premier and the Minister of Finance of the Peking Government the outline of a comprehensive and constructive program, which the consortium is prepared to follow in its dealings with China. The communication, it was said yesterday, sets forth the consortium's attitude with regard to the financing of public improvements, currency reform, taxation, &c.

Conditions under which advances of money and credit may be expected by the Peking Government from the consortium lso were presented in this document, but according to a banker who has been prominent in the councils of the consortium group, no specific figures were mentioned, nor was it stated when any advances would be made. The initiative in loan negotiations will have to come from the Chinese, and thus far no formal application for a loan or loans has been made.

The letter addressed to the Peking Government also contained a report of what was done at the recent meeting of representatives of the four national groups held in this city, including the resolution urging the creation of a Chinese group to participate with the others. The bankers here, and the other members of the consortium, in England, France and Japan, are now awaiting a reply from China, and it was said yesterday that in all probability the matter would be susceptible of no further development until this reply is received.

Regarding the reports which have been coming out of Peking of late to the effect that the Chinese Minister of Finance expects to depend almost entirely upon Chinese bankers for whatever assistance the Government may require, it was explained that this probably was mainly for political effect. It also is expected to quicken Chinese interest in the consortium and in the development of Chinese initiative, two things greatly to be desired by the members of the consortium. One banker said that if these alleged utterances of the Minister of Finance result in greater efforts on the part of Chinese bankers to serve their own country, they will have served a notable purpose.

It also was explained that there was a certain radical element in Peking politics, the so-called "student" element, which was bitterly opposed to outside interference in Chinese affairs, and this element was supposed to be fearful that the consortium was anxious merely to exploit China for its own gains. The consortium has repeatedly assured the Peking Government that it has no such intentions and responsible interests in China are said to be convinced of the sincerity of the foreign bankers and that only through its efforts can real progress and development of the country be accomplished.

MERCHANTS TO HEAR GEDDES

Governor-Elect Miller Also to Speak at Commerce Chamber Dinner.

Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador to the United States, and Governor-elect Nathan L. Miller are to be the principal speakers at the 152d annual dinner of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York at the Waldorf on Thursday night. Darwin P. Kingsley, President of the Chamber, will preside. Among other guests expected are General John J. Pershing, H. Gloster Armstrong, British Consul General; Charles M. Winchester, the right Rev. Charles S. Burch, A. Barton Hepburn, Alfred E. Marling, Eugentus H. Outerbridge, George E. McCoy, Julius Henry Cohen, Hugh Galbraith and William Allan Dyer.

About 700 members of the Chamber and friends have arranged to attend the dinner. John J. Pulleyn, Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, said yesterday it would be one of the most notable in the long history of banquets given by the Chamber.

BOHEMIAN BANK BOND OFFER

Issue of 10,000,000 Crowns Put on American Market.

A new issue of 10,000,000 crowns 4½ per cent. perpetual fund bonds of the Royal Bank of Bohemia are being offered on the American market. The issue, which is the first to be made of a foreign bank security during the reconstruction period, was negotiated in Prague by J. G. White & Co. The bonds are guaranteed, principal and interest, by the Bohemian Government.

The banking firm, in announcing the issue yesterday, recommended the bonds as a speculation, owing to the low position of Czechoslovakian exchange and the possibilities of recovery when the foreign trade of Bohemia increases.

UPHOLDS NEW YORK TAX.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Constitutionality of provisions of New York tax laws requiring payment of additional taxes on the transfer of "non-tax paid bonds" was upheld today by the Supreme Court.

Action of the court was taken in the appeal of executors of the estate of the late Frederick Watson, who attacked the additional tax as violating the Fourteenth Amendment.

B. & O. CORPORATE INCOME INCREASES

Report for Last Year Shows That Common Earnings Rose from $1.74 to $4.06 a Share.

FEDERAL INCOME $5,055,991

After $27,748,824 Compensation, the Government Operating Loss Is $22,692,833.

The annual report of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad for last year which was issued yesterday, showed net corporate income after charges, taxes and lap-over items amounting to $8,580,022. This after the deduction of $2,354,531 in preferred dividends was equal to $4.06 a share earned on the $151,945,548 outstanding common stock. In the preceding year $1.74 a share was earned on the common then outstanding. If lap-over items could be excluded the showing for the common would have been $6.74 a share as compared with $5.68 a share in 1918.

The report carried the usual Federal operating accounts. These showed that net Federal income from operation of the property in 1919 was only $5,055,991. As Federal compensation for the year had been set at $27,748,824, the loss to the Government from operation was $22,692,833 which in itself was an increase over the Government loss in 1918 which was $20,663,926. Some of the outstanding items in the company's report follow:

The balance sheet of the company as of Dec. 31, 1919, gives some idea of where the road stands in its relations with the Government. Under the general head of "deferred assets" are the following items: Cash paid to the Railroad Administration, balances at the close of 1917, materials and supplies as of the same date, corporate assets collected by Government, depreciation on equipment, unpaid compensation which at the close of last year was in excess of $20,000,000 and other items aggregating $84,139,849.

Under the head of deferred liabilities and offsetting the foregoing occur some of the following items: Additions and betterments expenditures, allocated equipment, liabilities paid by the Government, transactions handled through Federal accounts, miscellaneous accounts and the like, aggregating $92,417. The report says in part:

Federal operation and control terminated Feb. 29, 1920, and approximate figures available at the time this report is issued indicate a net balance due the Director General of Railroads for additions and betterments of about $10,000,000, the exact amount of which, when finally determined, after taking credit for property retired and not replaced and accrued depreciation, will be funded for ten years, as provided by the Transportation act of 1920, through the issue of this company's obligations to the Government."

Denver & Rio Grande Stockholders Want Judgment Sale Postponed.

OMAHA, Nov. 15.—The application by a stockholders' committee of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad for a sixty-day postponement of the date set for the sale of the road under a $36,000,000 judgment obtained by the Equitable Trust Company of New York was taken under consideration in Federal Court here late today.

Arguments for and against granting a postponement were heard by Judges R. E. Lewis of Denver and W. H. Sanborn of St. Paul, neither of whom intimated when a decision would be handed down. Counsel for the trust company opposed the application.

Counsel for the Stockholders' Committee declared that the case would be appealed if the application was not granted. The postponement of the date of the sale, which had been set for Nov. 20, was sought, it was explained, to give the Stockholders' Committee an opportunity to file a bill for review in New York in an effort to obtain a reversal of the judgment.

TIDE WATER OIL GAINS.

Business for Nine Months Increases More Than $11,000,000.

The Tide Water Oil Company shows for the nine months ended Sept. 30 a total volume of business amounting to $45,620,415, an increase of more than $11,000,000 over the corresponding period of last year. After Federal taxes, the net income was $9,446,882, as compared with $7,899,500 in 1919.

After alloting the proportion of earnings for outside stockholders, the amount available for Tide Water stockholders was $9,431,246, an increase of $1,557,440 over the same item in the report for nine months of 1919. The surplus of the company on Sept. 30 was $22,498,284, or $4,636,729 more than on Sept. 30 of last year.

National Banks Get Extension.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Extension until next June 30, of regulations permitting national banks to purchase or discount six months commercial paper up to 10 per cent. of their capitalization was announced today by Controller of the Currency Williams. The paper must be secured by 105 per cent. of the amount in Liberty bonds or certificates of indebtedness.

BANKERS TO STUDY CUBAN CREDIT PLAN

SUGAR MEN COMING HERE

Bank Heads, After Visit to Island, Report Foreign Interests on Sound Basis.

The conference of bankers who are concerned with the Cuban situation, which was to have taken place yesterday, will be held today, and from it important developments are expected. Whether the conference will result in the arranging of a big bank credit for the benefit of Cuban sugar interests or not is not known, and probably will not be until the confrères get together. If a loan is arranged, it is expected to be a group affair, with the leading local banks interested in Cuba acting jointly.

A number of private and more or less informal conferences have been held and it was said yesterday that some extensions of credit have been made. But these have been on a relatively small scale and nothing comprehensive has as yet been attempted. Today's conference is likely to produce a comprehensive plan which will be designed to take care of the whole situation.

Representatives of some of the leading Cuban sugar mill interests are now on their way to New York. They were to have arrived yesterday, but were delayed. It is expected that they will get here today, and it is possible that before night they will also have been in conference with local bankers.

E. W. Stetson and E. A. Potter, Jr., Vice Presidents of the Guaranty Trust Company, yesterday returned to New York after a brief trip of inspection of the banking and business situation in Cuba. Commenting on the results of his observations, Mr. Stetson said:

"The Cuban situation is a very mixed one, for which there is no ready-made solution. There are three obvious courses which might be followed to bring relief: The flotation of a Cuban Government loan the proceeds of which should be used primarily in supporting the sugar industry; the extension of a banking credit in some form to the Cuban banks, and a continuation of the present moratorium in a modified form until perhaps Feb. 1, when the present crop will have been prepared for the market.

"It must be borne in mind that the foreign banking interest in Cuba, which is the predominant one, is on a perfectly sound basis and able to meet its own problems. Furthermore, the large American interests in Cuba are also meeting their obligations, so the necessity for relief is confined to local enterprises which lack foreign support.

"This year's sugar crop will be one of the largest in the history of the island, and if the difficult period of credit strain can be passed without serious reaction prosperous conditions in Cuba may again be expected.

"The rich productivity of the island has, of course, not been affected. The problem presented is purely a banking problem, which can only be worked out in some manner along banking lines. Negotiations to that end are still in progress, but so far no general agreement or decision has been reached."

KANSAS MILLERS IN COURT.

Say They Curtailed Output Because of Cheaper Canadian Wheat.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 15.—Officials of Topeka flour mills, testifying today before the Kansas Court of Industrial Relations on a citation to show why they have limited production of flour without first obtaining permission provided by the Industrial Court act, said they had partly shut down because of a slack demand for Kansas flour. This was due, they said, to the fact that Northwestern mills, by using the cheaper Canadian wheat, were able to sell flour for about $1 a barrel less.

"So far as I know, this is the first case of this kind which has been tried in any court," said Presiding Judge W. L. Huggins, in opening the hearing.

F. S. Jackson, attorney for the Industrial Court, in his preliminary statement said the object of the citation was, first, to determine whether or not there has been a limitation of production, and, if so, the reason; then to determine if the court should make an order requiring mills to produce at a certain percentage of capacity or to cease entirely.

BIG FREIGHT DAMAGE BILL.

Railroads Hope to Reduce It from $110,000,000 to $60,000,000 a Year.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—R. H. Aishton, President of the American Railway Association, in opening the Freight Claim Prevention Congress here today, said that the freight loss and damage liabilities of the railroads were seriously depleting their revenues. Out of every dollar earned from freight, Mr. Aishton said, there was paid back for loss and damage claims in 1914, 1.63 cents and in 1919 3.03 cents. Freight losses and damages last year cost the railroads more than $104,000,000. The figures this year will be about $110,000,000.

The total increase in railway expenses since 1914, and especially since 1919, has been very large and the increase in loss and damage payments has been by no means a small part of it, according to Mr. Aishton. It is conservative to estimate that by more efficient operation and the co-operation of shippers in the way of better packing, marking and routing of freight, the railroads should be able speedily to reduce loss and damage payments by at least $50,000,000 a year.

STANDARD CLOSES BIG OIL CONTRACT

WILL PAY INCREASED PRICE

Producer Recently Brought In New Well Flowing 80,000 Barrels a Day.

One of the largest oil contracts on record has been closed between the Mexican Petroleum Company and the Standard Oil Company of New York, under which the former is to deliver to Standard of New York 150,000,000 barrels of gasoline during next year. This contract replaces one made a few years ago, with the difference that the quantity of gas to be supplied is increased and the price is substantially higher.

The gasoline will be delivered to Standard Oil tankers at Tampico, where the Mexican Petroleum Company has a topping plant which handles between 75,000 and 100,000 barrels of crude oil daily.

The Mexican Petroleum Company is one of the largest producers of Mexican crude oil and its output is being expanded steadily. One large well recently was bought in with a capacity of 80,000 barrels a day, supplementing heavy production from other wells of longer standing. The company is drilling several other wells which it is expected will be brought in before many weeks.

Only a short time ago Mexican Petroleum acquired an additional large acreage of prospective oil land in Mexico, the total holdings being now 1,500,000 acres. Through increased production of crude oil, Mexican Petroleum will be a correspondingly greater producer of gasoline, but the proportion of gasoline to Mexican oil is not as large as in the better grades of oil in this country.

OIL MEN TO DISCUSS INDUSTRY PROBLEM

When the annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute begins tomorrow in Washington to continue on Thursday and Friday, it is expected that more than 500 representatives of the oil industry will be present to hear the discussion of various phases of the world petroleum problem. Experts in all of the various fields of the petroleum industry will bring to the congress the latest word concerning the present and future supply of oil and advise as to the measures that should be taken so that production can keep pace with demand.

The first day, the world's petroleum problem will be discussed from the standpoint of America by W. C. Teagle, President of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Great Britain's view will be presented by Richard Airey, Vice President of the Roxana Petroleum Corporation, Royal Dutch Group, and the oil situation in Mexico will be described by Frederic R. Kellogg. Dr. George Otis Smith, Director of the United States Geological Survey, will speak on the world's oil supply.

The second general session will be devoted to addresses on production by R. D. Benson, President of the Tide Water Oil Company, who will tell of present production, and by Thomas A. O'Donnell, President of the Institute, who will talk of the future. In the evening session, C. F. Kettering of the General Motors Company will speak on the automotive industry, and Admiral W. S. Benson, Chairman of the Shipping Board, on the present and future demands of shipping for oil.

The general session on Friday will be devoted to the future of the oil business, and addresses will be delivered by Henry L. Doherty and M. L. Requa, Vice President of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation.

WARNS SPANISH WORKERS.

Economista Urges Bigger Production and Lower Pay to Avert a Crisis

MADRID, Nov. 15.—While admitting that the foreign exchange situation is extremely unfavorable for Spain at the present moment, the Economista foresees the possibility of some reaction soon, as the movement has become exaggerated by temporary factors. The paper says that United States industrial concerns, owing to decreased home consumption, have been enabled to increase their stocks and fill Spanish orders much more rapidly than buyers expected when they made contracts.

"Spain," the Economista continues, "has entered a period of 'lean kine policy' of economy, which is imperative both for the Government and private persons, and workers must change their tactics by increasing production and working more cheaply, otherwise we shall reach a worse monetary situation than we had in 1890, at the same time passing through a labor crisis more tremendous than ever has been registered in the history of Spain."

The Economista views with alarm the recent contracts of Spanish railroad companies for the purchase of rails in Belgium, which have been delivered to Spain at prices 15 per cent. lower than Spanish rates. The paper says that an important water supply company bought in France iron piping for its entire system at prices which were 25 per cent. under Spanish tenders.

The Economista also says that a northern Spanish railroad company is completing a contract to acquire a large number of locomotives from Germany at approximately 300,000 pesetas each, delivered, which is 40 per cent. under an offer received from the United States. It warns the Government that unless it rectifies energetically its economic policy there is likelihood that from 200,000 to 300,000 workers will be thrown out of employment with serious consequences to the country.

DOVER, Del., Nov. 15.—A Delaware charter was granted today to the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad Company, with a capital of $150,000,000, authorizing it to own and operate railroads and railways outside of Delaware.

The Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad Company was formed for the purpose of taking over the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad Company, which is scheduled to be disposed of at a receiver's sale next Saturday. It was stated yesterday by R. M. Arkush, of counsel for the new company, that a decision as to proceeding with its development depended on the outcome of a hearing before the Federal court, at Omaha, Neb., yesterday, in the Denver & Rio Grande case.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Lee, Higginson & Co. and the Liberty National Bank announce that they have sold at 98 and interest an issue of $4,000,000 City of Bergen, Norway, twenty-five year 8 per cent. sinking fund bonds.

Scott & Stump are offering a block of Fort Scott Sorghum Syrup Company's refunding serial first mortgage 7 per cent. bonds at prices to yield 8 per cent.

The United States Mortgage and Trust Company announces that holders of temporary certificates for the ten-year 7 per cent. gold bonds of the Delaware and Hudson Company may obtain permanent bonds at the office of the former company.

RING TRADERS HELP COTTON MARKET RISE

Prices Up 55 to 70 Points on Short Covering—React Later.

A lower opening, based on the disappointing Liverpool cables, was turned into a sharp upward movement in yesterday's cotton market when some reports of freezing weather in certain parts of the belt were used to drive in some of the more timid shorts. Just why the market should respond so notably to unfavorable weather at this time of year and when other conditions are so absolutely bearish is something of a mystery, but yesterday's market did just this. Obviously, there must have been a very large short interest, including some very timid traders.

On the rise, which was helped along by ring traders, who never allow themselves to become extended and who, therefore, always are in position to make quick turns, prices rose to net gains over Saturday's closing of 55 to about 70 points, and for a time the list looked stronger than in several days. That there was no real strength in the undertone became evident, however, late in the day, when on only moderate selling all of the mid-session gains were lost and the market went back to where it had left off last week. The late decline took the near months slightly under Saturday's last prices, and the far months just about broke even. At the close December was off 7, January was up an equal amount and the others to September were unchanged. Trading at no time was heavy and on more than a few occasions was quite dull.

Spots here, as well as in the South, bore out the idea that the strength in futures was of the most fleeting kind, for the local quotation for spots was down 15 points to a new low record of 19.25, and in the South almost all markets were down. Baltimore was the only one to remain above 19 cents and Wilmington, Houston, Fort Worth and Dallas were all under 18 cents. Dallas was the lowest, at 17.40.

Liverpool was heavy, both in futures and spots. The latter sold at 14.15d., which duplicates the low record for the year, made on Oct. 26.

Exports over Sunday were very heavy, amounting to 74,048 bales, against 57,837 in the same days last week, and 91,814 bales out in the same days two weeks ago.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Day.
Dec.	18.25	18.95	18.20	18.20@18.30	18.27
Jan.	17.70	18.50	17.70	17.85@17.90	17.78
March	17.35	18.25	17.35	17.68@17.75	17.63
May	17.50	18.05	17.50	17.50@17.55	17.50
July	17.35	17.85	17.25	17.25@17.30	17.25
Sept.	17.10	17.10	17.10	17.10	17.10

The local market for spot cotton was quiet, down 15 points to 19.25c for middling upland; sales nil.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, 18.50c, unchanged; New Orleans, 18.25c, down 50; Savannah, 19c, down 25; Augusta, 18c, down 50; Memphis, 18.50, down 1.00; Houston, 17.75c, down 25c; Little Rock, 19c, unchanged.

Yesterday's cotton statistics were:

	Yesterday.	Last Wk.	Last Yr.
Port receipts	31,175	36,851	34,835
Exports	22,734	52,226	7,126
Exports to Great Britain	1,335,227	1,208,445	1,372,269
N. Y. stocks	22,894	22,116	92,016
Port stocks	1,289,090	1,169,230	1,760,645
N. Y. arrivals	604	1,533	.....

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton was quiet at 14.15d for middling. Sales, 4,000 bales, of which American 3,000. Imports to-day, none. Futures opened easy, 19 to 32 points down and closed steady, 19 to 24 points down from Friday. Prices: December, 13.68d; March, 13.33d; May, 13.17d; July, 13.02d. Manchester: Yarns and cloths were dull and easier.

SAYS COAL IS COMING TO RELIEVE THE CITY

Health Commissioner Copeland said yesterday that sufficient coal was now on its way to this city to take care of the emergency demand for coal. This will be spread among coal yards in all residential parts of the city to be sold in small lots in order to prevent suffering during the next few weeks, when enough coal is expected to come in to give the city a safe margin.

Commissioner Copeland said that arrangements have been made for an emergency coal station at Thirty-fourth Street and Ninth Avenue, where 100-pound lots will be sold. The Health Department is in co-operation with the Stokes Coal Company for the purpose of establishing similar stations elsewhere.

According to J. F. Bermingham, Chairman of the Emergency Committee of the coal producers, there should be enough emergency coal in the city by tomorrow or the following day to take care of all cases of immediate distress.

The Coal Committee of the Building Managers and Owners' Association of New York, which has been investigating the coal shortage here, blames the Interstate Commerce Commission for favoring other sections of the country at the expense of New York and not allowing sufficient coal shipments to provide for this city, because this would interfere with the supplying of other regions.

DOUBTS BIG PRICE DROP.

Pre-War Level Will Never Return, Senator Calder Asserts.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 15.—Doubt that any big price declines will come soon and that prices ever will reach pre-war levels, was expressed by Senator W. M. Calder of New York, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Reconstruction and Production, which met here today to investigate housing conditions in Colorado and nearby States.

"Wherever we have gone," he said, "there seems to be a fairly general opinion that prices on building materials eventually must decline. The committee so far has found a decline in only one building material, lumber, which, after selling for $30 a thousand and then advanced to $90, has declined to $60.

"As long as the Government's great loans are out, labor is opposed to reductions in wages and the employer is opposed to reductions of his prices. I don't see much hope for heavy declines immediately, and it is doubtful if prices ever will attain their pre-war basis."

A petition signed by a number of organizations requesting the committee to consider the problem of aiding public utilities corporations was presented at this morning's session of the committee here.

The petition asked the committee to consider that the corporations must charge rates which will enable them to attract private capital. It asked Government credit through Federal Reserve banks at low interest rates as immediate relief.

URGES WHEAT BE WITHHELD

FARGO, N. D., Nov. 15.—If every farmer in the wheat belt would hold his wheat for twenty days the price would go to nearly $3 a bushel and would remain high, Abe Slaughter, national organizer for the Wheat Growers' Association of America, told grain growers here today.

Mr. Slaughter is here at the head of a delegation of seven Oklahoma farmers to organize wheat growers of North Dakota. After a conference late today these men will visit county seats throughout the State to form organizations for co-operative action on the part of all farmers in North Dakota.

Bankers in States already organized by the wheat growers are giving the farmers full co-operation in the plan to hold the wheat, the representatives of the association said.

COMMODITY PRICES

Wholesale Prices Show Little of Decided Trend—Copper and Cotton Low for Year.

There was a mixed trend of cash prices in yesterday's wholesale markets, wheat, for instance, advancing 2 cents per bushel, while corn receded 1½ cents per bushel, and to a low for the year. Oats was unchanged, but flour declined 25 cents per barrel.

In provisions, lard was firm at an advance of 65 cents, per hundred pounds, and pork, after being priced unchanged daily for some weeks, advanced yesterday $1.50 per 196 pounds. Beef, however, was unchanged.

In the metals, copper declined ¼ cent per pound, to a new low for the year, but the other metals were unchanged.

WHEAT MARKET HIGHER.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Material upturns in the price of wheat took place today with much of the buying ascribed to export houses, Bolsheviki success in Southern Russia was construed as a bullish factor. The market closed firm, 3¾c to 5½c net higher with December $1.83¾ to $1.74¼ and March $1.75¼ to $1.75¾. Corn finished unchanged to ¾c higher, oats up to ⅛ to ⅝ and provisions unchanged to an advance of 90c.

Throughout the day developments regarding grain attracted more attention in the wheat pit than did news about unfavorable aspects of the general business situation. This difference from the opposite tendency which has prevailed of late was especially noticeable concerning Russian advices, the popular assumption being that from now on there would be no grain shipments from Russia. Scantiness of receipts here, together with evidence multiplying that farmers were refusing to sell, counted also as a hindrance on the bears. The near approach of the end of lake navigation appeared to be a further stimulating influence, and a decidedly considerable notice was taken of comment that recent declines had been the most severe since the reconstruction period after the civil war.

Selling pressure on corn and oats forced them to the lowest prices yet this season but wheat strength brought about rallies.

Firmness in the provision market was largely the result of higher quotation on hogs.

BUYS IN CHELSEA FOR BUSINESS USE

SALE OF BOWERY CORNER

Additional indications of the gradual transformation of certain sections of the old Chelsea district, as have been shown by several recent deals in that area, were given yesterday in the purchase by Hugh Getty, the builder, of the two old residences at 360 and 362 West Twenty-seventh Street, each on a plot 21.6 by 98.9 feet, a total frontage of 43 feet. They are between Eighth and Ninth Avenues, that block having lately been placed in the construction zone. Mr. Getty owns the three abutting houses at 357 to 361 West Twenty-sixth Street and a parcel at 274 to 280 Ninth Avenue,, forming a T-shaped plot. The Twenty-seventh Street houses will be altered for business uses. Henry Brady acted as broker in the sale.

Buy Bowery Corner.

In the lower Bowery section an important transaction was closed through J. Finkelstein & Sons who sold for the Stief estate the five-story commercial structure on the northeast corner of the Bowery and Delancey Street. It covers a plot 25 by 95 feet and was held at $150,000. It is the first change of ownership in the property for many years. The property was purchased by a syndicate of investors and the deal was an all cash sale.

TRADING IN BROOKLYN.

Joseph P. Day sold for the Brooklyn City Railroad Company a plot 240 by 100 on the north side of Herkimer Street, 140 feet east of Brooklyn Avenue, to a client for investment. The property was held at $50,000.

William E. Harmon & Co. sold lots at Marlboro on the Broadway, Sea Beach and Culver subways to J. F. Odlund, George A. Sampson, M. Gottlish, M. Braun, A. H. Roni, E. H. Lamour, A. F. Lanigan, R. Dweck, A. V. Schdelger, Joseph Berger, James A. McHugh and Tobias and James A. Coleman; also in East Flatbush to Samuel Demello, Frank Senzin, Frank Montelcone, Thomas Savill and M. Barbara.

Joseph P. Day has leased for a term of years for the New York Dock Company their building, located at 120 Warren Street near Columbia Street, Brooklyn, to the Anheuser-Busch Agency, which will use the property as a distributing plant.

Deals in the Suburbs.

Frank J. Magerle has sold the two-story business building at 2,136 Jamaica Avenue, Richmond Hill, for Gerwitz & Girschmann.

Dr. Alex E. Wrensch sold his property, 159 North Mountain Avenue, Montclair, N. J., on a plot 50 by 170 feet, to Mrs. Frank Dyer. The property was held at $13,500 and the sale was negotiated by Frank Hughes Taylor Company.

The Lewis H. May Company sold for H. L. Stroley, the three-story hotel on the north side of Larkin Street, Arverne, to M. Bieber, who resold it to J. Fendrick. The plot is 100 by 125 feet.

The Frank Hughes Taylor Company has sold the dwelling at 1 Belvidere Place, Montclair, for Willie Wikstrom to J. T. Buntin. The plot is 60 by 140 feet.

Tenement Investments.

The three-story flat at 4 Mitchell Place (East Forty-ninth Street) has been sold by James Kyle & Sons for the United States Trust Company, the plot, 18 by 106 feet, being just east of First Avenue.

The Kellner Realty Company sold to Nathan Appelbaum, 159 Avenue C, southwest corner of Tenth Street, a five-story tenement with stores on a lot 24 by 85, held at $40,000.

Adam A. Schopp, executor, sold for $17,500 to Samuel Doiglns, the tenant, the four-story building with store at 307 First Avenue, 23 by 80, near Eighteenth Street.

Dwelling Buyers.

The Pierre & Golden Company sold 44 West Seventy-sixth Street, a four-story and basement private dwelling, on a lot 20 by 100, for the L. Sutro Estate to D. Daly.

The two three-story dwellings at 157 and 159 East Fifty-sixth Street, each on a plot 18.9 by 100, have been sold by Ferdinand Witt.

Edwin D. Johnson, as executor, sold to William Luick, 244 East Fifty-first Street, a three-story dwelling on a lot 20.10 by 64.5.

The Morange estate sold to Louis Marks the three-story and basement dwelling at 126 West 122d Street, on a lot 19 by 100.11, held at $23,000. Jacob Geisler was the broker in the deal.

The Bronx Market.

The Civil Service.

United States.

The commission announces an examination for assistant horticulturist, for both men and women, 21 to 45 years of age, in the Bureau of Plant Industry, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., and in the field, at $2,040 to $2,280 a year. Appointees may be allowed the increase granted by Congress of $20 a month. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on (1) education, 40; (2) experience, 40; (3) thesis, 20. The requisites are graduation from a college or university of recognized standing and in addition at least three years' practical experience in the cultivation and harvesting of peanuts and sweet potatoes, or in the experimental culture, adaptation and breeding of these crops. Age limits do not apply to persons entitled to preference because of military or naval service. Classified employes who have reached the retirement age and have served fifteen years are entitled to retirement with an annuity.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—An extensive area of low barometer has its centre over the East Central Gulf of Mexico and is advancing northeastward. Its influence is widespread, being attended by general rains in the South Atlantic, Middle Atlantic and East Gulf States and local snows in the region of the Great Lakes and the Ohio and upper Mississippi Valleys.

Storm warnings are displayed in connection with this storm on the Gulf Coast east of the mouth of the Mississippi River and on the Atlantic Coast from the Florida Straits northward to Delaware breakwater.

The outlook is for rains in the South Atlantic States and rains and snow in the Middle Atlantic and New England States and the upper Ohio Valley during Tuesday and probably Wednesday. In the region of the Great Lakes and the lower Ohio and lower Mississippi Valleys the weather will be generally fair Tuesday and Wednesday.

The temperature will fall on the south Atlantic Coast and will remain below the normal generally elsewhere east of the Mississippi River during Tuesday and Wednesday.

FORECAST FOR TODAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Northern New England—Cloudy Tuesday and Wednesday, probably snow.

South New England—Unsettled with probably rain or snow Tuesday and Wednesday.

East New York—Unsettled, rain on the coast, rain or snow in the interior Tuesday and probably Wednesday.

New Jersey—Rain on the coast and rain or snow in the interior Tuesday and probably Wednesday, no change in temperature.

West New York—Cloudy Tuesday and Wednesday, no change in temperature.

3 A. M.	34	34	4 P. M.	37	41
6 A. M.	36	35	6 P. M.	39	40
9 A. M.	39	36	9 P. M.	38	38
12 M.	35	40	11 P. M.		38

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 36; for the corresponding date last year it was 38; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 44.

The temperature at 8 A. M yesterday was 38, at 8 P. M. it was 38. Maximum temperature 40 degrees at 5:45 P. M., minimum 33 degrees at 3 A. M. Humidity 56 per cent. at 8 A. M., 77 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.40 inches, at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.39 inches.

OPPOSE VOTE COUNT DAY AFTER ELECTION

URGES SIMPLER BALLOT

Board of Elections Head Would Restore Party Column—Owens Favors Voting Machines.

Disapproval of the suggestion of Assistant District Attorney Alfred J. Talley for a change in the election law to permit the ballots to be counted the day after election to insure accuracy was expressed yesterday by John R. Voorhis, President of the Board of Elections, and L. C. Owens, Secretary of the Honest Ballot Association. Each believes that the proposed change would increase the opportunity for fraud instead of lessening it.

Mr. Voorhis said that, in his opinion, the thing needed was to simplify the ballot and that this could be done by the restoration of the party column, by which, as in former years, a voter could vote for every candidate of a party by marking a cross in a circle under the party emblem.

"Three-fourths of the electors vote 'straight' tickets," Mr. Voorhis said, "The restoration of the party column, which would still permit voters so inclined to scratch their tickets would simplify the count greatly."

Mr. Voorhis said he was opposed to Mr. Talley's suggestion for a delayed count, and said he did not believe the public would favor a system which permitted the ballot boxes to be taken from the polling places to the police stations before they were counted, no matter how stringent the rules for their protection. He said he did favor, however, the suggestion that school teachers and accountants be used for the count.

He also said he did not believe the reduction of the ratio of registered voters to an election district by an increase in the number of election districts would solve the difficulty, and said that in one Brooklyn district, where nearly 700 had registered, 657 men and women voted without difficulty. The remedy, he said, was in obtaining competent election officials, and for that reason he would like to see the restriction removed from a competent class of citizens.

Mr. Owens declared the Honest Ballot Association would look with disfavor upon the proposed change. "If we could get voting machines they would solve the difficulty, both in the vote and in the count," he said.

Mr. Talley said he had expected criticism of his proposal, but insisted that his investigation of the inaccuracies and irregularities of the count at the recent election had convinced him that something of the kind was necessary.

Taxes to be Revised But Not Cut

THAT is the essence of the recommendations drafted by Treasury officials, and submitted to the Secretary of the Treasury.

The following facts should be of interest to every taxpayer:

Eight billion dollars of indebtedness will be due for payment by the Government within the next three years. . . .

Retention of the four billion dollar program for the next three years to meet war obligations likely . . . . .

* * * *

The matter of tax returns, therefore, continues to be as important as in the past, and with changes about to come. Certified Public Accountancy Service that constantly keeps in touch with the problems of taxation becomes all the more important.

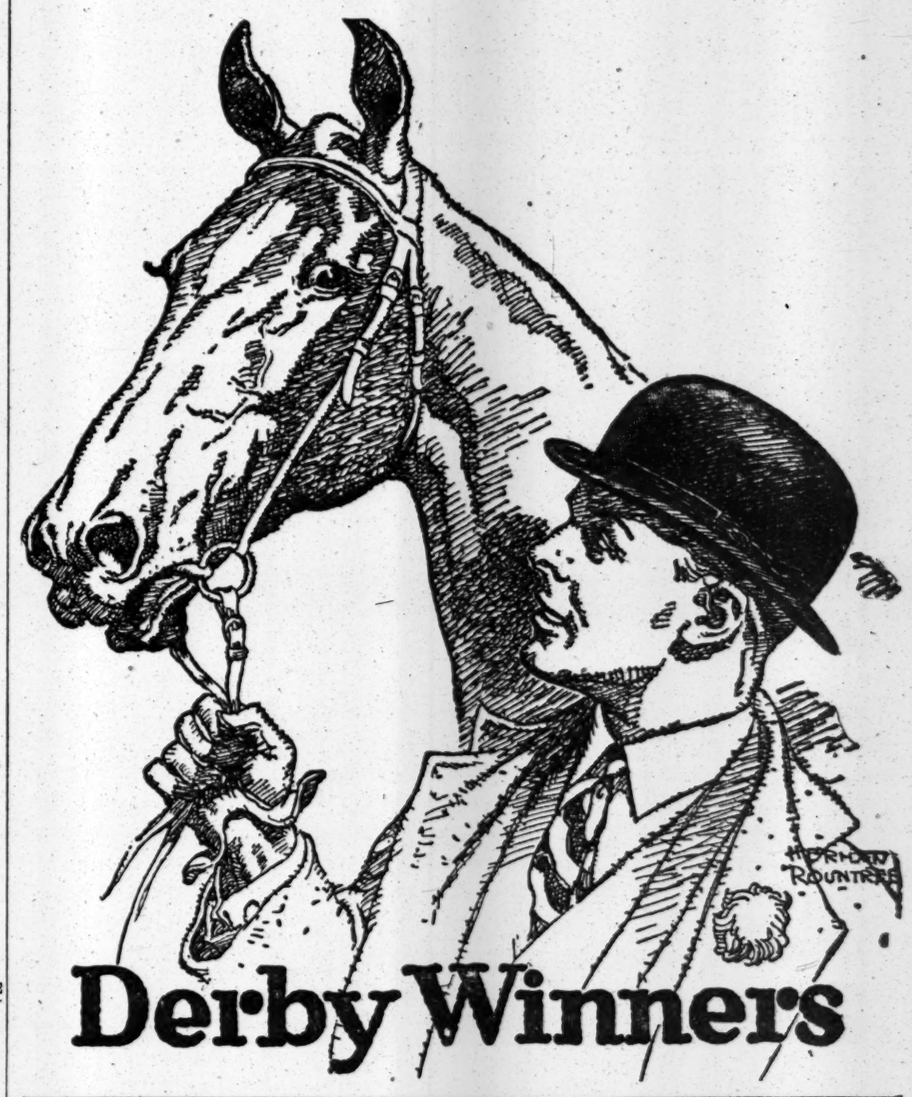
Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes



Derby Winners

WHEN the flag dropped for Fall business, we jumped in the front and led the field with a Soft Felt at $3.85. By establishing new standards of value at the start of the season, we broke all records in the Hat Business, and the Hat Trade blamed us for breaking the High Price of Hats.

At any rate, since I announced my price and said I was going to put my business on a pre-war basis, every hatter in the country has squeezed some of the excess profit out of his War Prices.

The other fellows figured that we couldn't hold our pace, and they thought they could hold their price. Now, they're busy reducing their prices to induce you to buy the odds and ends of their Soft Felt Stock, —And We're Off for the Derby Race.

If my $3.85 price for a Soft Felt caused a rumpus in the Hat Trade, my $3.85 price for a Stiff Felt will start a riot,—Because This is Going to be a Derby Year!

Thousands of young men who never wore a Derby before will put one on for the first time this week. Men who have always put on a Derby when they put on an Overcoat will buy a new Derby this week because the styles are new—And this is Derby Week.

This year the crown is lower and fuller. The brim is narrower and has more curl, with a heavier roll. Last year a Derby was simply a Stiff Hat,—this year a Derby has new lines and is brimful of style.

Of course, every man can't wear a Derby,—but I've got a Derby for every man who can. I have all the conservative shapes that the other fellow has, and some new shapes that the other fellow hasn't.

They're all one Price $3.85

Buying Blindly May Cost You a 23% Saving On Your Auto Insurance

HIS car almost hit a man. He immediately bought some insurance—without any idea of what such protection should cost.

Last year, every Liberty Mutual policyholder received, at policy termination, a 30% cash refund on his premium—a saving of at least 23% over stock-company cost. The Liberty Mutual's cash refunds have always been 30% of the automobile premium.

Buy your insurance at actual protection cost, in this strong mutual company, with its record for full and prompt settlements. Find out now what such protection should cost you. Mail the coupon—no obligation.
